ROOSEVELT ACTS IN TANGIER CASE

President Personally Directs State Department to Go to Any Extreme to Get Stensland Home.

ALL RED TAPE CUT AWAY.

"Tribune" Man and Harry Olson to Be Appointed Agents of United States to Bring the Fugitive Back.

BY RAYMOND.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Strangely waiting for me to conclude by brief story of how THE TRIBUNE ran Paul Stensland to earth in far away Tangier, and instantly comprehending the necessity for vigorous action entirely without regard to the traditions of international relations, President Roosevelt in the office room of his home on Sagamore Hill, overlooking Oyster Bay, today dictated the following characteristic dispatch:

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 6.—The Hon. Robert Bacon, Acting Secretary of State, Washington, D. C.: Is the Stensland case can the sultan of Morocco be asked, as a matter of grace, to extradite him? Then we can appoint James Easley and Harry Olson as our official representatives to take him in custody.

Find out from the navy and war departments if some ship is not coming home at this time on which he can be placed. I am informed that the refrigerating ship Glacier is on its way home, and could be used for this purpose.

This is desirable, because there are some foreign powers, as, for instance, France, with which we have no treaty covering embezzlement, and complications might come if the man were shipped home on an ordinary steamer.

I desire to go to any necessary extent in the effort to bring this man to justice. He is one of the most obnoxious types of criminals. He robbed hundreds of very poor people, and is said to have caused several suicides.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Roosevelt Quick to Act.

The president of the United States, thank goodness, is not merely strenuous but is exceedingly rapid in comprehension and in action. He dictated the major part of this dispatch after the briefest of explanations from me, and the concluding portion, the sting in the tail, was added after I had expressed a merely personal opinion as to the sufficiency and meanness of Stensland's crime.

It will be at least some little comfort to the victims of the Milwaukee Avenue bank disaster to find that President Roosevelt is in hearty sympathy with them, but more than that they will be interested in learning that with characteristic independence he has not hesitated to overturn the traditions of musty international law and to declare that he will go to any extent necessary to secure the return and consequent punishment of the bank wrecker who has stolen his millions, but who is none the less denounced by the president as "one of the most obnoxious types of criminals."

Visit to President's Home.

Sagamore Hill, the homestead of President Roosevelt, is a charming dwelling, and it was well worth waiting a little while in the great north room with its arched oaken roof, bison heads on each side of the fireplace, and general air of remarkable combination about it of a literary man turned sportsman, or a hunter reformed into a writer, it is hard to determine which.

Of course, my interview with the president regarding the Stensland case had been arranged for in advance by telegraphic communication with Mr. William Loeb Jr., secretary to the president, who has followed the details of the case from the beginning with extraordinary interest, and who has posted the president as to the international complications which have ensued.

Having been expected, the secret service guard at the top of the hill passed my carriage with a wave of his hand, as soon as he had received the name of the visitor. The president was dictating in his office, and as I sat in the north room I could hear his resonant voice rapidly composing one letter after another with the accurate rapidity which characterizes all of his mental and physical movements.

Willing to Do Anything.

After finishing this work the president himself came through the great hall and into the north room, welcoming me with outstretched hands, leading me into his office, and saying as he walked:

"I know what you have come here for and am entirely in sympathy with it. What do you want me to do?"

Thereupon we sat down in the office, the president facing Secretary Loeb and hurrying through with his correspondence, because Mrs. Longworth was expected on the noon train. I gave a brief history of the efforts of THE TRIBUNE to locate Stensland, of the remarkable trail it followed across the country, over the ocean, from England to Gibraltar, to Tangier, back to Gibraltar, and then back to Tangier, where the arrest was made in person by THE TRIBUNE representatives. I explained how necessary it was that the man on the ground—THE TRIBUNE representative, Mr. James Keeley, and the assistant state's attorney of Cook county, Mr. Olson—should be designated to bring Stensland back.

There also was a question as to whether the sultan of Morocco actually had been requested officially by the United States to return the fugitive. The state department at Washington is slow to make such requests, because under our laws we cannot give up any criminal, no matter how evident his guilt, without due process of law. As we cannot return the favor, the government is naturally diffident about asking foreign governments with which we have no extradition treaties to show us this extreme courtesy.

Recalls Boss Tweed's Case.

Furthermore, I rapidly recounted the fact that Boss Tweed, the great looter of New York, who stole pretty much all there was under the city government, when finally run to earth in Spain, with which country we had no extradition treaty, was turned over courteously by that government. Tweed was "induced" finally to board an American warship, and in that way he was brought back to the United States.

The necessity of an official request under

M'CABE IS OUSTED BY POLICY HOLDERS

International Committee Discharges Methodist Bishop for Defense of Administration.

REGARD HIM AS TRAITOR.

Resolution of Dismissal Is Unanimously Adopted; Mutual Company Gets a Hard Rap, Too.

New York, Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Bishop Charles C. McCabe of the Methodist church, whose home is in Evanston, Ill., today was evicted from the international policy holders' committee. Thus did the committee answer the bishop's recommendation that it accept the administration of the Mutual Life and the New York Life insurance companies.

Eighteen of the twenty-two members of the committee were present at the meeting, and the vote to dispense with the bishop's services was unanimous. Bishop McCabe's attitude, the committee said, is so completely out of sympathy with the announced purpose of the organization that it amounted in effect to a surrender of his membership.

Letter Hot Stuff for Peabody.

Bishop McCabe's views on the administration ticket and also on the international committee were expressed in a letter addressed to Alton B. Parker and made public in a hurry by President Peabody of the Mutual Life.

Mr. Parker is chairman of the international policy holders' executive committee. Although the bishop's letter was addressed to him, in reality it was intended for Mr. Peabody's use. The letter said in part:

"The administration tickets of the two companies include many gentlemen known to me, and many others of whom I have obtained much information. I am satisfied that it is not possible to nominate trustees who, under all the existing circumstances, could better conserve the great interests of the policy holders than those recently named on the two administrative tickets.

"You are the chairman of a subcommittee charged with the duty of forming a ticket, and so far as my voice and vote are to be considered I urgently recommend the adoption by your committee of the administration tickets of both companies and their unanimous election by the policy holders."

In another place in the letter Bishop McCabe paid his respects to the international policy holders' committee as follows:

"I am quite sure that the members of the committee, who may have personally signed the address, cannot possibly approve the form in which it has been sent out or the intemperate and vituperative language in which our alleged opinions are constantly set forth by the spokesman of the committee."

Bishop Fired by Resolution.

Here are the resolutions adopted by the committee today, ousting Bishop McCabe:

Whereas, Bishop McCabe accepted membership on the committee, but has been unable to attend any of the meetings of its subcommittees, although respectfully urged to do so, and

Whereas, There was furnished to the press from the officers of the Mutual Life Insurance company on Aug. 31 a letter bearing the signature of Bishop McCabe, addressed to Hon. Alton B. Parker, as chairman of the executive committee, which letter has been read at this meeting, but had not been received at the time it was given out for publication by the Mutual Life Insurance company on the date of its meeting, and

Whereas, Bishop McCabe has been communicated with by telegram and letters, urging him to attend this meeting so as to present his views to his associates and to be informed of the views of the committee, but has made no reply to such communications and has failed to attend, and,

Whereas, copies of the proposed address were furnished to Bishop McCabe before the meeting at which the address as adopted was mailed at least three weeks before the address was distributed, and no objection or criticism was made by him as to the form of the address for four weeks after the distribution thereof, nor until the letter of Aug. 27, and,

Whereas, The views of the committee as to the course that should be pursued by the policy holders in the impending election for trustees, as expressed in its address to the policy holders issued July 9, are opposed to those expressed in the aforesaid letter to the chairman of the executive committee, it is

Resolved, That this committee regards the attitude assumed in the said letter as so completely out of sympathy with the announced purpose of the committee as to amount in effect to the surrender by Bishop McCabe of his membership in the committee, and he is accordingly relieved from further service.

Resolved, That the chairman of the executive committee is directed to reply to the communication of Bishop McCabe in such form as he deems appropriate.

Resolved, That in the judgment of the committee it is not in the interests of the policy holders to accept or indorse the administration ticket of either company.

Mutual Life Gets a Rap.

The international committee at today's meeting also selected the men whom it will present on the policy holders' ticket for trustees of the Mutual and the New York Life. The tickets will not be made public until Sept. 15, the date on which they must be filed at Albany.

Two of four members of the committee who were absent from the meeting were Thomas B. Wanamaker of Philadelphia and Samuel Newhouse of Utah, who are in Europe.

The management of the Mutual Life Insurance company came in for a hard knock because of his refusal to face court proceedings to remove from the administration ticket the names of four members of the international committee who were nominated against their wishes. This resolution was unanimously adopted by the committee:

Resolved, That the placing of the names of four members of this committee on the administration ticket of the Mutual Life Insurance company was without the consent and against the protests of those whose names thus were used and tends to deceive the policy holders who are called upon to vote and deserves the reprobation of all fair minded men. Policy holders are warned against this attempt to deceive them and advised not to vote for any ticket containing the names of these four gentlemen.

Minnesota Policy Holders Meet.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 6.—Minnesota policy holders of the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York held a meeting today for the purpose of forming a permanent organization, the object of which would be the protection of the interests of the policy holders in this state.

WORKER WINS ASTOR HEIRESS

Margaret L. Chanler, Worth Millions, to Wed Newspaper Man.

MUSIC WEAVES THE ROMANCE

Critic and Rich Philanthropist Find Affinity in Mutual Likes.

New York, Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Miss Margaret Livingston Chanler, great-great-granddaughter of the original John Jacob Astor, and worth several millions in her own right, is to become the bride of a newspaper man who made her acquaintance in the pursuit of his profession. Richard Aldrich, the musical critic of the New York Times, is the man.

The wedding, which is to take place early in the fall, will bring to a climax a romance that is a romance. And it will add another to the growing list of unions between young women of the richest and highest social standing in New York and men not branded with the dollar mark.

The announcement of Miss Chanler's engagement lifted the eyebrows of her friends in amazement, but was no surprise to the few who have watched the romance marching along to the music of the last few seasons' grand opera.

Mutual Love of Music a Bond.

Young Aldrich and Miss Chanler are equally devoted to music, and the discovery of this affinity, after a meeting at the opera, paved the way to the riper acquaintance which has made the newspaper man the envy of all the rich bride hunters in society.

Miss Chanler is a sister of John Armstrong Chanler, Luis Stuyvesant Chanler, and William Astor Chanler. For years she has eschewed the empty life of a society girl and devoted all her energy and a good part of her great wealth to philanthropy. Hers was not theoretical but decidedly practical philanthropy. One of her favorite declarations was that she was wedded to charity.

Has Medal for Work as Nurse.

Miss Chanler is the possessor of a gold medal awarded her by a special act of congress in 1899. When a state of war was declared between the United States and Spain Miss Chanler at once volunteered to serve as a Red Cross nurse without pay. Her offer was accepted and she went to the front with that little band of women under Clara Barton. Miss Chanler proved to be a capable nurse of wonderful energy and at the camp at Montauk Point she received high praise for her work.

After the war Miss Chanler took up in earnest the life of worker and soon became a power in New York politics and in philanthropic work in the city. In 1900 she became head of the Women's Municipal league and devoted her time and money to reform in politics.

Girl Power in City Politics.

Miss Chanler became virtually the executive head of the women's part in the control and government of New York. She received reports from the many branches of the league all over the greater city, and acting upon these she made complaints or recommendations to the mayor and saw to it that they were acted upon.

During the summer of 1900 Miss Chanler went to China at her own expense to assist in hospital relief work. She is intimately interested in a score of different charities, her specialty being settlement work.

During the summer months it has been Miss Chanler's custom among other charities to throw open her mansion at 317 West Seventy-fourth street to the sick children of the poor.

RESIGNS AS FAMILY SLAVE.

Mrs. Anna Gierschke Sets an Example for Overworked Women.

OUSTS HUSBAND AND SONS.

Declares She Will Not Pay Debts Contracted by Lazy Trio.

The Society of Overworked and Downtrodden Mothers has found a champion in Mrs. Anna Gierschke, 1107 Wabansia avenue. She has resigned her job in a most emphatic manner, much to the sorrow of Edward H. Gierschke, her husband, and her two grown sons, Earl and Cal, who, she declared, "never worked that I know of." After putting the trio out of the house to "shift for themselves," Mrs. Gierschke summed up the overworked mother question in a few words.

"Mothers are too sentimental for the good of their husbands and sons, in many cases," she said. "I found that was my case. I found it was clearly a case of everybody loafs but mother; so I just resigned. More mothers ought to take my advice and do likewise."

Gives Notice to the Public.

Rubbing her hands, rough with toil, a hopeful but strained smile flitted across her sun tanned cheek as she reflected:

"Why, it will be the making of them. They wouldn't work, so I just put 'em out. I want the public to know that I will not pay any more of their debts."

In keeping with this Mrs. Gierschke announced her resignation publicly by the following advertisement in the papers:

WILL NOT BE RESPONSIBLE FOR DEBTS contracted by my husband, Edward H. Gierschke, or my sons, Cal and Earl.
MRS. A. GIERSCHKE.

Alone in her little house, Mrs. Gierschke declared her satisfaction at the situation. Although the "men folks" never had been accustomed to work, there was no sign of worry on her part but that they would manage to make a livelihood somehow out in the cold, cold world.

Father Prefers to Rest.

"No, I don't know where they are," she said. "I have worked hard for what I have, and I decided to quit botherin' my hands and head about them. I just put 'em out," and the gesture that accompanied the remark indicated that the trio probably lit in a bunch, opt in the middle of the street.

Besides supporting the family Mrs. Gierschke, by sheer thrift, has accumulated enough property to support herself comfortably. She owns two houses, in one of which she lives. Her father left her a small amount of money years ago. Her husband is a skilled machinist but she says he prefers rest to work.

"When they can show me that they are willing to work, they can come home," Mrs. Gierschke concluded. "Hereafter in my house it is to be the rule that those who won't work, can't eat or sleep, either."

FEAR FOR MRS. SCHWAB'S LIFE.

Wife of Steel Magnate Dangerously Ill in New York Home—Husband Is Silent.

New York, Sept. 6.—Mrs. Emma E. Schwab, wife of Charles M. Schwab, it was learned today, is seriously ill at her home on Riverside drive.

"Mrs. Schwab is seriously, even dangerously ill," said Mr. Schwab tonight. "She is in the hands of surgeons, and has been so since our return from our country place at Loretto, Pa."

Mr. Schwab would not discuss the nature of his wife's illness.

AIRSHIP LOST IN THE LAKE?

LAST SEEN OVER GREEN BAY.

Made Ascension from Oconto Knowing Machine Was Broken.

Oconto, Wis., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—After drifting helplessly 14 miles, 2,000 feet above earth, in an airship he could not control, William Matteray, a Chicago aeronaut who made an ascension from here this evening, disappeared from view.

When last seen Matteray's unmanageable aerial craft was hovering uncertainly over Green Bay, still buoyant, and drifting out over Lake Michigan.

Knew Shaft Was Broken.

Matteray made the ascension against his judgment, knowing that the machinery had been broken and spliced. But the crowds, eager to see a man risk his life, declared that the story of a broken propeller shaft was told as a ruse to avoid making an ascension. Therefore Matteray went up just to "make good."

The airship belongs to A. J. Bodkins of Chicago, who contracted with the county fair management here to make an ascension yesterday. But when the airship arrived here it was discovered that the main shaft had been broken and spliced.

The ascension was put off until today, when 7,000 persons assembled at the fair grounds "to see the man go up in a balloon."

The crowd was so clamorous that Matteray, against his judgment, made the ascension. From the moment the balloon arose into the air it was seen that he was utterly unable to control it.

Falls from Balloon; Killed.

Oskaloosa, Kas., Sept. 6.—In view of a crowd of 2,000 spectators at the Jefferson county fair here today, Jerry Turner, an inexperienced balloonist, fell 200 feet from a trapeze suspended from a parachute and was instantly killed. While swinging by both hands, one was seen to loosen, and he clung by the left hand, struggling to regain hold with his right hand, but, his strength becoming exhausted, he fell head downward, the fall breaking his neck, jaw, left arm, collar bone, and both wrists.

AUTO SPINS ON BOARD WALK AMID A RAIN OF BULLETS.

Daring New Yorkers Drive Machine Along Atlantic City's Famous Promenade While Policemen Shoot.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—A high power automobile was driven the length of the board walk at a mile a minute clip at 2:30 o'clock this morning amid a rain of bullets. All missed the target.

"Sam" Shaw, a New Yorker, handled the wheel in the hair raising spin. With him were three other men who crouched in their seats to avoid the flying bullets from at least a score of policemen who lay in wait.

The start was made from the deserted end of the eighty foot sidewalk. When the first policeman made out the flying car it had passed him with a whizz and was out of reach before he could draw his revolver. His shrill whistle alarmed the others, however, and as the car spun by the city center, flashing revolvers spoke with sharp detonations that brought hotel guests in pajamas and nighties to abutting windows and emptied the all night restaurants and cafés of their patrons.

STENSLAND SPURNS HINT OF RELEASE

Cablegram from Chicago Tells Tangier Prisoner Maitre Labori Has Been Hired to Free Him.

NO CHANCE TO ESCAPE.

"Law of the Jungle" the Only Statute in Morocco, Raisuli the Only Habeas Corpus Writ.

MAY BE PUT IN THE PRISON.

Governor of Moorish Dungeons Surprised to Learn That Americans Did Not Want the Captive Flogged Daily.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]
[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
[Copyright: 1906: By Tribune Company.]

TANGIER, Sept. 6.—Stensland today was transferred from the custody of United States Minister Gummere to that of Consul General Phillip, who will be the arrested banker's official custodian from now on till he is placed aboard ship. Instructions were received this morning officially placing Stensland in the hands of the United States minister or of the consul general. As Minister Gummere is going on an important mission to the sultan at Fes he transferred the banker to the consul.

Fool Friend in Chicago.

A fool friend of the prisoner from Eau Claire, Wis., who is waiting at the Auditorium Annex, under the name of Knutson, for a reply, tried to complicate matters today by sending a cable message which may bring him in contact with the law. The message told Stensland to appeal to the sultan of Morocco against return to the United States and announced the employment of Maitre Labori, the celebrated French advocate who defended Dreyfus.

Doesn't Want to Be Free.

Both schemes are utterly absurd. As a matter of fact, Stensland would turn his back on the best lawyer on earth if looking him in the face meant a release from his present captivity and again made him a fugitive.

Anyhow, there is no habeas corpus law here. The law of the jungle rules in the main and Raisuli is the only habeas corpus.

Stensland's chances of appealing to the sultan are just as good as the chance his depositors have of getting one hundred cents on the dollar.

May Go to Prison.

The prisoner is still in solitary confinement except for the old Arab shiek and his companions, who squat on mats in Stensland's room and in the hall outside. Arrangements were started today to receive Stensland as a guest of the Kasbar prison. Cador Delgazi, governor of the prison, expressed great willingness to accept him as a guest and offered his kindly services to discover what the "bad man" had done with the money he stole.

Offers to Flog Stensland.

"Of course, the American basha (Minister Gummere) wants him flogged. That is the only way to make him tell what he did with the money," said the governor.

The Moorish official was greatly astonished when told that under no circumstances must a man be flogged. He said he did not see how on earth the ends of justice were attained without a morning and evening flogging. It was impressed on him that in the United States a prisoner must be well cared for and treated with all possible humanity. His oriental mind failed to grasp American methods of treating criminals, but he acquiesced with deference and ordered that should the American basha honor him by intrusting to his care the big thief, he would be treated as an honored guest. This does not mean much. The room Stensland will occupy is small and opens on a tiny court, inclosed with a high spiked iron fence, with soldiers to the right, and left, and everywhere. The same place was occupied by Hunter, the Atlanta embezzler.

Will Open Trunks Today.

Stensland's luggage is held at the custom house and will be taken to the consulate in the morning to be examined. He is specially solicitous about the contents of the two big trunks and showed great disinclination to let any one touch them. His keys, checkbook, and razor have been taken from him.

No light can be thrown on the arrangements for Stensland's return. The whole matter is in the hands of the state department at Washington. Unless speedy action is taken there may be an annoying delay of a month. Stensland is willing and anxious to come with us, but a certain official routine complicates the situation, especially as steamer accommodations at the present time are as scarce as fugitives in Morocco will be hereafter.

STATE DEPARTMENT ACTS.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—The state department today cabled to Tangier complete authorization for James Keeley of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and Assistant State's Attorney Olson to act as commissioners of the government of the United States in receiving into their custody the person of Paul O. Stensland, the wrecker of the Milwaukee avenue bank.

This authorization is called a warrant, and in the hands of the minister from the United States it acts as complete authority in commissioning the two men as the personal and legal representatives of the power and authority of the president of the United States.

Charles L. Binns, a stenographer from the office of the state's attorney in Cook county, arrived in Washington today and went to the state department, where he had a conference with Acting Secretary Bacon and Mr. Scott, the solicitor of the department. During that conference he was made acquainted with all that the state department has done in connection with the return of the fugitive to the United States. He was also told to communicate with the authorities in Illinois and secure from them a definite request for the state department to assist in arranging for the transportation of Stensland.

Warrant Will Be Ready.

It was arranged to have the warrants for the arrest of Stensland when he reaches this country meet Messrs. Keeley and Olson at the port of arrival, whatever that proves to be. The form of a warrant will be cabled in the meantime to Tangier, and it will be sufficient, when formally approved by the minister from the United States, to warrant any merchant captain in taking Stensland and his captors aboard his ship.

It has also been suggested that when it is determined what ship Stensland is to return on and at what port he will arrive all of the formalities possible looking to the extradition of his person from the state into whose jurisdiction he will come will be complied with in advance.

Department officials still talk of the possibility of losing Stensland in transit and of the necessity of his being brought on a through steamer which will not stop at any port en route where Stensland will come within the jurisdiction of another country. They have particularly cautioned Messrs. Keeley and Olson not to touch at any ports of France, because our extradition treaty with that country is of such a nature that the greatest difficulty would be experienced in extraditing Stensland if he once got into French jurisdiction.

Confidence in His Captors.

It is probable the department will leave considerable latitude to the commissioners in charge of Stensland so that if one plan fails they can fall back upon another. They already have demonstrated their resourcefulness by dodging around after Stensland in a chartered torpedo boat.

If all plans regarding merchantmen fail, orders will be sent to the Glacier, the refrigerating ship which is now returning from the Philippines, to stop at Tangier and take Stensland and his captors aboard. The acting secretary of state had a conference with Admiral Converse today and it was decided that with special orders the Glacier could reach Tangier in something more than two weeks.

President Roosevelt has taken an intense interest in the Stensland case, because of the numerous telegrams he has received from people interested in Chicago, and today he talked at length with the acting secretary of state. He instructed Mr. Bacon to use every possible means at the command of the government to expedite the return of Stensland.

Mr. Bacon, when seen at his home tonight, said:

"The state department is fully alive to the intense interest which the people of Chicago take in the return of Stensland, and we are doing everything in our power to expedite it. We are in constant communication with the authorities of the state of Illinois and with our representative at Tangier.

"We are overlooking no possibility for the safe and speedy return of Stensland to this country, where he can answer in the courts of justice. Nearly everything we do must be at the request and prompting of the authorities of the state of Illinois, but we are allowing no technicalities and no red tape to stand in the way of speedy action."

ATTORNEY BARBOUR KEPT BUSY.

Acting State's Attorney Barbour spent all day yesterday in communicating with Washington. Late in the day he received the following telegram from Chief Stenographer C. L. Binns, who is in Washington:

"Warrant being prepared for president's signature. Instructions will be cabled to deliver Stensland to custody of Olson and TRIBUNE man."

From Mr. Olson at Tangier came the following message to Gov. Deneen, who transmitted it to Mr. Barbour:

"Request Washington to permit Stensland to return with me without waiting for arrival of warrant. He is willing and anxious to come."

SEEK TO BUY BANK PROPERTY.

S. S. Gorham Says Capitalists Will Pay $50,000 for Stensland Institution Premises.

Attorney Sidney S. Gorham has notified Receiver John C. Fetzer of the wrecked Milwaukee Avenue State bank that he will be prepared this morning to make a written offer of $50,000 in cash for the bank premises as they stand, including that part of the site owned by it. The attorney says he represents capitalists who have secured pledges of financial aid to start a new bank.

Mr. Fetzer told Mr. Gorham that no sum under $50,000 would be considered. He added that as soon as the first offer has been made he will apply to Judge Brentano for permission to receive bids for the property for a period of ten days, at the expiration of which time the bank will be sold. The assets and books then will be transferred to some cheaper quarters in the loop district until the affairs of the bank are wound up.

In response to his request that the $12,000 deposited in the French bank at Tangier by Stensland be turned over to the receiver Mr. Fetzer yesterday received from Secretary of the Treasury Shaw a message advising no course appears open but through regular process of law. The receiver is hopeful that Assistant State's Attorney Olson will secure the money without litigation.

Depositor Imitates Stensland.

The methods of Stensland have been adopted by somebody in Chicago intent upon defrauding the depositors and the receiver of the bank. A passbook calling for $1,100, which Mr. Fetzer says is a forgery, was presented at the bank by Benjamin Paplaski, 983 Paulina street.

According to the receiver, the books of the bank show that Paplaski has just $100 on deposit, but the pass book showed a figure "1" in the same color of ink in front of the "100."

"I told him to be back at 11 o'clock in the morning with the name of the man who did the work," said Mr. Fetzer. "If he shows up without a satisfactory explanation I intend to have him arrested."

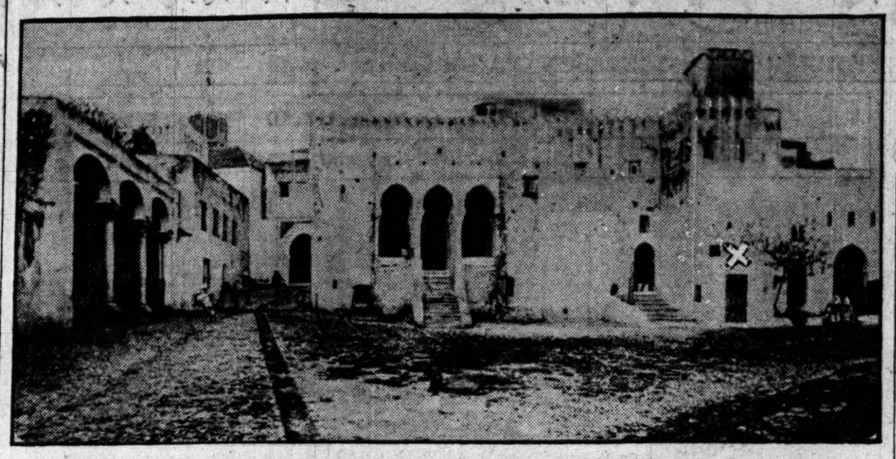

Mr. Fetzer is puzzled by the slowness with which depositors claim their dividends. He has $150,000 more than enough to finish paying the present dividend of 20 per cent, and expects to realize enough on quick assets to be able to apply to Judge Brentano on Nov. 1 for permission to pay another dividend of at least 20 per cent.

Say Their Notes Are Forged.

John Dowdle, 1287 Washington boulevard, appeared at the state's attorney's office and said two notes for $7,500 each, found in the bank, are forgeries. C. H. Beckman, tea and coffee merchant at 706 West Division street, said two notes bearing his name and aggregating $4,500 are forgeries.

Employes of two banks are included in the venire of the September grand jury, which will be sworn in on Monday by Judge Kavanagh. The bank men drawn are Arthur E. Dreegmueller, 230 West North avenue, a clerk in the First National, and Thomas F. Thorne, 9442 Monroe avenue, a teller in the Commercial National.

Tangier Jail, to Which Stensland Will Be Transferred.

The Kasbar jail at Tangier is being prepared to receive Stensland, and there he will remain until his captors are ready to sail. The X in the picture shows the door of the jail. In the center is the treasury building, and to the left, at the end of the court, is the Tangier court of justice.

authority of the president upon the sultan of Morocco, the wisdom of appointing the men who had made the arrest as official messengers, instead of waiting for police officers, and the danger of trusting the fugitive to a merchant ship stopping at ports where an appeal to the authorities successfully might be made, immediately were all apparent to the president.

He was impressed particularly with the action of THE TRIBUNE in subordinating its natural desire for a news story and in suppressing its knowledge of Stensland's whereabouts until it could put its hand actually, through its own representative, on the great criminal's shoulder.

Doesn't Hesitate a Minute.

Immediately, without a moment's hesitation, without stopping to deliberate whether he was violating or interfering with the tortuous course of international law, the president accepted the situation as it had been put to him on behalf of THE TRIBUNE and the outraged depositors of the Milwaukee Avenue bank. He asked me only what ships of war there could possibly be available. I had heard that the refrigerating ship Glacier, which, if I remember right, towed the dry dock Dewey to the Philippines, was on its way back to New York, and possibly might be in the vicinity of Tangier in the next two or three weeks. To cover this and all other contingencies, the president began his dictation of his dispatch to the state department and finished almost without taking breath, except the last three sentences.

"Will that do?" asked the president.

Of course it would, but I went on to say a few things about how Stensland had added the crime of forgery to that of embezzlement and had stolen his money from the poor and foreign born, who were not acquainted with American financial methods. Thereupon the president added to his dispatch:

"I desire to go to any necessary extent in the effort to bring this man to justice. He is one of the most obnoxious types of criminals. He robbed hundreds of very poor people and is said to have caused several suicides."

This whole dispatch, of course, was an official direction by the president to the state department, and I had no notion he would permit its publication. He did permit its use, however, first of all because he realized its intense interest to the thousands of poor people in Chicago to whom he wished to give a message of comfort from the federal government, and, secondly, because, as he said THE TRIBUNE was entitled to that much of recognition for the work it had done in this particular case.

Doesn't Try to Dodge.

During the last presidential campaign, and, most recently of all, during the last session of congress, the democratic critics of President Roosevelt have attacked him because, as they have said, he constantly violated the constitution of the United States. That may be true, but, as the president has frequently said to his more intimate friends, his violations, if any, have been of the letter and never of the spirit of the great bill of rights of the American people.

The constitution frequently has been a convenient thing for cowardly presidents to hide behind, but this man, at least, whatever may be his other faults, has never done that.

In this Stensland case, a president who desired to escape responsibility would have had an excellent opportunity to do so. There is no extradition treaty with Morocco. That country is nominally under the control of the sultan, but practically it is ruled by a combination of European governments, to which the United States is only a nominal party. A timid man, or one bound by traditions, would have found it only too easy to hide behind this situation, involving, as it undoubtedly does, the creation of grave international complications.

It was refreshing, to say the least, to find a man, and that one for the time being the greatest in the country, who was instantly willing to take the desired action in the interests of the people without the slightest regard to diplomatic traditions. In five minutes the president set in motion the wheels of the state department by an executive order which puts the return of Paul Stensland within the scope of things personally insisted upon by the head of the American nation.

It is a fitting climax to the extraordinary work of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in running down, arresting, and now in starting homeward the greatest fugitive from justice the city by the lake has ever known.

MAYOR AND POLICE HEADS QUIT.

Kansas City, Kas., Officials Agree to Resign in Order to Escape Contempt Proceedings.

Kansas City, Kas., Sept. 6.—Mayor W. W. Rose, Vernon J. Rose, chief of police, and John F. Kelly, captain of police, today agreed to resign their offices upon promise of the state officials that contempt proceedings brought against them recently in the Kansas Supreme court would be dropped. At Topeka today the attorneys for both sides reached this agreement, three justices of the Supreme court coinciding. The contempt proceedings grew out of the fact that Mayor Rose assumed the office of mayor after the Supreme court had ousted him for not enforcing the prohibition law.

RED HAIRED, FRECKLED BOY SAYS HE'LL PROVE TYPE MODEL

Selected to Back Up Employer's Belief, Lester Caroline Declares He Will Demonstrate Superiority.

It is up to 16 year old Lester Caroline—better known to his friends as "Red"—to demonstrate the superiority of red haired, freckled faced boys. He is confident he can make good, too.

"Red" became the champion of his hue in a brief time yesterday. He arose from bed at 6 a. m. and, on picking up a copy of THE TRIBUNE, discovered just the kind of a "want ad" that he had been looking for.

WANTED—A RED HAIRED BOY FOR OFFICE work; one that is well freckled preferred. BEN LESTER ADVERTISING AGENCY.

That was the wording of the "ad" and Caroline decided at once that he was the boy for the job. He left his home in Lawndale and hurried to the office of the agency in the Marquette building.

But the hallway was lined with would be office boys in embryo, whose heads were clothed in red hair of every possible shade. There were auburn, scarlet, golden, and just red hairs, and the freckles were there, too.

When the manager arrived the boys were sized up and Caroline was selected from the lot because of the fact that his red hair and freckled face were accompanied by the intelligent look that is so desired in model office boys.

"First, I want to be sure that I ain't goin' to be used for an ad for some hair dye," said Caroline by way of introduction.

"No, I just want to demonstrate the theory that boys of your makeup are greatly superior to the rest of the boys," said Mr. Lester.

"O, that's it, is it?" said Caroline. "Well, me to the job. I'll show you that them theories are right, all right."

And with that he went to work.

CHILD CLIMBS WINDOW LEDGE; MOTHER READS DIVORCE BILL.

Little Margaret Keesey, Whose Parents Are Involved in Proceedings, Saved by Clerk.

Margaret Keesey, a clever little miss of just two summers, still figures prominently in divorce proceedings between her father, Edward D. Keesey, and her mother, Mrs. Evangeline M. Keesey, but if it had not been for the presence of mind displayed by George Wise, divorce record clerk, yesterday afternoon, the bill for divorce, Keesey vs. Keesey, would have to be amended.

To little Margaret, the eighteen inch window ledge of the Monadnock building, four stories and seventy-five feet above the ground, looks as safe a thoroughfare as a sidewalk. Therefore, while her mother was engrossed in reading the bill for divorce which Keesey had filed against her, Margaret leisurely crawled along a window seat and out the window on to the ledge, where she sat crowing with great gusto.

Wise, who was standing across the room, suddenly became aware of the child's peril. Rushing forward and stumbling in his flight, he reached the window and seized the child by the shoe as it was attempting unsteadily to crawl farther along the ledge. Then he carefully edged his way back through the window, drawing the child behind him.

In his suit for divorce, Keesey charges his wife with cruelty. Wise is 35 years old and resides at 380 Chestnut street.

MEETS TWO TRAINS ON BRIDGE; FEARS TO JUMP; IS KILLED.

Edward Thongren Tries to Outrun Speeding Train Across Calumet River, but Is Cut to Pieces.

Two fast trains approaching from opposite directions caught Edward Thongren on the Ninety-eighth street bridge of the Pennsylvania railroad over the Calumet river yesterday afternoon. Thongren, who lived at 10015 Avenue L, South Chicago, and was a laborer, raced in front of one speeding locomotive, fearing to leap to the river, but was overtaken and cut to pieces.

He was half way across the bridge before he became aware of his plight. He saw a freight train approaching from the east, on the opposite track. A cry from William Grice, the bridgetender, warned him that he was in peril.

"Look out for the train behind you," shouted Grice from his little house on top of the bridge. "Jump for your life!"

Thongren looked back and saw the passenger train bearing down on him. Heedless of the warning to jump, he sped frantically over the ties in front of the shrieking engine. It took but an instant to reach him. The mutilated body was found at the foot of the embankment.

The engineer saw Thongren, but not in time to slow down enough to prevent the accident. The watchman said Thongren became excited and at first ran close to the side of the bridge, then turned back.

MAN KILLED, ANOTHER HURT BY FALL OF STEAM SHOVEL.

Twenty Laborers Barely Escape Death Under Five Tons of Sand When Machinery Breaks.

One man was killed and another perhaps fatally injured yesterday by the falling of a steam shovel used in unloading sand from a scow at Fleetwood street and the river. The dead:

LUND, CARL, 34 years old, 762 North Campbell avenue; both legs broken, skull fractured, and internally injured.

The injured:

SKINBINSKI, MICHAEL, 40 years old, 664 Noble street; lungs pierced by broken ribs and otherwise internally injured.

The men were employed by the Barber Asphalt company, which has a sand yard at Fleetwood street and the river. Lund was engineer of the shovel machinery and Skinbinski was an assistant. The machinery sustaining the shovel, which contained five tons of sand, broke, allowing the sand and shovel to fall on the dock, where twenty or more laborers were at work. Lund and Skinbinski were struck by parts of the broken shovel. The other workmen escaped.

OTTEN ON PAYROLL AGAIN

CITY CANNOT LOSE POLITICIAN WITH AN UNSAVORY RECORD.

Former Superintendent of Horses for the Fire Department, Friend of Cyril Jandus, an Ally of the Mayor, Gets Job as Police Driver—John Campion Declares This Man Largely Responsible for His Retirement.

Herman J. Otten, former superintendent of horses for the fire department, will begin work today as a patrol wagon driver at the Hinman street police station.

And thereon hangs a tale.

Members of the police and fire departments asked each other last night what the mysterious influence is that keeps Otten connected with the city pay roll. Civil service, they say, does not appear to have any terror for him.

The man has an unsavory record. He has been discharged in disgrace from the police force and the fire department. He was suspended fifteen days ago for "conduct unbecoming a police officer." He has been accused of everything from robbery to assault.

Otten himself openly boasts that he has Cyril Jandus of the board of local improvements behind him and that all the peevish critics in the city hall can't separate him from the public crib.

Campion Calls Him Enemy.

Former Fire Marshal John Campion has a few unkind ideas about Otten.

"That man was sent into the fire department by Mayor Dunne to get my job," said Campion last night.

"He was given $200 a month to go around the engine houses making trouble. He was the greatest disturber in the department.

"I never saw him until the mayor brought him down to me. He told me he was to get $2,400 a year for looking after the horses. I did not want to kick too hard, but I tried to get him cut down to $1,500 a year and have a veterinary surgeon appointed.

"Otten never did anything but talk. I caught him twice trying to sell horses for $5 and $15 each. He was robbing the city, and I had him discharged. Before that he tried to get me to commit perjury in indorsing an expense account for medicine. He was supposed to furnish the medicine, but he never did, and he wanted to get paid for it extra. He was mixed up in that Murphy assault on me in the city hall, and threatened me. When he came into the service he said that he was going to get my job."

Otten's Record with City.

Here is Otten's record:

While a patrol wagon driver at the Maxwell street station, nine years ago, arrested for stealing a diamond pin at a picnic.

A year later discharged from the police force for stealing oats from the police barn and selling them.

Got back on force as driver; took year's furlough.

Appointed by Mayor Dunne as superintendent of horses for fire department at a salary of $2,400 a year.

Discharged from the fire department for robbing the city by his horse sales, July 27.

Implicated in an assault in the city hall upon Chief Campion.

Went back to Hinman street station as driver.

Suspended Aug. 23.

Now reinstated.

Otten, it is said, was the first man to circulate the story that Capt. McDonough was going to be appointed chief marshal. He is strong in the Ninth ward.

DIVORCED FROM ONE WIFE; WILL REMARRY THE OTHER.

Charles H. G. Frye Makes Start on His Disentangling Program—To Finish at Hammond, Ind., Today.

It is a thorny path from a maze of bigamy charges and divorce entanglements to a rose tinted haven of matrimony. Charles H. Goddard Frye, who achieved some notoriety by his dual life, yesterday found this out. He planned to secure court relief from one of his wives and then remarry the other, but the divorce laws of Illinois intervened.

Frye made a good start on his program. Judge Carpenter granted to Mrs. Frye, the first wife, an absolute divorce on the grounds of desertion. Mrs. Frye, who lives at 879 Bosworth avenue, testified of her husband's faithlessness.

It was Frye's intention to marry Mrs. Goddard, his second wife, in the courtroom, but the statutes forbid a divorced person to marry within a year after a decree has been granted. On this account Frye's attorney, Fred Plotke, told him he would have to go into another state if he desired to straighten out the tangle at once. This the aged man decided to do. Now that he is released from his first wife he will take Mrs. Goddard to Hammond, Ind., this morning for their wedding.

ONE VOTE TOO MANY CAUSES CRY OF FRAUD IN CHURCH.

Congregation of German Methodist Memorial Institution Divided Into Factions as Result of Election.

Ballot box stuffing at the annual election of trustees for the German Methodist Memorial church, McLean and Hancock avenues, nearly disrupted the congregation, and a semblance of harmony has been restored only by the promise of the pastor, the Rev. Henry Wagner, that a new election will be held. This election cannot be held for two weeks, and meanwhile the church is without trustees, as those elected resigned when the charges of fraud were made.

The election occurred Aug. 26. There were to be seven directors chosen; three for three years, two for two years, and two for one year. Two tickets were in the field, the differences between the factions dating back three years, when there was trouble over the purchase of new pews.

When the votes for the two year term candidates were counted it was found there were thirty votes—one too many. This caused the charges of fraud.

HIPPLE'S BOARD IN TIGHT PLACE

State Banking Commissioner Goes After Directors of Wrecked Company.

NEW LIGHT ON LOOTING.

Hearing of Men Under Arrest Reveals an Audacious System of Robbery.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 6.—Responsibility of the directors of the wrecked Real Estate Trust company will be fixed by State Banking Commissioner Berkey, who began an independent examination today.

Mr. Berkey declared practically every director of the Real Estate Trust company had certified to the correctness of the reports filed by the company with the state banking department. These reports, he said, appear to have been false. If his examination sustains the falsity of the reports, he said, he would proceed against the directors.

The evidence presented through witnesses by District Attorney Bell at the first hearing of Adolph Segal, North, and Collingwood today disclosed the methods by which Segal and Hipple wrecked the trust company. The most damaging testimony was that to the effect that both Hipple and Segal had repeatedly overdrawn their accounts with the knowledge of the treasurer and assistant treasurer. These overdrafts were carried as cash accounts.

On the day Hipple died there was an overdraft of $64,000 against the president which was converted by Collingwood into a loan, showing Hipple's account to be apparently straight. These overdrafts of Hipple and Segal at times amounted to more than $800,000.

Says Hipple Was "Money Mad."

There was on deposit in the bank approximately $7,000,000 and the loans made to Segal amounted to $3,309,200. Many of the securities which have since been found to be insufficient were bonds and stocks in the Segal enterprises, and were approved personally by Hipple.

Receiver Earle expressed the opinion that President Hipple was "money mad" and that there seemed to be no end to the variety of methods by which he juggled with securities which fell into his hands, and concerning which he sought to deceive the directors.

"He was not content with stealing the same bond or stock certificate once," said Mr. Earle, "but did it several times over. He would, for instance, receive a bond or certificate as collateral for a loan, the security representing a safe margin. Then, if Mr. Segal came along asking for a loan and presenting insufficient security, Mr. Hipple would take the good security deposited with a note of another man and place it with Segal's note.

"In this manner the directors were brought to believe that the sound security was collateral for the loan to Segal. This sort of operation was repeated by Mr. Hipple as often as Mr. Segal's demands seemed to render it necessary."

Mr Earle said that these practices of Hipple had left the notes and papers relating to loans in almost inconceivable confusion.

Used Trickery to Defraud.

The substitution of bogus bonds for good bonds among the trust securities of the Presbyterian general assembly board was accomplished by Mr. Hipple through a species of sleight of hand. He went to the strong box in the vault containing the trust securities in question on the pretext of cutting coupons in order to cash them and place the proceeds to the credit of the board. After the box was opened Hipple informed the clerk that somebody at the door wanted to see him for a moment. The clerk unsuspectingly left Hipple alone for this brief interval. The time was sufficient to enable him to substitute two bogus bonds for two genuine bonds, which he afterward hypothecated for the benefit of himself or Segal.

Receiver Earle's plan for the reorganization of the defunct Real Estate Trust company was given to the printer tonight. It will be mailed to the depositors tomorrow. It provides for the reopening of the bank by the payment of 30 per cent in cash to depositors and 30 per cent in preferred stock, guaranteed by collateral bonds, 40 per cent to be paid within sixty days. The directors of the Real Estate Trust company are to raise the necessary capital to make this settlement.

Inefficiency of City Departments and Heartlessness of Street Car Men Blamed for Animal's Misery.

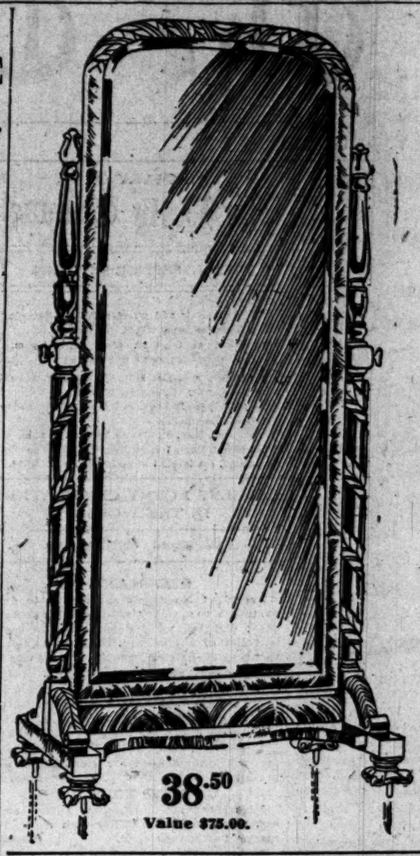

The sufferings of a horse which had fallen into a street excavation between the car tracks at Madison and Market streets and was left there for three hours yesterday morning aroused citizens to great indignation at the inefficiency of the city departments and the apparent indifference of the Union Traction officials. The animal, which was thrown into the hole by a street car and lay on one side with its neck twisted half under it, was released at last through the agency of the Illinois Humane socity.

J. R. Moore, who has an office in the Tacoma building, was one of the persons who saw the horse and tried to bring help to it. He wrote his experiences to THE TRIBUNE, saying among other things:

"If a horse or a wagon were blocking the street cars, scarcely fifteen minutes would pass before a wrecking wagon would appear, but nothing was done by the car company until afternoon." Then, Mr. Moore continues, a crew came on the scene equipped with rotten ropes, which broke when the horse had been hoisted up a little, letting it fall back.

"I called up the mayor's office," Mr. Moore wrote, "and requested that a fire company report and hoist the horse out, and I was told the department would be notified. No fire company came.

"In my opinion the city cannot boast of its greatness until it gets an administration and a police department with common humanity enough either to help poor dumb brutes out of their misery, or compel those at fault to do so."

PLANS BATHS FOR POLICE STATIONS

Fire Houses Also to Have Showers, Mayor Decides After Visiting Them.

PLUMBING OLD AND POOR.

Buildings Are Found Insanitary; Food Inspectors Trail Desiccated Egg Plant.

Shower baths for all the city police stations and fire engine houses are the latest development in the municipal campaign of cleanliness following the recent opening of the public baths at night.

The reform will be the direct result of a personal visit yesterday to several of the police stations by Mayor Dunne, following his inspection the day before at the stockyards station. This time Mayor Dunne was accompanied by Mrs. Dunne and five of the little Dunnes. They visited the East and West Chicago avenue stations and the five engine houses near by.

The crusade against insanitary conditions did not stop there. Plans were proposed for model tenement houses in the Ghetto, to be paid for by popular subscription.

Food Inspector P. J. Murray raided a factory for dried and desiccated eggs, and Restaurant Inspector Van Praag closed an insanitary restaurant at 477 State street.

Mayor Travels in an Auto.

Mayor Dunne made the rounds of the stations in an automobile.

"I found but one toilet room at the East Chicago avenue station," said the mayor, "for the accommodation of more than 100 prisoners. The plumbing is antiquated and out of repair. Conditions were still worse at West Chicago avenue. The bathroom is out of order and the toilet facilities are antiquated. There is no hot water and the courtroom is dingy and poorly ventilated. The police stations need a thorough renovation."

Secretary Mayer of the police department will make the rounds of all the stations today. In addition to shower baths for the policemen and prisoners the clothing of all prisoners will be disinfected.

Mayor Dunne also announced that bathrooms would be installed in all the new fire stations, and that the old engine houses would be similarly provided. Hair mattresses also are to be furnished the firemen.

Murray Scrambles Bad Eggs.

Food Inspector P. J. Murray conducted another raid at night and made scrambled eggs of seventy pounds of desiccated eggs in the sixth story of a frame building at Seventy-third and Wallace streets. Murray and two assistants had skulked up dark prairies in the vicinity for several dark nights. He could smell the factory, but he couldn't locate it. Finally the odor was traced to the top of a frame building near the railroad tracks.

Samples were taken from the plant, including a brand of "coffee clear" that was intended for the use of a State street store. The proprietors asserted that they used no bad eggs, and Inspector Bach, who is an expert on eggs, said the stuff looked all right and might pass analysis.

The proprietors, before the officers left, mounted a nine foot ladder and recovered their pocketbooks, which they had thrown on top of a high closet. They feared at first the inspectors were holdup men. Robert S. Iles, formerly assistant state's attorney, is said to have an interest in the plant. The firm is known as Boyse, Paltridge & Paltridge company. The work on the eggs is all done at night.

Nails Up Noisome Restaurant.

A Greek restaurant at 477 State street, where flies were found in the soup and butter and all the garbage was thrown into a cellar through a trap door, was closed in the afternoon by Restaurant Inspector Sol Van Praag. He said it was the most insanitary restaurant he had found during an inspection of several hundred, and he nailed up the door.

"On the tables were bottles filled with colored water, red and green and amber," said the inspector. "I suppose it was for style. You could get a meal there for 10 cents, but how a man could eat that stuff is a mystery to me. They gave you the choice of two table d'hôte dinners for that sum.

"The so-called butter was unspeakable. In a window I found spoiled pork chops spread out on a phoney cake of ice—glass it was—glass ice. The guests had to use paper napkins over and over again if they used any. At last, when I found that instead of keeping the garbage in a receptacle they threw it into the cellar, I closed up the place."

Final notice will be given today to 450 restaurants to take out their licenses within twenty-four hours or be closed by the police.

Plans Model Tenement Fund.

Ald. A. J. Harris of the Ninth ward offered to assist in raising subscriptions for a $250,000 model tenement house in the Ghetto. He thought he could raise at least $25,000 among his own friends. Building Commissioner Peter Bartzen suggested the project following a talk with Mrs. Frances Maria Norton. The idea is to raise the money by popular subscription.

Chief Sanitary Inspector Hedrick received a letter from the Cutter & Crosette Shirt company of Elgin, offering employment to the poorly paid sweat shop workers of the Ghetto. The letter said the factory employed around 350 persons at from $5 to $14 a week for sixty-two hours' work, but could not secure enough help in Elgin, although the shop was clean and sanitary.

Justice Gibbons fined the Palace Car Creamery company, 201 South Water street; Otto Dietrich, 73 South Water street, and the Boston store, each $25 for short weight butter.

LUMBER COMPANY'S CHIEF IN JAIL ON FRAUD CHARGE.

Philip Pfeil Spends Two Nights and a Day in Cell, Being Unable to Furnish $6,000 Bond Required.

Because he is unable to furnish $6,000 bail, Philip Pfeil, president of the Pfeil Hardwood Lumber company, with offices in the Masonic temple and yards at 740 Evanston avenue, has been forced to spend two nights and a day in jail with little hope of relief from his predicament.

Justice Prindiville committed him to the county jail after he had been arrested late Wednesday night on charges of obtaining $2,300 from the Federal Trust and Guarantee company on false pretenses and by means of a confidence game.

His arrest was caused by Edgar L. Shank of the guarantee company.

Shank alleges that Pfeil on March 8 presented alleged forged bills of lading and, it is alleged, by false means, commonly known as the "confidence game," obtained a loan of $1,600.

On March 14 he presented more alleged false bills of lading and secured a loan of $2,700. He represented, it is said, that he had thousands of dollars worth of lumber en route and was temporarily in need of money.

Later, it is said, the bills were found to be forgeries and absolutely worthless. Unable to collect the money from Pfeil, who was thought to be responsible, they seek recourse in the courts.

Aug. 30 Pfeil was arrested on complaint of Glenn C. Forgy, who alleged he obtained $21,000 by fraud.

Take Auto Trip and Marry.

Miss Bessie Stafford, Eau Claire, Wis., and John H. Hays, Omaha, rode to Waukegan from Chicago yesterday in an automobile and, proceeding to the house of the Rev. T. M. Higginbotham, pastor of the Congregational church, were married. They are to reside in Chicago.

The congregation of Unity Evangelical Lutheran church of Edgewater will witness the laying of the corner stone of their chapel, Magnolia and Balmoral avenues, on Sunday at 3 p. m.

Two Oak Park Women in Charge of the Entertainment at Suburb's Annual Horse Show Which Will Open Today.

Mrs. Howard Skillen. Miss Myrtle Whidden.

Oak Park's third annual horse show with many new and novel features on the program opens this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Westward Ho Golf club grounds. An entirely original exhibit in the shape of an "illuminated automobile parade" will add interest to the events of the show tonight. The auto parade will start at 8 p. m. from the corner of Home avenue and Pleasant street and will have at its head John W. Francis, president of the Austin Automobile club. Every machine will be elaborately illuminated. Several auto owners have had special designs prepared for the occasion. The streets used in the route of the procession will include Washington boulevard, Wisconsin street, Lake street, Chicago avenue, Oak Park avenue, Austin avenue, and Central avenue. Prizes will be awarded for the best exhibits by three judges, C. S. Cutting, D. Miller, and R. W. Sears.

Today is to be the "Oak Park day" of the show. The horses to be exhibited will be the finest ever seen in the suburb, and there will be more of them than ever, too. Special breeding classes will be shown. In the list of entries for the general program Mrs. Jarvis Hunt of Wheaton leads with a string of twenty-one horses. She will compete for a prize in the woman's rig class. Mrs. Edward Hurley of Wheaton, whose husband has eight entries, will drive a team of his horses. Herbert Swift enters with a runabout and several hunters.

The social features of the show are in charge of the auxiliary of women representing the various suburb clubs. Mrs. Thomas White is the president; Mrs. John Farson, honorary president; Miss Myrtle Whidden, secretary; and Mrs. Howard Skillen, chairman of the entertainment committee. The proceeds of the show go to the Hepsibah Children's home.

LONG CHASE; MAN CAUGHT

POLICE TAKE W. DONAHUE, SEIBERT MURDER SUSPECT.

Search of Two and a Half Years, Reaching to Ireland and Back, Rewarded When Detective Joe Kennedy Sees Fugitive on Street in Indianapolis—Crime in Drug Store in April, 1904, One of the Most Cold Blooded in Recent Local Records.

After eluding detectives on his trail for over two years, William Donahue, accused of the murder of Walter G. Seibert, a Chicago druggist, on the night of April 8, 1904, was arrested late yesterday in Indianapolis by Detective Joe Kennedy.

When the officer confronted him Donahue tried to fight for his liberty, but was forced to surrender at the point of a gun.

Donahue was arrested after officers had followed him thousands of miles—even as far as Ireland. He always managed to escape their grasp a few hours, and the Chicago police had almost given up hope of capturing him. Lieut. J. O. D. Storen, who handled the case from the first, received the news of Donahue's arrest in the evening.

Kennedy had known Donahue since the two were boys and he said he surely had his man. Storen will leave this morning for Indianapolis with extradition papers to bring the prisoner to Chicago for trial.

Killing Is Cold Blooded.

The crime for which the prisoner is wanted was one of the most cold blooded in the last decade in Chicago. Donahue, with Stephen Quinn and John Liston, entered Seibert's drug store at Garfield boulevard and Center avenue at 10:30 p. m. One of them made a small purchase and paid for it.

As Seibert, who was only 26 years old, opened the cash drawer, the men told him to give them all the money it contained. Seibert complied and turned over $18 to the three robbers. He was "covered" by their revolvers and could not spread an alarm. After the men had put the money in their pockets they told Seibert to walk to the back of his store. The druggist did as he was told. When he reached there Donahue or one of the others deliberately shot Seibert in the back. The deed was committed in such cold blood that it stirred the whole community. Seibert died soon after the shot was fired.

Two Captured, One Escapes.

Police rushed to the scene and captured Liston and Quinn. Donahue, however, escaped. His confederates swore that he committed the murder and they finally were sent to prison as accomplices in the crime. Donahue was trailed first to Omaha, then to Ireland, then six weeks ago to Cedar Rapids, Ia., and finally to Indianapolis on Wednesday.

Detective Kennedy saw him on the street and said:

"Hello, Bill. How are you?"

Donahue turned around startled and tried to get away. The officer pulled a gun and took him to jail. He will be brought here tonight.

Seibert's death was especially pathetic, as he was to have been married the following week. His brother now runs the drug store at 1259 Garfield boulevard.

POISON GIVEN BY MISTAKE KILLS A HOSPITAL PATIENT.

Druggist at St. Luke's Serves Atropine to Physician Instead of Urotropin, and Joseph Michaels Dies.

Poison administered by mistake to Joseph Michaels, 21 years old, a patient at St. Luke's hospital, caused his death yesterday morning. The fatal blunder was made in the drug department of the hospital. Michaels was given a large dose of atropine instead of urotropin, which had been prescribed by attending physicians.

A coroner's inquest was held in the afternoon at the hospital and the jury returned a verdict asserting that death had been caused by the administration of poison by mistake. No one was censured, but today Coroner Hoffman will make a further inquiry.

Michaels was taken to the hospital on July 31, after he had been injured in an accident on the Northwestern railway. To prevent infection urotropin was administered in five grain capsules. On Wednesday evening a new supply of medicine was needed and a druggist in the hospital dispensary was directed to prepare more urotropin, this time in solution instead of powder capsules.

As soon as the solution was administered Michaels became violently ill and died within a short time. A postmortem examination showed the cause of Michaels' death. He lived at 303 West Twenty-fourth street.

COOLEY'S FOES ARE ACTIVE

SEEKING TO PUT ONE OF HIS ENEMIES IN HIS CABINET.

Plan Is to Bring About Election of Man Unfriendly to the Head of the City Schools to Fill Vacancy Caused by Death of District Superintendent Lane—Special Committee Expected to Favor Abolishing Promotional Examination System.

A campaign has been started by the federationists in the school board to bring about the election of an enemy of Supt. of Schools Edwin G. Cooley and his educational doctrines to fill the vacancy caused by the death of District Superintendent Albert G. Lane.

"The Teachers' federation has two or three of its members at every meeting of the school management committee to 'watch things,'" declared an anti-federationist in the school board yesterday, "and now they want to be represented in Supt. Cooley's official family. There might as well be a democrat or a supporter of the trusts in President Roosevelt's cabinet as a pronounced federationist on the board of district superintendents. The result in either case would be nothing but dissension and discord."

Several Candidates for Place.

A few hours after District Superintendent Lane died Trustee Cornelia De Bey inflated a boom for Orville T. Bright, principal of the Doolittle school and former county superintendent of schools. Of all the candidates mentioned for the place, with the exception of former District Superintendent Lowry, it is believed Principal Bright's election would prove most satisfactory to Supt. Cooley. Other candidates who have been named are:

W. W. Speer, who was ousted from the office of district superintendent by Supt. Cooley, one of Cooley's bitterest enemies.

William J. Bogan, principal of the Hoyne and South Division Manual Training High schools; regarded as a friend of the federationists.

Mary E. Vaughan, principal of the Lawson school; a vowed friend of the federation.

Harriet Taylor Treadwell, former president of the Chicago Teachers' federation.

M. Elisabeth Farson, principal of the Libby school.

May Change Promotion System.

The committee named by the school board to investigate the promotional examination system is expected to report its findings to the school management committee today. It is said the committee favors abolishing the system which was adopted by the board last year and doing away with examinations as tests of the teachers' efficiency. It was predicted that the committee would report in favor of advancing the teachers from grade to grade on the salary scale on a basis solely of length of service.

PLAN IS TO EXPEND $250,000 TO BEAUTIFY SMALL PARKS.

Washington Square and East End Plot Are to Be Especially Favored, According to the Commission's Plans.

Splashing fountains, classic statues, swimming pools with colonnades, and landscape gardening are included in a $250,000 estimate of improvements to be made next year in Chicago's small parks.

Plans were laid yesterday by the small parks commission for starting some of the work this fall. There are forty-three small parks in Chicago, and some of them are in a miserably neglected state, according to Superintendent John Algots.

Washington square, the popular breathing place at Clark street and Walton place, will have a fountain in its center. The park, which has been allowed to run down at the heel, will be supplied with new sidewalks. Landscape gardening will bring the total cost of the improvements up to $10,000.

East End park, bounded by Lake Michigan, Fifty-first and Fifty-third streets, and East End avenue, will get $50,000 of the appropriation—the largest of any small park in the city. The opportunities are greater than at any other small park, it being the only one with a lake frontage. This fall a breakwater will be erected to protect the land, which includes ten acres. A bathing beach will be provided also.

If the commission can secure enough money a bathing pool will be provided at Austin park, a long, narrow strip of four acres, near Holdom and Merrick parks, in Austin. The pool and building will cost around $8,000. A similar sum will be expended in landscape gardening.

Three tracts of land donated some years ago for park purposes in Norwood Park will be improved.

FOILS ROBBERY ON DRIVE.

PORCHCLIMBERS SCARED FROM FRANKLIN MAC VEAGH'S HOUSE.

Edward Morton, Riding on Boulevard in Automobile, Sees Two Men at the Residence, One on Window Ledge and Other on Walk—Goes to Find Policeman and Crooks Flee—Examination Later Shows Thief Had Nearly Forced an Entrance.

Porch climbers early this morning made an attack upon the residence of Franklin MacVeagh, 103 Lake Shore drive, and were prevented from getting into the house only by the activity of a citizen who was riding by in his automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. MacVeagh are at their summer home in Dublin, N. H.

At 1 a. m. Edward Morton, assistant sales manager for the Standard Oil company, was riding south in the drive, and in passing the MacVeagh residence observed two dark figures lurking in the partial shadows on the south side of the house. One of the men was standing on a small veranda and the other was on the Schiller street sidewalk, apparently "on guard."

Detects Porch Climber at Work.

Mr. Morton halted his vehicle long enough to satisfy himself that the man on the porch was tinkering at a window. Then he decided to hunt the police. He turned west in Schiller street, and as he moved away he saw the man who had been on the ground flee across the roadway and on the lawn to the north of Mrs. Potter Palmer's residence.

The other robber remained on the veranda and crouched so that nothing could be seen of him but his shoulders.

Goes for Police; Finds None.

Mr. Morton drove his machine as rapidly as possible to Schiller and North Clark streets, where he attempted to find a policeman, but was unsuccessful. He then drove to Division and North Clark streets and there found Policeman Kildea of the Larrabee street station and a private watchman.

They climbed into the machine and Morton hurried back with them to the MacVeagh house. When they arrived the second burglar had escaped.

Four servants had been aroused by this time and it was found a window had been broken. Detectives were sent out later from the Chicago avenue station to make a search for the thieves, but no trace of them was discovered.

COMERFORD FIXES HIS STATUS.

Attorney Has Trouble Getting Salary, Learning Finally He Is on the Police Pay Roll.

Police Attorney Frank D. Comerford, who has been working for the city since Aug. 1, part of the time eighteen and twenty hours a day, found trouble yesterday in drawing his first month's pay. He gets $2,500 a year and he had $208 33 coming to him.

He could have used the money the first of the month, when it was due, but he didn't want to appear eager. Besides he was busy.

When he at length decided to make some inquiries at the office of the corporation counsel, who he supposed was his superior, he was told he was under the police department. Then he went to see Chief Collins.

"It is up to the secretary of the police department," the chief said. "See Si Mayer."

After looking through the council proceedings Mr. Mayer came across an appropriation of $2,500 for a police attorney. Then Mr. Comerford and Mr. Mayer got an opinion from the corporation counsel's office that Mr. Comerford was on the police pay roll and he got his money.

GIRL ENTICED: MAN ARRESTED.

George Brown, Twenty-one Years Old, Seized on Complaint of Grace Oldock's Mother.

Charged with having enticed Grace Oldock, 11 years old, 147 Robey street, into a barn near her home yesterday morning, George Brown, 21 years old, a laborer, was arrested last evening by the police. He will be arraigned before Justice Dooley today.

Neighbors who heard the little girl screaming in the barn ran to her assistance. She had broken away from Brown and was fighting with him to open the door.

The Lake street police were called to the place, but Brown escaped. The mother swore out a warrant and Detectives Mitchell and Lavery caught the man. He denies the charge.

Central church will resume services Sunday, Sept. 9. Dr. F. W. Gunsaulus will preach at 11 o'clock. Doors open at 10:30. All are cordially invited.

INJUNCTION STOPS RAIDS ON HOTELS

Police Forbidden to Interfere with Legitimate Business of Four Houses.

MAY WATCH THEIR DOORS

Court's Order Not Intended a Shield for Immoral Patrons of the Places.

Judge Barnes, in the Superior court, yesterday enjoined the city police from further interference with the legitimate business of the Hotel Queen, one of the hotels recently closed in a spectacular police raid. The injunction applies by agreement to the Stafford, the Great Western, and the Grand Eastern hotels.

The victory is a doubtful one for the hotels. The word "legitimate" is variously interpreted by the police and by the hotel proprietors. Judge Barnes, in explaining his decision, said he had no intention of protecting the immorality upon which these places thrive, but that the police had no right to retain the keys and keep the places closed to honest "transients" that came along.

Attorney Frank Comerford, representing the police department, asked if the injunction would mean that the police would have to be taken away from the hotel doors. Judge Barnes said the police power of preventing vice would keep the officers on watch. This was held by Mr. Comerford to be sufficient for his purpose.

Policemen to Watch Doors.

In a statement issued after the decision, Mr. Comerford said:

"The injunction issued by Judge Barnes will not interfere with the presence of uniformed policemen at the doors of the disreputable hotels we have closed. These uniformed policemen will see that the hotels are not made shelter places for vice and crime. Out of the mouths of two hotel owners and by the registers we have proved that these places have been conducted for immoral purposes.

"The city has the right to pass and enforce an ordinance providing for the licensing of hotels and conferring upon the mayor the right to revoke the license of any hotel upon evidence supplied by the police department. The ordinance will make it necessary for every hotel in Chicago to take out a license.

"I have prepared a draft of an ordinance conferring upon the mayor as complete authority over the hotels as he now has over saloons. Public opinion should get behind this and make it an issue. Judge Barnes supported our position that the city has a right to license hotels and pointed to this method as one of the best adapted to regulate this evil. The police department can protect the community against any further indecency in these hotels until such an ordinance can be passed."

Women Will Be Shadowed.

Chief Collins was asked how he intended to discriminate between prospective guests who approach the hotels.

"A policeman," he said, "can tell vice from virtue in a glance. We will have men on the sidewalk in front of those places and no woman known to be of immoral character will be allowed to go in. Those that are doubtful we will follow in and see what they want. Persons without baggage will be shadowed with great care."

"I wish to say," said Judge Barnes, in his decision, "that any order entered by me will give the owners of these hotels no right to operate their respective premises in an illegal manner. But the court cannot lose sight of the fact that the property involved is valuable and that the city cannot deprive the owners of a lawful use of the property."

LAVIN CASE IS CONTINUED: INSPECTOR HUNT A WITNESS.

Latter Is Expected to Produce Signed Statement of Mahoney Which Will Be of Value to the Defense.

Police Inspector Lavin was allowed another week yesterday in which to prepare his defense against the charges filed against him by Chief of Police Collins. After a bitter fight between the opposing attorneys, a delay was granted until Sept. 13 by the civil service commission.

One of Lavin's secret agents said he wants to wait until State's Attorney Healy returns to Chicago for the purpose of getting a representative of the state's attorney's office to attend the hearing and advise as to the prosecutions for perjury which Lavin contemplates introducing.

Former Inspector Hunt, who is out of the city, is essential to the defense because he has in his possession, it is stated, a written statement in regard to the Hagamann jewelry robbery made by Policeman Patrick F. Mahoney, chief accuser of Lavin, at the time Mahoney faced Dan Curran in Hunt's office. Mahoney did not implicate Lavin in that statement.

Commissioner Prentiss asked Chief Collins if there were any more charges to be filed.

"I think the other charges should be filed before the beginning of the hearing," he said.

After a consultation with Chief Collins Mr. Comerford said they would go to trial on the charges filed.

Chief Collins conferred with Mayor Dunne after the hearing. The mayor said:

Found on the Skin

Phosphate

Direct from the Brain

We know that active brain work throws out the phosphate of potash, for this product is found on the skin after excessive brain work.

Brain workers, in order to keep well, must have proper food containing phosphate of potash to quickly and surely rebuild the used-up tissue.

That one can obtain such food has been proven in thousands of cases among users of Postum Food Coffee and Grape-Nuts.

Both contain phosphate of potash in minute particles, just as it is furnished by nature in the grains.

This product blends with albumen and makes the gray matter that builds the brain and fills the nerve centers.

In no way can this gray matter be made except by the action of phosphate of potash upon albumen, and this mineral should be introduced to the body just as it comes from nature's laboratory, and not from the drug store. The human system is more or less fastidious about taking up the needed elements, and, as might be suspected, it will favor the products of Mother Nature rather than the products of the drug shop, however valuable they may be for certain uses.

Athletes, lawyers, journalists, doctors, ministers, business men and others, who earn their living by the use of the brain, are using both Postum Food Coffee and Grape-Nuts Food. Both products are manufactured for a reason. They were originated by an expert, and the regenerative value of both the Postum Coffee and the Food has been demonstrated beyond question. Made in the pure food factories of Postum Co. at Battle Creek, Mich.

"For variety eat Grape-Nuts Wafers. Now 10 cents."

THE HUB
Henry Lindblom

OFFICIALLY the fall clothes season is underway—here at any rate—and The Hub invites inspection of its fall models in order to acquaint you with what you are required to wear this autumn. These models are the best work of the twelve best wholesale tailors in the world. You will be interested in one of them. This house is too great to limit itself to one line. Chicago is too great a community to be satisfied with one line. And what pleases Chicago as a whole it is the duty of The Hub to provide. It is great enough to fill the order to the required limit. Of the twelve lines mentioned, we speak in particular of the models of the Atterbury System—the refined New York tailors whose garments are all made individually and of the very finest materials. Request our salesmen to show them to you. We will be entirely satisfied with your judgment thereof. Atterbury fall suits and overcoats sell at $20 to $45.

Other lines of suits and overcoats retail from $10 to $25.

We are about closing out all that remain of last season's fall overcoats, which we offer now at $12.75, and which sold last fall at $18, $20, $25 and $30. They are mostly in the Louis XV cut which, by the way, will be the prevailing style for this year. The shades are light and medium and many are silk lined. These garments cannot be told from this season's models save by the most observing dressers, and even they are buying them. Look at them in the windows. They will do their own selling.

This is 1000 Tom! meet me here to face Jackson & Clark.

I intend to give you this fall the same values at 10.00 in suits, overcoats and "Priestley Cravenetted" rain coats as I did last fall. My store and stock are twice as large as a year ago. My business is twice as large—THANK YOU. I am not fool enough to stop "scalping" on clothing. I will let well enough alone. I am making all my wife and I want for our moderate needs—nothing can now stop the WONDERFUL and UNEQUALED growth of my clothing business, unless I should do as others would do and are doing, that is, try to "do you." I am going to continue to sell clothing at 10.00 as good as you can buy on State St. at 15.00 to 20.00. Clothing such as I wear myself, good enough for me to wear, good enough for you to wear. I now have the largest and lightest clothing room in Chicago — the old open Board of Trade Hall. I sell all 2.00 Hats at 1.65.

I never have "Cold Feet," because I wear "Patriot" Shoes, so can you. I sell them at 3.65—save 1.35.

FINISH FIGHT BY VOTERS' LEAGUE.

President Cole Announces Suits to Force More Candidates Are Under Way.

WILL ACT FOR FIVE MEN.

Legality of Conventions Will Be Attacked on Gound Instructions Were Defied.

President George E. Cole of the Legislative Voters' league made it plain yesterday the league intends to make a fight to a finish for its contention that political managers must nominate more candidates for the legislature than they have been in the custom of doing.

"The voters must be given the chance of making at least some choice as to who will represent them at Springfield," was the way Mr. Cole put it.

The action was to prepare five mandamus suits through which the courts will be asked to order the names of additional candidates on the legislative tickets in as many districts. This is to be followed by similar suits in other districts.

Pass on Five Candidates.

Those passed on, and the candidates the league acted for are:

The idea of the league is first to try to get these and what other names it may decide upon on the ticket through mandamus proceedings. If this fails then the election commissioners will be appealed to under their instructions to the nominating convention telling the delegates to nominate three candidates in all districts where there were that many aspirants of one party at the primaries. Then if this fails the last resort will be to appeal to the voters to support independent or third party candidates.

Statement by Mr. Cole.

President Cole gave out this statement as to the situation:

"We will undoubtedly start more suits of a like nature. We will probably wait until the names are filed with the secretary of state before opening our fight before the election commissioners, when we will object to the nomination papers as being incomplete in that the orders of the election commissioners were ignored by the conventions, resulting in an incomplete ticket that shuts out the voters from any choice as to members of the lower house of the assembly.

"The league will be represented in this matter by Kraus, Alschuler & Holden, George E. Dawson, and also its secretary, William Otis Wilson. I can form no idea as to how the legal fight will work itself out, as the lawyers tell me that there are few precedents to go by. One thing is certain: We purpose exhausting every resource at out disposal towards restoring to the people the lost opportunity of really electing their representative.

"I do not expect that we will be overwhelmingly successful at this time, but I do hope and expect that our fight will educate and stir up the voters to the point of rebellion, and then something is bound to happen."

Pick G. O. P. Subcommittees.

The executive committee of the republican county committee met yesterday and selected the various subcommittees. Their chairmen are:

Organization—John Hanberg.
Halls and speakers—Daniel A. Campbell.
Naturalization—Charles W. Vail.
Finance—Fred A. Busse.
Press and literature—Charles Andrews.
Auditing—Fred Blount.
Prevention and detection of frauds—James Pease.

The republican state committee has been called to meet at the Great Northern hotel at 10 o'clock next Thursday morning to organize. The program is to reelect Roy O. West chairman without opposition.

The democratic county committee has engaged rooms at 122 La Salle street and will move into them on Monday.

GOV. PARDEE LOSES NOMINATION

California Republican Convention Nominates Congressman J. N. Gillett to Run for Post.

For governor....CONGRESSMAN J. N. GILLETT
For associate justice a.....M. G. SLOSS
For assistant Supreme court judge.....F. W. HENSHAW
For assistant Supreme court judge.W. G. LORIGAN

Santa Cruz, Cal., Sept. 6.—In addition to nominating a ticket the republican convention adopted a platform which reaffirms allegiance to the policies of the republican party as set forth in the national platform of 1904. The work of the last congress is highly commended, especially the enactment of the railroad rate bill and the efforts made to punish trust organizations which have evaded their obligations.

The senators from California are urged, and the representatives to congress pledged, to endeavor to secure the passage of the laws providing for the exclusion of the Japanese and all other kinds of Asiatic labor, and to prevent the Asiatic people of our insular possessions from coming to the United States proper.

A direct primary law providing for the nomination of public officers by the people is favored.

ROOSEVELT RULE UNTIL 1912?

Speaker Cannon Ventures Remark in View of Bryan's Recent Utterances.

Rockland, Me., Sept. 6.—"Stranger things might happen than Roosevelt's being president until 1912," said Speaker Joseph G. Cannon in the course of a speech advocating the reflection of Representative Littlefield here tonight.

The statement was made after Mr. Cannon had discussed recent utterances of W. J. Bryan.

Speaker Cannon had a severe chill while on his way here by train from Lewiston today, and kept to his bed at the local hotel after his arrival until the early evening, but he recovered sufficiently to fulfill his engagement. When Mr. Cannon left the hall at the conclusion of his speech he exhibited signs of weakness, but expressed the belief that a night's rest would restore his normal condition.

GIRL CRUSHED UNDER FENDER.

Josephine Barca Struck by Car While She Is Playing in West Taylor Street.

While playing in front of her parents' house, Josephine Barca, 6 years old, 198 West Taylor street, was struck by a west bound Taylor street car last night and severely injured. The child was rolled beneath the fender of the car. Mrs. Barca carried the child into the house and the police took her later to the County hospital.

Floor Gives; Three Workmen Killed.

Elyria, O., Sept. 6.—Three men were killed and a dozen seriously injured by the falling of the second floor of the new factory building of the Garford company, under construction here, today. Sixteen workmen on the first floor of the building were caught beneath the fall of heavy tile, brick, and steel beams of the wrecked floor. The cause of the accident is unknown.

FINDS EASY WAY TO I. M. O.

COL. J. HAM LEWIS WOULD IGNORE STATE CONSTITUTION.

Gravely Tells the Court That the Voters Having Declared for Chicago to Go Into the Street Car Business That Ought to Settle It—Attorney Aldrich, However, Declares That the $75,000,000 Mueller Certificates Cannot Be Issued Legally.

Corporation Counsel James Hamilton Lewis introduced novelty and interest yesterday into the formerly dry argument over the validity of the proposed issue of $75,000,000 of Mueller law traction certificates, which has been going on before Judge Windes.

Charles H. Aldrich of the counsel attacking the validity of the proposed certificates had made the point that the constitution of Illinois prohibited either the state or any municipality in it from lending its credit or advancing its money in aid of any railroad or canal, and Col. Lewis answered him.

"Lately the legislature granted the city of Chicago the right to go into the street car business if it can raise the money," Col. Lewis said. "At a recent referendum the people of Chicago voted in favor of issuing these certificates. So the people ought to be allowed to do as they please, whether the constitution forbids it or not."

Reply Made by Aldrich.

The plea of the corporation counsel, however, was enough to cause Mr. Aldrich to reply to it at length.

"I have never had any patience," he said, "with the argument made to a nisi prius judge that it made no difference how he decided an important case, as the responsibility for the final decision would be with the upper court. All of us who have anything to do with the administration of the law have taken an oath to obey and support the constitution, and that oath is binding on us."

Continuing Mr. Aldrich made the argument that the reason the state was prohibited from going into the railroad business by the constitution of 1848 was because between 1830 and 1836 it had gone bankrupt on railroad speculations and that afterwards the counties and cities had similar experiences, so that in the constitution of 1870 the prohibition on municipalities was added. The clause in the constitution, he contended, must be interpreted in light of the knowledge that the people of Illinois put it in the constitution as an inhibition of any further mistakes of the kind.

Danger of Foreclosure.

In the morning Frank H. Scott made the argument against the validity of the proposed certificates. He said there was danger of foreclosure proceedings by holders of bonds in the event the certificates are issued. He pointed out that if the city were unable to meet the interest on the bonds out of the revenue derived from the street railway system the holders of the bonds might foreclose on the mortgage. They would then, he declared, be entitled to a twenty year franchise.

IRRIGATION, NOT POLITICS, IS VICE PRESIDENT'S THEME.

Mr. Fairbanks, Visiting His Son Here, Parries Questions and Discusses Farming and Use of Water on Land.

Vice President Charles Warren Fairbanks spent several hours in Chicago yesterday as the guest of his son, Warren C. Fairbanks, 50 Astor street, but he declined to discuss politics. He had been out west to deliver an address on irrigation, and that and the weather was all he would talk about.

"It won't be a distant day," Mr. Fairbanks said, after successfully parrying questions about Bryan and republican presidential possibilities, "when Illinois, Ohio, Iowa, Indiana, and other states of the middle west will be irrigated."

This was a startling statement to come from six feet and several inches of conservatism and Mr. Fairbanks was asked to elucidate.

"I don't mean to say that they will be irrigated in just the same way as the desert lands of the west, or that irrigation ever will be necessary to that extent," he explained. "In times of drought, however, you know as well as I do, if you are familiar with corn growing, that hundreds of thousands of bushels of grain are lost.

"This loss occurs in a country threaded with lakes and rivers and smaller streams which send their water in a waste to the gulf. As soon as the people begin to understand intensive agriculture they will take advantage of their water and they never will lose a crop. The lack of intensive culture in this country will be seriously felt some day."

Mr. Fairbanks, who left in the evening for his home in Indianapolis, had been at Osawatomie and Dodge City, Kas., and Boise, Idaho, where he had made addresses. He consented to speak at the laying of the cornerstone of the new county building in Chicago on Sept. 21.

METAL WORKERS PREPARING TO FIGHT FOR 8 HOUR DAY.

Convention Will Appoint Committee to Secure Funds and "Educate" Members of Unions for the Campaign.

A fight for an eight hour workday which will affect more than 200,000 workers in the various metal industries is to be launched in Chicago next Monday. Delegates from every local organization of metal trades workers in America will meet in the hall of the Chicago Metal Trades council, 175 West Madison street, to form an international federation, which will collect funds and carry on the fight.

These organizations do not expect to ask that the change actually take place for probably four years, but a committee will take up the work of securing funds, educating the workers, and doing all the preliminary work necessary to prepare the men for the struggle if one must come.

Four hundred truck drivers who have withdrawn from the Shea union met at Bricklayers' hall, Peoria and Monroe streets, last evening, and while fifty policemen guarded the building to prevent riots, organized a truck drivers' local of the United Teamsters of America—the seceding teamsters' international body. The following officers were elected:

President—Daniel Furman.
Vice president—Albert Faulk.
Recording secretary—William McWade.
Treasurer and secretary—Thomas McCormick.

SUSPICION IN $1,800 THEFT.

Police Will Investigate Case of Concern That Carries $5,000 Burglary Insurance.

An $1,800 burglary where the complainant carries $5,000 worth of burglar insurance is a combination which the police will today investigate in the case of the Paris Gown company, 472 West Madison street.

On Sept. 2 the president of the concern, S. L. Gordon, reported that the firm's place of business had been looted of $1,800 worth of goods. The police began an investigation and shortly learned that the concern carries $5,000 burglary insurance.

Last night Gordon furnished the police with a list of the stolen property, which will be used by them in their investigation.

CENSURE ICE CREAM MAKER.

Jurors Hold That Mrs. Main Came to Death Through Ptomaines in Frozen Material.

At an inquest yesterday over the body of Mrs. Mary C. Main, 1500 Seventy-first court, who died of ptomaine poisoning after eating ice cream, a coroner's jury censured A. Burgess, a confectioner in Oak Park, who manufactured the cream, and recommended that a rigid investigation be made by the health authorities regarding the manufacture of all ice cream.

"TIM" HEALY FOR SIMPLE SPELLING

Declares Its Advocacy by Roosevelt Will Be a Great Benefit to the Poor.

SURPRISED AT CAR FARE.

Thinks Tax on Tramways Preferable in This City to Municipal Ownership.

"Tim" Healy, the fighting member of parliament, has become an ardent admirer of President Roosevelt. When he arrived in Chicago yesterday he could find no words too strong to express his approval of the "bold, daring president," and all because of the spelling "reform."

"Your president's achievement in bringing about this spelling reform will be of far greater benefit than his work in bringing about peace between Japan and Russia," exclaimed the Irish leader. "And it certainly was a much bolder bit of work.

"The persons who will benefit by the reform are the working classes, who have no time to study the history of a word. What is the use of telling a child that t-o spells 'tu,' when he knows it spells 'toe'? The professors, teachers, publishers, and other persons who, through habit or financial interests, have become wedded to the old misleading style of spelling say it is a sacrilege to change the 'oughs' and the 'eighs' and other idiotic methods of misspelling words.

Gives Advice to Professors.

"But the working classes, who have but a short time to spend at schools, cannot afford to waste a lot of time on learning a lot of stuff that is of no worth to them. The professors argue that the spelling will show the history of a word. Let them get the history from the dictionaries and let the people who wish to read easily hunt up the history if they want it.

"Why, do you know, sir, that if you take the leading article in any morning paper today and place it in the hands of any 10 year old child in one of your Chicago public schools, that the child will be unable to read it in an intelligible manner, although he may have gone to school four years? All because of the misleading spelling. The article probably will not have any words or phrases in it that a child shouldn't be able to read, but he can't do it.

Tells How Milton Spelled.

"Milton spelled the word 'sovereign' s-o-v-e-r-a-n, but some printer's devil or somebody else decided that a sovereign should reign, so reign it is, although it doesn't spell the word we mean. That is why you Americans are getting to pronounce your words different from the English. Did you ever notice that you are dropping the r's in many of your words, and that you often hear such words as 'Sherman' pronounced 'Shoiman'? All because of the lax methods of pronunciation and rigid rules of spelling.

"Carnegie, by his work on the simplified spelling board, has done more for the Americans than he has by planting libraries about the country. He has assisted the general public in making opportunities for them to read, but far more in making it possible for many with limited education to read."

Street Car Fare Surprises Him.

Mr. Healy was surprised when he was compelled to pay "two pence ha' penny" for a ride of one block in a street car. He felt sure "such a tram ride in Dublin would have cost but a ha' penny."

Then Mr. Healy had praise for Chicago's new pavements.

"When I was here in 1881 I noticed that you had, as your citizens boasted, rich, deep soil. In fact, I noticed it was at least three feet deep, for the carriages always went into the mud that deep in driving about the main streets. Since that time you have covered up the soil with good pavements," he commented.

Talks of Municipal Ownership.

Mr. Healy was asked what he thought of government ownership of railroads.

"I can't say," he replied, "but it seems to me greater federal control is a step in the right direction. Municipal ownership works well in Glasgow and some other cities in Europe, but it does not follow that it would be successful here, where politics plays such a big part in the conduct of affairs. It seems to me it would be far better to have the tramways pay an annual rental for the use of the streets. That plan is followed in Dublin, where I believe $75,000 or $80,000 is paid each year."

Mr. Healy placed the stamp of his approval on the working of the Irish land bill, and stated that between 22 and 23 per cent of the land has already passed into the hands of the peasantry.

Mr. Healy will be in Chicago but a few days—he says the fewer the better, because of the heat of the city, which he cannot stand. He has not yet decided where he will go from here.

Will Judge at Hurling Match.

Mr. Healy will judge the hurling match at the Irish field day under the auspices of the Gaelic society, scheduled for last Sunday, but postponed on account of unfavorable weather until next Sunday. The match will be held at West Chicago Driving Club park. Mr. Healy is an ardent admirer of Irish sport and is a member of the Gaelic Athletic association, the rules of which will govern the games. The events will be running, jumping, weight throwing, hurling, Irish dancing, and singing in the Irish language.

CHILD ENTICER FINED $200.

Edward Higgs Admits Charge of Little Margaret Smith and Tries Vainly to "Avoid Publicity."

Edward D. Higgs, 244 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, purchasing agent for the Creamery Package company, 182 Kinzie street, was fined $200 by Justice Eberhardt on complaint of Margaret Smith, 12 years old, daughter of James H. Smith, 5432 Ohio street, principal of the Austin High school.

Higgs' attorney, James W. Hyde, said his client "wished to avoid publicity" and was "willing to pay the maximum fine" without a hearing, but the court insisted that the little girl should testify. The girl told of Higgs accosting her in a car of a Chicago and Oak Park Elevated train.

"He said: 'I would like to become better acquainted with you,'" the girl testified, "and asked me to meet him that evening at Pine and Ohio streets, but said, 'Don't tell any one about it.' When I reached home I told father about it."

Collars of Known Quality

You have to guess at the quality of most collars you buy at 15 cents (2 for 25c.) Yet you can make a pretty good guess at that. If they are not stamped "Triangle Linen," it's safe to bet they are made of cotton.

When a collar is stamped "Triangle Linen" you know it's real Linen—because the law says only collars made of linen can be stamped "Linen."

This is your protection.

Be sure your collars are stamped "Triangle Linen," then you know you are getting what you want and what you pay for. When you pay 15 cents you are entitled to a Linen collar. Get it.

Among the 150 styles of Triangle collars you are sure to find the shape and size that suits you exactly. If your dealer hasn't the style you want, write to us and we will see that you get it.

To Ice Consumers!

The present stock of ice on hand in the houses of this company, as well as probable weather conditions, make it absolutely necessary (in order that the needs of our customers may be provided for until the harvesting of new ice) that the price of ice be increased to all BUSINESS PLACES supplied by this company.

Therefore, on and after September 6th, 1906, and until further notice, the following scale of prices will be in effect:

	Per Week.
15 lbs. six times per week	80 cts.
20 lbs. six times per week	$1.00
	Per 100 lbs.
Less than 500 lbs. at one delivery	37½ cts.
500 lbs. and over at one delivery and less than 3,000 lbs.	32½ cts.
3,000 lbs. and over at one delivery	30 cts.
Load and over daily	25 cts.

If, on account of cooler weather than anticipated, or other causes, the demand for ice is lessened and we are assured that our stock will be sufficient for all needs, the PRICE OF ICE will then be REDUCED ACCORDINGLY.

The price of ice to families put in effect May 5th will remain the same.

DOUBLE SHUFFLE HIS ACCEPTANCE

New President of Dancing Masters Adds Somersault as Extra Thanks.

GOES HOME TO KILL SELF.

Italian, Despite Brother's Pleading, Sails to Keep His Suicide Pact.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
New York, Sept. 6.

Elected President of Dance Masters; Kicks.

Even the canary birds that sing by electric light in the lobby of the Majestic hotel ceased warbling this morning when a peculiar noise echoed throughout the place from the ballroom. It was Mr. George T. Wilson of Portland, Me., felicitating over his unexpected election to the presidency of the American Society of Professors of Dancing.

Instead of making a speech over his victory, as most folks would, Mr. Wilson performed an Arabian double shuffle, winding up with a somersault. Quick as a flash, by way of repartee, the other members gave four fancy side steps to the left in unison, and ended with a modest high kick.

Mr. Wilson's outburst of joy was not a ripple on the surface as compared to the reception given the new national dance, "The Spirit of America," executed for the first time in the ballroom a few minutes later by Mr. Holland, jauntily attired as Uncle Sam. It consisted of a combination of four simple break-steps and a forward glide, similar to the Hester street waltz. The only person who had a kick to register was the official orchestra, Gottlieb Meyerbeer. He had to play every national tune on the calendar.

"Too much is enough," he said, desperately, as he got up from the piano. This earned him a half hour's vacation.

A pretty little woman attired in a white china silk gown, with a three-quarter skirt, wafted herself upon the scene. She was Miss Kittie W. Nathan, spieling expert of Colorado Springs and Denver.

"You newspaper men have got in wrong on our convention," she said. "Our efforts are ridiculed instead of being encouraged. Are we not restoring one of the oldest arts? Dancing, as you know, originated with the long legged bipeds, such as storks, flamingoes, cranes, etc."

Interrupted Mr. Duenweg: "The aborigines noted these antics indulged in at certain seasons of the year by their feathered friends, and later adapted the gyrations to music. The original dancing master was a bird.

"Socrates learned to dance when he was an old man," interrupted Miss Nathan as she pirouetted coquettishly. "Plato advocated it, and Miriam, Moses' sister, was a regular soubrette in her day. It became a lost art, though."

Goes to Italy to Keep Suicide Pact.

Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, rich and a member of the Astor family, is the leading candidate for lieutenant governor with Hearst.

A dramatic scene occurred on the French line pier today just before the steamer La Provence left for Havre. Among the passengers was Luigi Contanrini, 34 years of age, who was bound for his old home in Italy to keep a suicide pact to die on his sweetheart's grave.

Antonio Contanrini, a brother of the passenger, created the scene and afterwards told his brother's story. He said that Luigi became betrothed to a girl in his native town. Her parents opposed the match, and Luigi, with his sweetheart's promise to keep faith, came to this country to seek his fortune. He wrote for the girl to come, but she replied that her parents forbade, that she intended to commit suicide, and that she expected Luigi to join her in death.

News that the girl had carried out her purpose followed, and Luigi started for Italy to kill himself on the girl's grave. Luigi went to his brother, Antonio, told him the story, and bade him farewell.

Entreaties failed to swerve the man, and on the pier today Antonio clung to his brother passionately, imploring him not to go. Luigi shook his head. Antonio then half dragged him to an open space on the pier, fell on his knees, raised a crucifix aloft, and renewed his pleadings. Luigi could not be moved, and finally went on board La Provence. When the ship sailed Luigi stood at the rail watching Antonio, who had again fallen on his knees and with outstretched arms was beckoning his brother.

Mrs. William Astor Ill in Boston Hotel.

Mrs. William Astor has been lying ill in the Hotel Somerset in Boston since last Tuesday. Since her arrival in Boston a severe cold, combined with a slight attack of indigestion, has caused Mrs. Astor to summon Dr. J. H. Stevens, who today reports her condition as much improved. While the statement given out by Dr. Austin Flint Jr. of New York, Mrs. Astor's personal physician, who came from Newport today, says Mrs. Astor is suffering from cold and indigestion, it is regarded as significant that Dr. A. F. Christian of this city, a nerve specialist, has been called to attend Mrs. Astor.

Today this bulletin concerning Mrs. Astor's condition was given out:

"Mrs. Astor is suffering from a slight cold, with an attack of indigestion. She is doing well and probably will leave for Newport in a day or two."

When Dr. Christian came from the hotel he was asked about Mrs. Astor being delirious. He said:

"I cannot say anything about her condition now. I have not arrived at a definite conclusion yet. A statement will be issued tomorrow."

Kenosha Woman Arrested for Robbery.

Chief of Police Owen O'Hare of Kenosha, Wis., has been in this city since Sunday waiting for extradition papers allowing him to take back Mary Kaparowitch, a boarding house keeper of Kenosha, who, with her husband, Frank Kaparowitch, is believed to have robbed her boarders of between $600 and $700. The couple lived at 336 Bond street, Kenosha. She was arraigned before Magistrate Breen in the Essex market police court this morning, but the extradition papers had not yet arrived and she was held for them.

Gas Company Beaten; Must Give 80 Cent Rate.

Justice Giegerich of the Supreme court today denied a motion for the reargument of the case of Dionegi Rebecchi, in which the justice issued a peremptory writ of mandamus to compel the Consolidated Gas company to furnish Rebecchi gas at an 80 cent rate. In his decision Justice Giegerich held that the unsupported assertion that the new law deprived the company of its property without due process of law was not sufficient to suspend the operation of the statute.

Yacht Sinks; Edward Whitney in Peril.

The steam yacht Arrow, owned by Edward F. Whitney, credited with being the fastest boat in these waters, today was stove in and sank to its upper works. Mr. Whitney, who is a partner of J. P. Morgan, and his nephew were aboard. They, with a crew of fifteen men, were taken off the yacht by tugs. The Arrow was steaming down the East river at high speed when a log became entangled in the propeller, staving a hole in the yacht's stern.

UKASE PUTTING RUSSIA UNDER MILITARY ALARMS PEOPLE.

Czar's Plan for Dealing with Mutinies, Armed Uprisings, and Anarchy Claimed to Be Arbitrary and Unscrupulous—Drafters of Incendiary Proclamations to the Army, Navy, and Peasants See Visions of Black Walls and Firing Squads.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 6.—The imperial decree authorizing the institution of field courts martial throughout the larger part of the empire is regarded with disquietude. While it is realized that it may be a necessary measure in dealing with mutinies, armed uprisings, and conditions of terrorism and anarchy, such as prevail in Poland, the Baltic provinces, and the Caucasus, it is claimed that arbitrary and unscrupulous officials are likely to abuse the powers conferred upon them.

Black Walls and Firing Squads.

Drafters of incendiary proclamations to the army, navy, and peasants who hitherto have had no worse punishment to fear than imprisonment or deportation are now picturing to themselves black walls and firing squads. It is, however, apparently intended only to make the provisions of the ukase applicable in grave cases, since the military courts are not permanent and must be specially constituted on each occasion. It is probable that they will only be resorted to in cases similar to the assassination of Gen. Min and the attempt on the life of Premier Stolypin, where prolonged trials keep the accused persons prominently in the eyes and sympathies of the public.

Converted to Land Expropriation.

A hint of Premier Stolypin's conversion to the expropriation of private estates to a limited extent, which it is stated has occurred since his assumption of the premiership, is given in his reference to the agrarian problem. He said he was convinced that the distribution of the crown appanage lands by ordinary purchase operations through the Peasants' bank was not entirely adequate. In some, though not in many, provinces it would be necessary to expropriate land and make reasonable compensation for it, but his views, the premier added, were not shared by all his colleagues.

WARSHIP RIVALS DREADNOUGHT

Germany's New Vessel Will Carry Sixteen Big Guns, Compared to Ten for British Craft.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—According to the Cologne Gazette the new German 19,000 ton battleship, which will be a rival of the Dreadnought, will carry sixteen big guns, compared with the Dreadnought's ten. They, however, will be of smaller caliber, although their enormous length of forty-six feet will enable them to carry an unusually heavy charge, while the projectile will be 280 pounds heavier than any of the present German projectiles.

NOTES FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

CAPE HAYTIEN, Hayti.—A messenger today brought details of the capture of Dajabon, Santo Domingo, by the Dominican insurgent generals, Guelito, Mauricio, Jiminez, Andres Navarro, and Miguelito Rivas. At the head of 800 men they arrived before Dajabon, which was only defended by a garrison of seventy government soldiers. The latter, seeing the impossibility of resisting, retired into the fort and, Sept. 4, the town capitulated to the insurgent forces.

WASHINGTON.—A cablegram received today from Secretary Root stated that he would arrive at Panama on the Charleston on the 10th instant and would cross immediately to Colon. It is not yet known whether the secretary will board the Columbia at Colon or will go north on the Charleston to San Francisco and return to Washington overland.

LONDON.—Sir Thomas Lipton will sail for the United States Sept. 21 on the White Star line steamer Celtic. He is going to Chicago, but it is said that while in New York he probably will discuss with the committee of the New York Yacht club the conditions under which he may again challenge for the America cup.

BUCHAREST.—During the combined land and sea maneuvers at Constanza today a boat load of soldiers, members of a battalion of chasseurs, was capsized while being towed by a torpedo boat. Eleven privates and one officer were drowned.

THE HAGUE.—The international conference on tuberculosis was opened here today in the presence of Prince Henry of the Netherlands.

LIVERPOOL.—Pensions for everybody at the age of 60 was among the proposals adopted at today's session of the trades union congress.

PANAMA.—The national assembly today elected J. D. Obaldia first vice president of the republic by a majority of eighteen votes.

CUBAN REGULARS MEET A REPULSE

Insurgents Cut to Pieces Force of Government Troops Near Cienfuegos.

PEACE STILL IS SOUGHT.

Negotiations for Ending Bloodshed Continue; Liberals Aim at Palma.

CIENFUEGOS, Sept. 6.—A detachment of fifty government troops from this city today encountered a band of Gen. Guzman's insurgents near Camarones. In the fight which ensued the government force was routed, most of them being killed or wounded. There is great excitement in Cienfuegos.

Progress in Peace Program.

HAVANA, Sept. 6.—Gen. Menocal was busy throughout the day receiving callers, mostly moderates and veterans, and holding peace conferences. He said tonight he had no reason to be disappointed with the progress the negotiations are making, and that the semi-official suspension of hostilities which began today in Santa Clara and Havana provinces would be extended tomorrow to Pinar del Rio, giving the veterans a chance to get among their comrades and others in the field and push negotiations for peace. Gen. Menocal appears not to be discouraged by the attitude of the liberals.

The demands which come from the insurgents themselves as the price of a cessation of rebellion are regarded in the capital for the most part as not to be considered. These demands include the restoration of deserters from the rural guards to their former positions, the reinstatement of liberals who last year were deposed from municipal offices, the retention of their arms by the insurgents, and other equally radical propositions.

Still Hope to Oust Palma.

The liberals have not yet relinquished the hope that they may be able to force the resignation of President Palma and all the high government officials. The succession of Vice President Mendez Capote to the presidency is also discussed, and the liberals seem to think they could reach an understanding with him that would be satisfactory to all. There is nothing to indicate in any of the recent developments that Mendez Capote is a party to this project, and the reintroduction of his name in this connection serves only to complicate the discussions.

Many business men of Havana ridicule the whole effort for what they call a patched up peace, which, they allege, can be no more than temporary; and some go so far as to assert that the country never can be governed rightly or investments be absolutely safeguarded unless the United States intervene.

MILLIONAIRE PUT ON RACK IN SUIT FILED BY WIDOW.

James W. Friend Says He Remembers No Conversation with Mrs. Chadwick Relating to Bonds of W. C. Jutte.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Millionaire James W. Friend, who with F. N. Hoffstot, another millionaire, is being sued by the widow of W. C. Jutte, to recover $1,000,000 which she alleges they secured from her husband while he was insane, had an unhappy time in court today.

Leo Weil, Mrs. Jutte's attorney, wanted to know about Friend's dealings with Mrs. Cassie Chadwick. Friend admitted he knew Mrs. Chadwick. All the time he was examining Friend, Mr. Weil had Mrs. Chadwick's deposition before him. He read portions of it and then asked:

"Did you not talk with Mrs. Chadwick in Atlantic City with reference to the Jutte trusteeship, and did you not say to her that you had a lot of bonds of W. C. Jutte & Co. in trust you wanted her to sell to private persons, and that the old man was crazy?"

Friend said he remembered no such conversation. Mrs. Chadwick's statement, made in the Columbus penitentiary, has not yet been offered. When it is a strong endeavor will be made by the defense to prevent its admission.

MANY INSTRUCTORS AGREE TO USE SIMPLIFIED SPELLING.

More than 825 University and Other Teachers Approve New System—Western Schools Take It Up.

New York, Sept. 6.—The simplified spelling board, prior to Aug. 1, 1906, had received the signatures of 825 college presidents, professors, instructors, and university officers who had agreed to use the 300 words as far as practicable in their own correspondence.

This university influence is greatest in New York state, where more than 130 persons connected with universities and colleges have joined the movement; Illinois comes next with 130 signers; Massachusetts is third with 92; California comes next with 67; Michigan, 52; Missouri, 42; Pennsylvania, 31, and Connecticut, Indiana, Kansas, and Maryland each have more than 20 champions of the new spelling in their higher institutions of learning.

The remainder are scattered in varying numbers throughout the other states. Since Aug. 1, a number of university men have been added.

Activity in Cambria Stock Gives Rise to Rumor That Pennsylvania Road Will Give Up Control.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 6.—It was reported in this city today that the Pennsylvania railroad company had concluded a deal by which it expects to turn over to the United States Steel corporation its control of the Cambria Steel company, but all efforts to confirm the report were unsuccessful. The activity in the Cambria steel stock on the stock exchange, it is believed, gave rise to the rumor, which was denied at the offices of the Cambria Steel company. Brokers who have been selling large blocks of the stock refuse to say for whom they are acting.

CHICAGO WOMEN BEWARE!

You are being imposed upon in order that saleswomen in a certain department store may make money!

On August 14th a letter of complaint was written by a Chicago lady to the manufacturers of the famous Lablache Face Powder, stating that when endeavoring to buy "Lablache" at a Chicago department store, the saleslady, as an excuse for offering something else, spoke in a detrimental manner of its intrinsic merit.

To this lady was immediately sent absolute proofs of the purity, of the harmlessness, of the great antiseptic properties and of the high standard of excellence of SAILORS IN U. S. UNIFORM BARRED FROM HALL; SUE.

Rear Admiral Thomas Back of Action Brought by Seamen—Sees Insult to the Navy.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Suit is to be brought in the Superior courts by Fred Buenzle, a yeoman in the navy, against the Newport Amusement association, claiming damages for alleged discrimination against the uniform of a sailor. The suit has the indorsement of Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas, who wants the issue decided.

Attorney John C. Burke was retained today. If the case is decided against the plaintiff it will be taken to the United States Supreme court if necessary.

The case grows out of the refusal of the management of the amusement association, which conducts a dance hall, to allow Yeoman Buenzle and a sailor, both in uniform, to enter the hall.

CHICAGO GIRL SEEKS FATHER.

Miss Martha Corts Inherits Fortune and Wants to Aid Parent She Has Not Seen in Fifteen Years.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Miss Martha N. Corts, who gives her residence as 4000 Lake avenue, Chicago, is here for the purpose of finding her father, whom she has not seen for fifteen years.

Miss Corts says she is a graduate of Vassar and recently inherited a large sum of money. When she was a child her father went to Leadville to make his fortune. The mother died, after which a wealthy relative took the girl and sent her to school. Afterwards, to support herself, she learned telegraphy.

The girl's first thought when she obtained the inheritance was for her father. At Leadville she found his name among those who had lodged at the Salvation army lodging house three months ago, but is unable to find his present whereabouts. His name is Joseph Corts and he is about 72 years old.

At the residence of Miss Corts, in Lake avenue, her sister said she was away from the city on a vacation but would not volunteer further information regarding the matter.

Men's correct fall clothes $25

OUR fall showing of men's correctly tailored clothes outclasses any previous season's exhibit in point of style and range of assortment. The successive number of years we have handled the same brands, and the quantities which our immense volume of business enables us to buy, put us in closer touch with the maker than most merchants. He has a keener appreciation of our requirements, owing to our business intimacy. The maker combines the ideas of his skilled craftsmen with our absolute knowledge of the needs of our patrons.

The logical result, of course, is—clothes absolutely correct in style—and style is a quality we dote on. Included in this collection are the "Mandel Special" and Brokaw products, whose meritorious features mark them clothes for the man who really cares.

All the prevailing shades and styles at $25

Our new fall suits at $25 are the kind a well-groomed man will appreciate. They come in single and double breasted styles, and have that graceful close-fitting collar and full shoulder, semi-form-fitting back, with and without the vents. There are grays, browns, blues and mixtures.

SOXS' STICK WORK BEATS DETROIT.

Both Teams Have Their Batting Eyes, but Chicago Leads in Hits.

WIN FROM TIGERS, 13 TO 5.

Armour Puts in New Pitcher from Kansas, Who Proves to Be Easy for Jones' Men.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Slugging became quite fashionable with both the White Sox and the Detroit Tigers in the second game of the series at Bennett park this afternoon, which was won by the Sox, 13 to 5.

Manager Armour introduced another Western association pitching recruit from Leavenworth, Kan., and every man on the Chicago team fattened his batting average except Hub Hart, who succeeded Jay Towne as backstop.

Rowan is the name of the latest find of Armour's, but when the final out in the first inning had been made the Comiskeyites had piled up eight runs, which had been gathered on two passes, four singles, a double, and a triple. To add insult to injury Manager Jones and his men picked off another tally in the fifth, three in the sixth, and one in the ninth. The Tigers were able to gather two in the fourth, one in the seventh, and two in the eighth.

Smith Takes Pity on Tigers.

Chicago could have easily shut out the Tigers had Pitcher Smith so desired. After the long lead had been taken in the first inning Smith only played with the cripples and probably did not use a half dozen curve balls, being content with lobbing them over straight and letting the outfield do the rest. In fact, Manager Jones told him not to overwork himself, as the lead looked like certain victory.

Thirteen hits were made off Smith, of which Payne and Lindsay gathered three each. Chicago piled up sixteen, of which Isbell and Smith got three each. Home runs, doubles, and triples were plentiful, and Coughlin added to the collection by drawing a home run.

The attendance was unusually small today and after the first inning many left, while the others engaged in a jabberfest, during which they jollied Rowan and others on the team and helped to rattle the young man all they could. Rowan pitched a fairly good game after the first inning and was deserving of better treatment, but the Detroit fans seemed to have finally lost their patience and cut loose, evidently looking upon the game as a farce.

Not an Error for Sox.

Chicago played brilliantly in the field. Not an error was made, although some of the scorers were inclined to give Davis a bad mark when a hot one from Payne's bat got through his underpinning without being touched.

Chicago piled up its early lead in this manner: Hahn and Jones walked. Isbell was there with his bingle. Hahn scored, while Jones took third and Isbell second on the throw to the plate to try to stop Eddie. Davis then rolled one to Crawford, who threw home too late to get Jones, who slid under Schmidt. Isbell took third on the play. Davis pilfered second. Donohue hit a red hot one, which hit Rowan on the leg and caromed to Coughlin on third in time to head Jiggs off at first, Isbell scoring and Davis pulling up on third.

Dougherty hit to Coughlin, and then started a chase after Davis. Back and forth he dodged, every man on the infield getting in the play, but finally George slid safely back to third. Rohe then doubled to left and Davis scored, Dougherty taking third.

Dougherty in "Footrace."

Hart hit to O'Leary and Dougherty had a foot race back and forth until he finally was tagged by Rowan, while Rohe and Hart rested on third and second respectively. Pitcher Smith doubled to center, scoring Rohe and Hart. Hahn came up for the second time and tripled to left, scoring Smith. Lindsay muffed Jones' easy popup and Hahn scored. O'Leary contributed another error by fumbling Isbell's grounder, and Davis finally ended the terrible ordeal by grounding to O'Leary and was thrown out at first.

In the fifth Jones singled and went to third on Isbell's hit. Isbell then stole second and Jones scored when O'Leary dropped Schmidt's throw. In the sixth Donohue and Dougherty singled and Smith brought the former home. Hahn singled, scoring Dougherty and Smith, and was caught at second trying to stretch the single. Hits by Smith and Isbell and a fielder's choice brought Hahn home in the ninth.

Heavy Hitting by Detroit.

Detroit got its first runs in the fourth, when Payne singled and Coughlin drove one to the score boards for a homer. A triple by Crawford and a single by Payne gave them another in the seventh, and in the eighth hits by Eubank, Rowan, and Cobb gave the home team two more. Score:

Notes of the White Sox.

Should Hart become a cripple now either Tip O'Neill or Isbell will be compelled to catch.

Nick Altrock is a trifle superstitious about those thirteen runs for Chicago and thirteen hits for the Tigers.

Catcher Towne developed a sore shoulder in warming up before the game, and Hart took his place behind the bat.

There is no game scheduled for tomorrow, and most of the White Sox will go to Windsor. Others are planning to attend the state fair.

Davis got two stolen bases to his credit, and was lucky on both. Schmidt did not throw for him at all on the first attempt, and in the other O'Leary dropped the ball.

Smith had so much speed at times that he fairly lifted Hart off his feet. He fanned four men and walked two and hit one. Rowan walked six and never had a strike out.

Just as the game was about to be called today, with George Mullen announced as pitcher, Manager Armour discovered that Mullen was nowhere to be found. That was his excuse for trying Rowan. Then, when Armour had arranged another lineup, McIntyre, the regular left fielder, was taken ill and the entire batting order was changed, causing a delay of ten minutes.

Reds and Cardinals Divide.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 6.—There was an even split on the double header between Cincinnati and St. Louis this afternoon. The visitors took the first game largely because of the poor fielding of the locals. In the second game, which was limited to seven innings by agreement, only two hits were made off Weimer. Not one of the visitors got beyond second base, and only one reached there. Scores:

Gans in San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 6.—Joe Gans and wife and his brother-in-law, Bob Turner, arrived here this afternoon. It is the present intention of Gans to rest a week before leaving for the east, where he will play ten weeks at $1,000 a week. Gans' right hand is still badly swollen. Gans says he will give Britt the next chance, but will arrange terms later.

NEW LAURELS FOR MORDECAI BROWN

Pittsburg Held Down to Lone Single by Spuds' Pennant Winning Pitcher.

LOCAL TEAM WINS, 2 TO 0.

Between Strikeouts Chance's Men Clout Leifield with Good Effect.

[BY SY.]

Mordecai T. F. Brown added a one hit game to his many laurels yesterday and earned the distinction against Pittsburg, one of the two teams which have been able to give the Spuds an argument this year. He missed pitching a no hit game by a foot only, which was the distance between Joe Tinker's fingers and the one roller which Sheehan pushed over second base. Chance's men hit the sou'paw, Leifield, just hard enough to win 2 to 0.

Before the first inning was over Mordecai showed he was there all right, by the way he mowed down the first three men who faced him. For four innings there was not even the semblance of a safety and few hard chances were offered his backers. With one out in the fifth, Sheehan poked a hit across the slab, and, although Tinker extended himself to the last inch, he couldn't spear the thing. The villainous Pirate was double up in a minute along with Ritchie, and his hit served only to break a clean slate.

Perfect Support Not Needed.

In all five men reached first base against Brown. Two of these were through holes in his support and two on passes which Mordecai handed out to make it a little more interesting, perhaps. Two of the five reached third base, but in each case there were two out when they got there. Brown struck out only one Pirate, and that one got to second base on the whiff because Johnny Kling let the third strike get away from him into the overflow in front of the stand.

Leifield was much more to the strikeout than Mordecai, fanning eight of the locals, three of them in one inning. He issued two passes and was given better support than his opponent had, yet the Spuds found him for eight safeties, one of them a double, and these won the game.

"T. F." Is Also a Slugger.

Brown was not satisfied with starring in the defensive end of the game, but came near leading the team in batting with two clean swats, one of which was responsible for Chicago's first tally. He'll be leading the league in batting as well as pitching at his present gait unless he gets arrested for smashing the speed limit.

"Got any patches, Brownie?"

The Pirates were shaken up a bit with Wagner missing from short and Beaumont from center, but their subs performed as well as the principals in the field, and the only handicap was the loss of Honus' hickory. Chance's men were shy one regular, as Slagle still is lame from his collision with Schlei. Hofman filled in at center, doing his work exactly like a "rabbit."

It looked like a Spud run when Leifield started by passing "Solly," but Sheckard forced him at second and Schulte fanned. Chance stuck in a single here, on which Hofman could have reached third but for getting tangled up with Ritchie, who tried for the hit. It made no difference, as Steinfeldt popped.

Two were out in the second before the Spuds' first run even sprouted. Then Leifield passed Kling, thinking Brown easier. Mordecai wised him up with a clean drive to right, on which Kling sprinted to third. When Sheehan let Ganley's return of the hit get past him Kling scored and Brown reached third, but Leifield made a fine stop of Hofman's hot jab, ending the inning.

"Sheck" Makes It Safe.

Sheckard led the third round with a long single to center, which he stretched into a double by tricking Leach into lobbing the ball back and then dashing to second ahead of it. Schulte sacrificed Sheck to third, and Chance scored him with his second hit. Steinfeldt and Tinker proved victims. That ended the runmaking for the day, and the Spuds got only four more hits off Leifield in the remaining five innings. That was four more than they needed. Score:

Notes of the Spuds' Game.

Four straight.

Twenty-four more to play.

Mordecai outbatted Pittsburg, 2 to 1.

Pittsburg again today, tomorrow, and Sunday.

Schulte broke an overripe straw hat in one of the upper boxes with a foul in the seventh inning. The loser smilingly acknowledged the joke.

Leifield fanned Evers, Kling, and Brown in the fourth inning and was vigorously cheered for the feat. He landed Schulte three times and Evers once on strikes.

Tinker picked off a high one into short left by Nealon in the second, when it looked as if none could reach it. In the fourth he grabbed Ganley's liner off the tops of his shoes and it sounded as if it stung some.

President Joseph Gordon of the New York American league club was a guest of President Murphy. The New Yorker has been on a trip through the west and stopped off here a day on his return, leaving for New York last night.

Billy Sullivan of the White Sox watched the game and the score board with interest. His broken thumb was in splints, but no longer painful, he said, and he was confident Dr. Murphy would have him in shape to catch in the world's series.

Hofman opened the fifth with a single. Sheckard bunted to Leifield, whose wires were crossed badly. He started to throw to second, saw it was too late, turned to first, and, finding Nealon was not there, hesitated again. Ritchie covered the bag, but Claude is so much smaller than Nealon, the pitcher couldn't see him. He finally made the throw, but Sheckard easily beat it. It didn't cost anything, as Schulte fanned, Chance sacrificed, and Steinfeldt grounded out.

CALLAHAN LOST TO WHITE SOX.

Commission Says Star Cannot Play with Any National Agreement Club Until He Sells Logan Squares.

Jimmy Callahan cannot play with the White Sox or any other national agreement club this season, nor at any time until he makes a bona fide sale of his Logan Square club, besides paying a fine for jumping the reserve clause in his American league contract.

That is the substance of the verdict agreed upon by Chairman Hermann of the national commission and President Johnson of the American league yesterday after a conference by long distance telephone. It is the first blow in the campaign against the semi-professional clubs of this city in an effort to handicap the growing practice of employing suspended or dissatisfied players belonging to national agreement clubs and of tempting players under contract to violate the rules by pitching under assumed names.

The blow, which is aimed at the local independent nines, will fall more immediately and seriously upon the White Sox, according to the opinions of many baseball patrons expressed yesterday. It cuts off one of the most hopeful sources from which Manager Jones expected to strengthen his crippled team for the finish in the pennant race, and the decision will be regarded by Chicago rooters as an effort to handicap the Sox officially.

What effect the decision eventually will have on the semi-professional nines will depend upon the treatment of future cases of rule breaking. At the rate the professionalizing of local teams has progressed recently another year or two would see conditions which would make it difficult for any club owner to keep track of or discipline his players.

AUTOS HOLD HILL CLIMB.

LOCAL ENTHUSIASTS INDULGE IN A NEW FORM OF THE SPORT.

Paul Hoffmann, Driving Henry Paulman's Pierce Great Arrow, Makes the Best Time of Any of the Thirty-four Competitors at Algonquin—Event Is Pronounced a Great Success—Many Tourists Go from City to Watch the Trial.

Motorists from Chicago and surrounding towns visited Algonquin, Ill., yesterday to watch the first annual hill climbing contest promoted by the Chicago Automobile Trade association and the Chicago Automobile club in which Paul Hoffmann, driving Henry Paulman's Pierce Great Arrow, was the star from the time standpoint, making the best time of any of the thirty-four competing cars in the morning, and tying with Frank Illsley in the six cylinder Stevens' Duryea in the afternoon.

It is estimated at least 200 automobiles were at the climb, some of them as contestants, but the great majority carrying sight seers. The spectators saw a unique contest—a double hill climb in which there were no accidents and in which a handicap system was tried for the first time in this country, with great success.

Victory for Perry.

Four classes were run, the one designed for steamers being called off because only one car had entered. In class A, for cars listing at $1,000 and under, James Levy, driving an Autocar runabout, won the honors, with the Buick Motor company's Buick second, and A. A. Belford's Autocar third.

In the afternoon the scene was moved to the north of the town, the half-mile hill there being taken from a flying start. Here the battle for time honors was fierce. The Illsley Stevens-Duryea put it to :46⅘, then Hoffmann in the Pierce equaled the mark.

The results were arrived at by a handicap system which consisted of taking the cylinder area of each car and multiplying it by the time in seconds, then dividing by the weight of the machine. In this way it was not always the case of the car making the fastest time winning.

C. P. Warner & Co. had entered their Moline car in the races, but through some blunder of the railroad it failed to arrive in time for the morning climb. It took part in the afternoon race.

SPRAY SCORES THREE STRAIGHT

Wins Two Other Races for the Walker Cup—Toledo Second in Final Standing.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Twice today did Spray, the 21 foot champion of the great lakes, down all its rivals in the Walker cup series at the Country club regatta, giving it three straight heats for the possession of the trophy. This is the second consecutive year it has won it.

The final points for all the boats are: Spray, 300; Toledo, 222.3; Cherry Circle, 200.1; Cleveland, 200.1; Otsiketa, 189; Ste. Claire, 155.7; Bill Poster, 100.1; Quien Sabe, 55.6; Borealis, 44.6.

In both races today Spray sailed the most consistently, gaining on every boat on every leg but the first of the morning race. Toledo held the lead through the first leg to windward and half way down the return, when passed by Spray. Spray was chased hard by Cherry Circle and Ste. Claire on the second run with the wind, both of the latter using first and second reaching jibs to great advantage. On the second beat home Spray again drew away and beat Cherry Circle by two minutes and twelve seconds. Ste. Claire sailed a great race for a heavy weather boat, finishing third.

A large amount of money was bet on the match between Borealis and Bill Poster, the Chicago boat turning the trick.

The afternoon race, over a twelve mile quadrangle, had little better wind. Cleveland, Borealis, and Spray went out in front at the start, Cleveland finally taking a slight lead over Spray. On the second leg Borealis fouled Cherry Circle and was disqualified. The wind died down for the home leg and lengthened the time a little, but Spray had little trouble in being under the limit. Cleveland finished second ten minutes afterward. Cherry Circle was over the line fifteen minutes behind the Walker cup winner, being beaten by Otsiketa and Toledo as well as the first two named. Bill Poster was late for the start and did not race, while Quien Sabe, which finished last in every race, beat out Borealis for eighth place in the percentage because of the latter's disqualification. NELSON GOES ON FISHING TRIP.

False Report of the Fighter's Death Is Circulated—Nolan Is Coming to Chicago.

Goldfield, Nev., Sept. 6.—The report that Battling Nelson was dangerously ill and was likely to die as a result of the beating at the hands of Joe Gans on Monday is so far from true that Nelson left Goldfield this morning for Truckee for a fishing trip. Aside from some few bruises and internal hemorrhages Nelson was not severely hurt. His face was beaten up as a natural consequence of frequent collisions with Gans' fist, but nothing more serious. He left this morning without any blare of trumpets. Nolan and his wife left this morning for Chicago. Siler, the referee, will start for San Francisco tomorrow morning.

Soccer League Fixes Dates.

The Chicago League of Association Football announced its schedule yesterday. The season will start next Sunday and close Nov. 11.

WOOD AND SAWYER GOLF SURVIVORS.

Only Two Chicago Men in the Eight Left to Play in the Western Tourney.

EDWARDS LOSES IN 19TH.

H. Kimball, Young Player from Boston, Lowers the Glen Echo Record.

Pairings for Today.

W. K. Wood vs. Stuart Stickney.
Richard Kimball vs. Sprague Abbott.
D. E. Sawyer vs. Ardo Mitchell.
W. C. Fownes Jr. vs. Dr. D. P. Fredericks.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Two extra hole matches and the setting of a new competitive record for the Glen Echo course were the features of the second round of the western amateur golf championship this morning.

Never in the history of the Western Golf association has there been a nervier finish than that made by Kenneth Edwards, the young Midlothian player, against Ardo Mitchell of Rock Island. The Chicago boy was 3 down, with 3 to play. Two 3s at the sixteenth and seventeenth holes, 423 and 400 yards, respectively, and a 5 at the home hole brought the match square. Then Mitchell got a 3 at the extra hole and won.

In defeating Ralph McKittrick, the champion of St. Louis, R. Kimball of the Glen Echo club played wonderful golf, putting the record for the course at 73, while the loser was only two strokes more. Kimball's fine work makes him loom up as a championship possibility, and incidentally has caused some talk around the club. Previous to last Friday he never had seen St. Louis.

Kimball a Nonresident.

He came here from Boston at the invitation of John Roberts of the Glen Echo club and was regularly elected a nonresident member of the club. He was formerly a student at Brookline High school of Boston, and is a member of the Chestnut Hill club there, where he holds the record for the course. He has a rating of 4 in the Massachusetts Golf association. There does not appear anything in the rules of the Western Golf association to prevent a nonresident player competing, but the officials say a rule will be passed to limit the competition to resident members in the future.

Warren K. Wood and D. E. Sawyer are the surviving Chicagoans, and as they are in different halves of the draw, one of them is expected to get as far as the finals. Wood should win from Stuart Stickney of St. Louis tomorrow, but Sawyer is likely to have a hard match against Ardo Mitchell. St. Louis has two representatives left.

Shirt sleeve golf was the order today, the morning breaking hot and muggy, with semi-tropical heat in the afternoon.

Mitchell-Edwards Match.

Mitchell won the first hole from Edwards with a dead approach. He pulled his second iron shot into a bunker at the next hole and lost. Edwards took 3 putts at the fourth hole and lost, 4—5. Then Mitchell had three shots on the next green, Edwards winning. Mitchell drove nearly 240 yards to the edge of the sixth green and won, 3—4. He won the next and was 2 up at the turn. A topped brassy at the tenth put him 3 up. A poor approach cost him the eleventh and three holes were halved. Edwards missed a short putt for a half at the fifteenth cup and was 3 down. Then came his sensational finish. He holed his mashie approach for 3, two under bogey, at the sixteenth green, Mitchell rimming the cup. Edwards drove into the rough at the seventeenth and then landed a cleek shot ten feet from the flag and ran down the putt for another 3, Mitchell again losing with a stroke under bogey. At the home hole Edwards sliced and topped his brassy, but put his third to the green and ran down a six foot putt for a 5. Mitchell topped his brassy into a bunker and took 6. Both made fine drives for the extra hole, but Edwards had to approach up the side of a terraced green and was short. Mitchell putt his second dead and won, 3—4. Cards:

Mitchell, out ......3 6 3 4 6 3 4 5 4—38
Edwards, out ....4 5 3 5 5 4 4 5 5—40
Mitchell, in ....3 5 5 4 4 4 4 4 6—41—79
Edwards, in ....6 4 5 4 5 3 3 5—39—79
Extra hole—Mitchell, 3; Edwards, 4.

Meeting of Clubmates.

The meeting of Wood and Clingman was their second tournament play, the first being when the latter won the Homewood cup. Clingman holed a long putt on the first green and took the third hole when Wood drove into the creek. Clingman topped his drive for the fifth and followed with three poor shots, losing, 7—6. Wood punched his second from the rough dead to the seventh hole, and won, 3—5. A perfect 4 on the seventh hole, 415 yards, put Wood one up, a lead he had at the turn. Wood holed a ten foot putt at the eleventh hole, Clingman rimming on the like. Wood rimmed the next cup for a 4 and they halved with 5. Clingman pulled his next drive to the rough, then hit a tree, and found a bunker, losing 4—5. Wood 3 up. Two holes were halved. Wood lost the sixteenth, pulling to the rough and overapproaching. The seventeenth was halved in 4, one under bogey, giving Wood the match. Cards:

Sawyer Wins from Adams.

Ned Sawyer found the veteran Bart Adams a hard proposition. The Chicagoan was one up at the turn, and they were all square at the twelfth. Sawyer was dormie two, but dropped the seventeenth. A dead approach from off the green gave him the home hole. Cards:

Sawyer—Out ....5 5 4 4 4 4 5 4 5—41
Adams—Out ....4 6 3 5 5 4 6 4 5—40
Sawyer—In ....3 5 5 4 4 4 4 5 4—38—79
Adams—In ....5 4 4 5 4 4 5 5 4—41—81

The Kimball-McKittrick contest was a fine exhibition, with the Boston boy having a shade of the luck in gobbling three long putts. Both men went out in 36, four strokes under bogey. They were all square at the turn. Coming home Kimball got a quartet of 4's and bagged two holes. The St. Louis champion won the fourteenth and the rest were halved. Cards:

Kimball, out ....4 5 3 4 6 3 4 5 2—36

Fredericks Is Steady.

Dr. Fredericks did not show any ill effects of the attack of heart palpitation the previous day and played a steady game against Dr. Lambert, who ranks as one of the best Mound City players. They were all even at the turn, but Fredericks took three holes coming home, Lambert getting only one. Cards:

Fredericks—Out ....5 5 4 4 5 4 5 5 3—41
Lambert—Out ....5 6 4 4 6 4 5 5 3—40
Fredericks—In .....4 5 4 4 4 4 5 5 5—40—81
Lambert—In ....5 4 4 5 4 5 4 5 6—41—81

Fredericks meets W. C. Fownes Jr. tomorrow, the latter having won by 1 up from Arthur Stickney of St. Louis. The latter had the advantage most of the way, but played poorly on the last nine. Fownes made an 85, poor for him, to 89 for Stickney.

The other two matches of the day resulted:

Stuart Stickney, St. Louis Country club, defeated R. P. Nevin, Allegheny, 1 up, 19 holes.

S. Abbott, Omaha, defeated H. W. Allen, St. Louis, 5 up and 4 to play.

Vim Wins at Marblehead.

Marblehead, Mass., Sept. 6.—Vim won today's race for the Roosevelt cup, which was marked by a collision between that boat and Auk. Of the German challengers the best sailing today was made by Tilly VI. On both beats to windward Tilly VI. held far off shore and defeated Caramba for third place. The official finishing time of the race follows:

ENTREE WINS REAPERS' STAKE.

Radtke Brings Favorite Home First Despite Rough Journey—Protest of Foul Not Allowed.

New York, Sept. 6.—[Special.]—There was more good racing at Sheepshead Bay today. Frederick A. Johnson's Entree, a receding favorite, won the Reapers' stakes for 3 year olds at a mile and three-sixteenths, after a rough journey. He was knocked back at the start, when Garner cut across the field with California King, but at the far turn Radtke saw a chance to get the rail by driving his horse in front of H. P. Whitney's Ironsides and James B. Brady's Maxie Witt, with both of which he interfered.

Radtke went on with Entree and took the race by three parts of a length from Ironsides, with Moonshine a poor third. Miller, who rode Ironsides, made a protest of a foul, but it was not allowed.

Edward S. Burke Jr.'s W. H. Daniel, an added starter, made all the running in the Dash stakes for 2 year olds at five furlongs, winning in a drive by a head from Oscar Lewisohn's Yankee Girl, the favorite.

Roseben again displayed magnificent form when he won first place for all ages at six furlongs. He picked up 137 pounds and was quoted at 1 to 3. He simply made a show of his field, leading from start to finish, where he passed the judges six lengths in front of Rusk. The latter had a length over John A. Drake's Pretension.

William Gerk's Carew, at 60 to 1, stunned the talent by taking the fifth event at a mile. He ran over the pacemakers in the stretch and won easily by a length and a half in 1:39 4-5. Columbia Girl was second.

Sheepshead Bay Summaries.

First race, 6 furlongs—Roseben, 137 pounds [Shaw], 1 to 3, won; Rusk, 115 [Nicol], 12 to 1, second; Pretension, 130 [Sperling], 30 to 1, third. Time, 1:12 1-5. Penrhyn, Preen, Ravena, Clare Russell, and Frank Gill ran.

Second race, steeplechase, selling, about 2 miles—Expansionist, 145 pounds [Wilson], 10 to 1, won; Caller, 144 [Buttner], 3 to 1, second; Tom Cogan, 148 [Gallagher], 3 to 1, third. Time, 4:09 2-5. Third race, the Dash stakes, 5 furlongs—W. H. Daniel, 112 pounds [J. Jones], 7 to 1, won; Yankee Gun, 110 [Martin], 3 to 1, second; Paumonok, 104 [J. Hennessy], 10 to 1, third. Time, 1:00 3-5. Red River, Oraculum, Bat Masterson, Kentucky Beau, Killiecrankie, Zambesi, Main Chance, Tourenne, Glenham, and Lord Boanerges ran.

Fourth race, the Reaper stakes, 1 3-16 miles—Entree, 116 pounds [Radtke], 6 to 5, won; Ironsides, 113 [Miller], 11 to 5, second; Moonshine, 103 [Notter], 15 to 1, third. Time, 2:00 4-5. Maxie Witt and California King ran.

Fifth race, selling, 1 mile—Carew, 92 pounds [McDaniel], 60 to 1, won; Columbia Girl, 95 [Freishon], 5 to 2, second; Leonard, Joe Hayman, 84 [Englander], 60 to 1, third. Time, 1:39 4-5. New Mown Hay, Col. White, Red Light, Little Woods, True Boy, Melbourne Nominee, and Miss Rillie ran.

Sixth race, 1 1-16 miles, on turf—Sailor Boy, 110 pounds [Miller], 13 to 5, won; Grapple, 140 [Sperling], 5 to 1, second; Tartan, 122 [Koener], 6 to 1, third. Time, 1:47 3-5. Red Knight, Jocund, and James Reddick ran.

SIX HORSES IN CLOSE BUNCH.

Hannibal Bey Wins in an Exciting Finish at Douglas Park—Selling Race War.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 6.—Hannibal Bey took the handicap at Douglas park today in one of the most exciting finishes ever seen in this city. Six horses crossed the line on almost equal terms. The winner was backed down from 20 to 1 to 6 to 1. Harry Scott got the place and Meadow Breeze was third. Jockey McIntyre was kicked by Princess Orna in this race and his leg badly injured.

The officials are investigating the races of Toboggan and Whippoorwill. Weather fair; track good. Summaries:

First race, ¾ mile, selling—Phalanx, 112 pounds [Sandy], 9 to 2, won; Butinski, 109 [Preston], 7 to 1, second; Bazil, 107 [Boland], 50 to 1, third. Time, 1:16. Magic, Cull, Capitano, Estrada Palma, Toboggan, Santon, Proteus, Rhinock, and Speedmaker ran.

Second race, ⅝ mile—Judith Louise, 101 pounds [Preston], 9 to 5, won; Beautiful Mayo, 101 [Boland], 7 to 2, second; Bitter Miss, 108 [Perkins], 12 to 1, third. Time, 1:01 3-5. Levia, Elsie Janis, Anna Ruskin, Miss Officious, Phantom Light, Zaniiss, Electorine, Lady Bateman, Froward, and D'Ormonde ran.

Third race, 1 mile—Col. Bartlett, 108 pounds [Boland], 7 to 2, won; Daring, 103 [Preston], 8 to 1, second; Azora, 100 [Scoville], 22 to 5, third. Time, 1:41 1-5. Captain Bush, Dr. Heard, and Black Mantilla ran.

Fourth race, handicap, ¾ mile—Hannibal Bey, 102 pounds [Sandy], 6 to 1, won; Harry Scott, 99 [Riley], 10 to 1, second; Meadow Breeze, 108 [Morris], 9 to 2, third. Time, 1:14 3-5. Col. Jim Douglas, Princess Orna, Ara, Pat Bulger, Haughty, Hector, Veto, Platoon, and El Otros ran.

Fifth race, 11-16 mile—Demo, 108 pounds [Preston], 13 to 5, won; Warner Griswold, 113 [Perrett], 11 to 5, second; Quagga, 108 [Rice], 12 to 1, third. Time, 1:09. Sam Clay, American Belle, Lady Arion, Bonadventure, Ampedo, Plausible, Chandler, and Druilone.

Sixth race, 1 mile and 70 yards, selling—Savoir Faire, 101 pounds [Boland], 22 to 5, won; Whippoorwill, 101 [Keyes], 3 to 1, second; Golden Mineral, 101 [Morris], 30 to 1, third. Time, 1:46 1-5. Nine, Six Shooter, and Marshal Ney ran.

Miss Sallie Ainslie and her brother, R. Oakes Ainslie, won the competition for the Oakes cup at Westward Ho, finishing 11 up on bogey. Mrs. Thomas Langford and Vernon Houston finished 5 up on bogey. Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Castle, 4 up. Miss Mathews and J. W. Houston, 3 up. Miss Mathews won the women's approaching and putting competition with a score of 10. Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Langford, and Miss Ainslie tied for second honors. Oakes Ainslie won the men's event.

In the second round of the women's championship of the Ravisloe Country club Miss Rosalie Stern defeated Mrs. A. H. Loeb by 2 up. Miss Agatha Felsenthal defeated Mrs. Herman Landauer, 3 up and 1 to play. Miss Gertrude Felsenthal defeated Miss Sadie Windmuller, 4 up and 3 to play, and Miss Florence Wolff defeated Miss Irma Hiller, 2 up and 1 to play.

The Harvest cup, the final event of the season, at Glen View, will be put into competition Sept. 27.

Junior members of the Evanston Golf club opened their tournament yesterday, playing the qualifying round and first match round. Lawrence Bragg, Noel Ridlan, Carman Letkin, and Kennie Carpenter survived the day's play and will compete in the semi-finals this morning. In the afternoon the final round will be played.

Race for Cabin Launches.

Oshkosh, Wis., Sept. 6.—E. H. Farhney of Chicago, who has a summer home on Lake Winnebago, has offered a $500 cup to be raced for by cabin launches, over a course 100 miles long. The first twenty-five miles of the race will determine the amount of handicap to be given the various boats. The first race in this series will be on Sept. 22, on Lake Winnebago and tributary waters and will be open to all cabin launches in the United States.

SWEET MARIE IS BEST OF THREE.

Sterling Mare Wins the Free for All Trot at Charter Oak Meeting.

BEATEN IN THIRD HEAT.

Large List of Entries but Small Field of Starters; 2:12 Pace to Owaissa.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 6.—Of the large number of entries received only three horses started in the free for all trot in the grand circuit at Charter Oak park today, Sweet Marie winning the first two heats in fine style, but being forced to trot second to Wentworth in the third heat.

The Sterling mare broke twice in the final heat and was beaten under the wire by a head, Wentworth trotting a game race all the way. Angiola, the winner of last year's $10,000 stake, brought up the rear in all three heats. Sweet Marie was the favorite in this event.

The 2:12 pace was won in straight heats by Owaissa, Long John taking second money and Mercy Me third. Bonnie Steinway had things his own way in the 2:16 pace, and took the race in straight heats, Moore taking second money and Captain Derby third. Summaries:

EASY TASK FOR THE BRONCHO.

Ecstatic Does Not Start in the 2:02 Pace at Hamline—Castlewood Finishes Second.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—The greatest event of the state fair meet at Hamline, the 2:02 pace, was won this afternoon by The Broncho. She turned the trick with ease. Castlewood, who finished second, was not fast enough to push The Broncho at any stage of the game. Hazel Patch finished a poor third in both heats. The Broncho was practically pulled up three lengths in the lead.

The race was a disappointment to the large crowd, which had expected to see Ecstatic in the contest. Ecstatic did not arrive in time to go to the post.

Judy Patch, daughter of the great Dan, got away with the 2:18 pace handily. The 2:25 trot was a remarkably smooth performance, the same order being preserved in all the heats. The track was fast. Summaries:

BREAKS LIBERTYVILLE RECORD.

Largest Attendance in Fair's History—2:35 Pace Unfinished After Six Heats—Special Declared Off.

Libertyville, Ill., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—There were fully 15,000 people on the grounds today at the Libertyville fair. This is the biggest day by 2,400 that the fair ever has known. The racing, as yesterday's, was uniformly good. The 2:35 pace, after six heats, remains unfinished and will be decided in the morning. The free for all pace required five heats to decide.

The only disappointment was the failure of the special race to fill, all the entries except Nickel Grattan withdrawing at the last moment under the plea they were not properly entered. Summary:

CAMBRIDGE'S PLANS FOR RACE.

Cantabs Practice Sprints in Trial Spins—Odds Now 3 to 2 on the English Crew.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PUTNEY, Sept. 6.—The principal feature of the boat practice today was a disclosure of the tactics the Cambridge crew evidently intends to employ in the race on Saturday. Rowing from here to Hammersmith bridge they devoted their attention entirely to making bursts of speed after a stretch of comparatively slow rowing.

At the word from their coach aboard the Hibernia they increased their speed from twenty-six to thirty-six strokes a minute. It became apparent it is upon these tactics the Cantabs are depending to win the race, figuring the Harvard crew is better at thirty-two strokes and that these sudden bursts to thirty-six will surely tire it out if it tries to keep up this stroke.

It must be said the Englishmen showed perfect condition. Their increase in speed has not caused the slightest lack of harmony in the crew. The Englishmen never appeared to such good advantage as today. The betting, which has been constantly vacillating in favor of one crew then the other during the last few days, took a decided turn towards the Cantabs today, when 3 to 2 was offered on the Englishmen.

One wager of $1,500 to $1,000 against Harvard, which was offered this afternoon, remains uncovered.

Harvard this afternoon showed ability to get away at a forty-three clip. Its supporters have no doubts as to the result of the race.

The feature which is causing comment is the apathy the Oxonians are showing. Not a single member of the Oxford crew has visited the Cantabs' headquarters. On the other hand, two members of the Yale crew made a special trip to Europe in order to wish their conquerors every success in their coming effort.

SHIPPER ANSWERS ROCK ISLAND CHIEF

Declares Railways Should Improve Facilities and Make Lower Rates Also.

BENEFITED BY NEW LAW.

Revenues Greatly Increased by Cutting Off of Rebates and Free Passes.

Prominent Chicago shippers yesterday took sharp issue with the assertion of President B. L. Winchell of the Rock Island lines that the shippers' organizations should demand of the railroads not lower freight rates but better service. They contended that the roads could and ought to make the many improvements in their facilities which Mr. Winchell mentioned and also lower freight rates. The shippers' position was defined by W. B. Conkey, who is a director in both the Illinois Manufacturers' association and the American Shippers' association.

"It is notorious," declared Mr. Conkey, "that the railroads for years paid enormous sums in the form of rebates to many big business concerns. It is also notorious that they issued free passes and free transportation to thousands of people. Rebates and passes have been cut off now, and the result must be a colossal increase in railway revenues.

Enormous Profits of Railways.

"Besides this, the business of the country is growing at a rate the like of which never was known in the history of the world. This also is adding enormously to the railway revenues. Meantime many economies have been and are being introduced in methods of transportation. The railroads were able to make extensions and improvements in the past when they were giving rebates and passes and when their business was much smaller than now. Why, then, will it be necessary for them to have all this increased revenue in order to make improvements in the future?

"The shipping interests of the country don't believe it will be necessary. We believe part of the benefit resulting from the abolition of rebates and passes and the growth of the transportation business ought to go to the railroads' patrons and the public. We believe rates not only ought to be equalized, but that they ought to be lowered on the average, if everybody is to get a fair deal and the railroads are not to derive the lion's share of the advantage from the enactment of the new rate law."

Would Have Rates Equalized.

President A. B. Stickney of the Chicago Great Western differs radically from most high railroad officials on most phases of the rate question, but he stands with them in contending that there should be no general reduction of rates. Mr. Stickney was in Chicago, having come here to attend the Great Western's annual meeting, which was held at the Auditorium Annex.

"I don't think railroad rates on the average are too high in the United States," said Mr. Stickney. "What is needed is not a horizontal reduction but equalization. The Pennsylvania charges about the same per ton mile as the Great Western, although the density of its traffic is much greater. Probably our rates are too low, while the Pennsylvania's are too high. We are making money at present rates, but should the country become less prosperous there is no certainty that we could continue to do so. Rates generally in the northwest are too low, compared with those in the east."

This annual meeting of the Great Western was the fourteenth. J. W. Lusk, M. D. Flower, and R. C. Wight were reelected as directors.

Fined $100 on Complaint of Boy.

F. M. Gibalt, a music teacher, 40 Randolph street, was fined $100 and costs by Justice Prindiville yesterday on complaint of Howard Haines, 8 years old, 106 Janssen avenue, who swore that Gibalt inveigled him into the studio and then mistreated him. The boy is former Ald. P. F. Haines' son.

HOURS FOR BUSINESS: 8:00 A. M. TO 5:30 P. M.

The accepted fashions for fall and winter are now being shown in Light Weight Overcoats and Business Suits.

Some departures are being made in the lines of long 43-inch coats which will still hold their place in Fashion's favor during the fall and winter seasons. Coats coming from the best tailors show slight moderations in the form-fitting lines.

We show quite a complete selection in the popular Gray and Medium Dark Mixtures. The prices range from $20.00 to $40.00.

In Suits, the 32-inch coats are being shaped to conform more to the form-fitting lines of the overcoats—patterns are mostly invisible black and white checks and plaids and plain dark grays—prices $16.00 to $45.00.

Men's Fancy Waistcoats in New Designs.

The fancy waistcoat promises to be more of a distinctive feature than ever in the fall and winter fashions. To meet the unusual demand manufacturers are offering a wonderful range of the favored light and dark effects in wash and imported flannels and worsted materials. Second Floor.

From these our lines have been carefully and critically chosen, affording the best selection of high-class refined novelties we have ever shown at $2.50 to $10.00.

Special—Custom-Tailored Vests, a limited number purchased to sell at much below their real value, $4.50.

Men's Shirts in Refined Fall Novelties.

Bosom and negligee shirts are now being shown in three very large and varied lines, each including an ample range of the season's best colors and designs—$1.50, $2.00, $2.50. First Floor.

Special attention is directed to Bosom Shirts in coat styles from our own factory—madras of fancy weave, with large novelty figures on white ground; attached cuffs or two pair detached—$2.50.

New Fall Derbys and Fedoras: Correct Styles

Crowns and brims show some slight changes from last season, a series of modifications in proportions which will more than ever add to the style superiority of our "M. F. & Co." and "Colbert" Hats.

M. F. & Co. Derbys and Fedoras, $4.
Colbert Derbys and Fedoras, $3.

Boys' and Youths' Clothing: Our Great Fall Stocks Are Now Complete.

We emphasize our readiness to meet the demand of the most exacting with complete lines of Boys' and Youths' Fall Clothing from tailors who are specialists in their respective lines—whose ideas largely set the fashions for each season.

For Boys, our Suits and Small Overcoats show many features entirely new and not shown elsewhere in Chicago. Many of these lines are being offered at very attractive prices as an inducement to immediate purchase.

Boys' Norfolk Suits, plain and yoke styles, with the new Knickerbockers, neat gray cheviots and worsteds and some in brown; prices $6.50 to $18.00.

Reefers, $6.50—A large number of gray and blue wool cheviot Coating Reefers with flannel lining; in sizes 7 to 14—purchased under unusual conditions and marked at a low price, $6.50.

Boys' Overcoats, dark gray all-wool frieze and gray or blue cheviot, sizes 8 to 16, special, $8.00.

Boys' Russian Suits, in gray mixtures, plain and blue serge, single and double-breasted styles, with plain and embroidered collars and silk ties, special, $6.50.

All-Wool Blue Cheviot Russian Suits, special, $5.00.

Boys' Blue Serge Sailor Suits, with plain and braided collars in black, white or red; special values at $6.50, $8.00, and $9.00.

YOUTHS' CLOTHING—A still further development of the features which especially appeal to young men will be revealed in our new fall lines. One of the new Suits is shown in the illustration—a wide range of mixtures in high grade materials—priced from $15.00 to $32.00.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL.

The physicians and educators who investigated the game of football last year were nearly unanimous in opposing it as a sport for secondary schools. While there is something to be said on both sides of the question of college football, the opinion is general that it is too dangerous a sport for boys under the college age. The friends of college football themselves brought forward statistics to prove that most of the accidents reported by the daily papers were among the younger boys who were not able to stand the strain. Weakened hearts, broken ribs, legs, and arms, and other injured members were to be found, especially among the high school boys. Moreover, instances of brutality due to excitement were more common among the boys too young to have learned self-control or to feel their responsibility.

For these reasons alone the action of the high school principals in doing all they can to discourage football in their schools is to be commended. When the injury to the studies of the school year is added, when one considers the demoralization of a public school on account of the excitement of the series of games, there is more than ample justification for the view of the principals. The refusal to offer a pennant is in itself a trifling matter, but this refusal is taken by the students, the public, and undoubtedly by the principals themselves, to be an indication that football will no longer have the special privileges which have formerly made it the chief thing during the first three months of the school year.

The refusal of the principals to offer a championship pennant should be followed by a rule of the board of education forbidding football teams to assume the name of a school. The board cannot control all the acts of public school pupils when away from the school premises, but this much it can do. If parents are ready to run the risk or rather to face the probability that their sons will be maimed or strained in football games, the board can insist that it be not done in the name of the public schools. There may be no way to stop a boy from playing football if his parents are willing, but he must not be allowed to pose as a representative of a school.

The cheerful optimism of a parent who believes that his own son is an exception to the general law of chance is the greatest obstacle with which principals have to deal. Statistics cannot penetrate it. The principals and the school board who see year after year the appalling total of accidents must do all they can to reduce this total even if it requires drastic measures.

GIVE THE DETAILS.

Mr. William J. Bryan has said several times that local railroad lines should be owned by state governments and that only the trunk lines should be owned by the federal government. It is not necessary for him to restate the proposition or to explain that he wishes to divide the ownership of the roads to avert the dangers of centralization. He has sketched the rude outlines of his plan for the settlement of the railroad question, and he ought to proceed now to fill in some of the details.

It is not enough to say that the general government should own all the trunk lines. Mr. Bryan should specify what he means when he talks of a "trunk line." There are a number of so-called trunk lines between Chicago and New York. It would be interesting to know whether Mr. Bryan would have the general government own and operate them all or only one or two of them, and whether he would have it take over all the branches and feeders owned by the trunk lines or lop them off and leave them to be bought by the states in which they lie, if the states care to buy them.

One would like to know how much of the railroad mileage of the United States Mr. Bryan wishes to have the federal government buy. There are about 12,000 miles of railroad in Illinois belonging mostly to roads which are commonly spoken of as trunk lines. How would Mr. Bryan, who is tolerably familiar with the railroad systems of Illinois, divide the mileage between the federal and state governments?

The greater the railroad mileage owned by the federal government the greater the danger of "centralization." If it owned two-thirds of the mileage and the remainder were divided up among forty-five states, the national government might as well own all the lines. It would certainly have a monopoly of the interstate business, compared to which local business is as nothing, and would regulate from Washington everything concerning it. That would, indeed, be "centralization."

It would be in the power of the federal officials at Washington who had the fixing of rates on interstate traffic so to manipulate them as to strengthen their party in regions where it needed strengthening or to punish communities where it was in the minority. There would be no tribunal to appeal to for redress in the case of unfair rates except congress, and the party majority in congress might not be inclined to give relief.

Manifestly Mr. Bryan ought to emerge from the fog of general statements and come down to the simplicity of arithmetic. He should say what are the trunk lines he wishes the federal government to buy, what percentage of the total railroad mileage they will constitute, and how much he is prepared to pay for them.

LITTLEFIELD AND GOMPERS.

Representative Littlefield of Maine is a candidate for reëlection. His fate will be determined next week. If he shall be successful he will gain a double victory. He will defeat not merely the democrat who is running against him but also Mr. Samuel Gompers, the president of the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Gompers, a citizen of Pennsylvania, has undertaken to defeat Mr. Littlefield not because he is a republican but because he is opposed to the anti-injunction measure whose enactment has been demanded for years—ever since the Debs rebellion—in the name of "organized labor."

Therefore, the contest in Mr. Littlefield's district has ceased to be of purely local interest. It has become of national interest. If Mr. Gompers shall triumph there he will attack with greater energy and stronger hopes of success the other congressmen on his blacklist who are to be voted in or out in November. That is the reason why Speaker Cannon and Secretary Taft have gone to the assistance of Mr. Littlefield, who would otherwise be abundantly able to take care of himself.

Speaker Cannon is fighting his own battle as well as that of Mr. Littlefield. He, too, is on Mr. Gompers' blacklist. That person dislikes Mr. Cannon extremely. He said the other day: "Behind that smile of Uncle Joe lurks the most consummate trickery of any man in public life." It is not surprising that Mr. Cannon is using plain language in the speeches he is making in Maine regarding Mr. Gompers, his anti-injunction bill, and his attempt to drag organized labor into the arena of politics. But the speaker does not go beyond bounds when he characterizes Mr. Gompers' proposed legislation as "unrepublican, undemocratic, and un-American."

Secretary Taft, in the speech which he made day before yesterday, discussed that legislation from the standpoint of the trained lawyer and condemned it. He described it as an attempt to deny to men engaged in business the right to an injunction against those who propose unlawfully to injure their business in labor disputes, to legalize the boycott and the blacklist, and to make workingmen who violate the rights of others in labor disputes a privileged class.

Mr. William J. Bryan approves of the Gompers legislation, but Mr. Littlefield does not, and that is why Mr. Gompers is stumping his district against him. Speaker Cannon says Mr. Gompers has "introduced a new element into American politics" by ordering the members of the organization he heads to vote as he directs. Next Monday will show how far his orders are obeyed in the first congressional district he has invaded.

MANY SMALL FARMS.

It is desirable that the lands reclaimed by national irrigation projects should go into the hands of actual cultivators, and not of speculators. President Roosevelt calls special attention to this in his letter to the national irrigation congress. He wishes to see a multitude of small farms, each sufficient to support one family, instead of a much smaller number of 160 acre farms.

Doubtless the speculators already have their eyes on the lands which the government is about to endow with special fertility. They would like to get possession of extensive tracts so as to profit by the great increase in value which is certain to come. If the reclaimed lands are sold at first in small parcels to genuine cultivators they will stick to their holdings and the speculators will not be able to get in.

No legislation can be framed which will automatically keep the speculators out. For many years unscrupulous men have been able to get around the land laws, and help themselves to choice portions of the public domain. They did so with comparative impunity until the present secretary of the interior got after them. He has prosecuted many and has punished some. He has exemplified the familiar principle that laws are of no value until somebody makes it his special business to enforce them.

The irrigation act says that the limit of area per entry shall represent the acreage which, in the opinion of the secretary of the interior, "may be reasonably required for the support of a family upon the lands in question." In one locality he may consider five acres enough, and in another forty. If this discretion is to be wisely used by the secretary or by the subordinates on whose judgment he has to depend to a considerable degree, there does not seem to be need or room for any additional legislation.

The president says the national irrigation congress can do something towards carrying out the policy of placing on each reclaimed area the largest number of families that can get a comfortable living when the land is well tilled. It can give advice as to the size of allotments. It can assist in the detection of attempts at fraudulent entries. No doubt ingenious men will try through dummies to get control of large tracts. If they shall succeed it will not be due to imperfect legislation but to the laches of the agents of the government.

A USELESS OFFICE.

It is said that when the council reassembles an ordinance will be introduced to create the office of commissioner of industries. It is to be the duty of the commissioner to learn and report to the mayor any means of increasing the trade and commerce of the city. He is to collect statistics. He is to advertise the advantages of the city as an industrial center and solicit the location of industries here. He is to be the well paid official boomer of Chicago.

The cheering thought suggests itself that the charter does not give the council power to put a commissioner of industries on the pay roll. If it did the politicians would have discovered the fact long ago, and provided an office for one of their number. Even if the council had authority it should not be exercised. The work of spreading far and wide the news of the industrial advantages of Chicago and of the opportunities it holds out to men who wish to engage in manufacturing or other pursuits has been taken in hand by the Chicago Commercial association. It is composed of intelligent and enterprising men, and it is doing more than an army of official collectors of statistics and advertisers of the city's resources could do.

Although a city commissioner of industries would be a useless fellow, a municipal government can do a great deal to promote the trade and commerce of the city. It can do that by discharging faithfully the duties imposed on it by the charter. One of them is to preserve good order—to prevent rioting. Chicago has had an evil reputation for turbulence of a certain kind. That reputation has kept many from establishing themselves here in spite of the natural advantages which appealed to them strongly. They have admitted the attractions of Chicago as a manufacturing and distributing point, but they have expressed grave doubts regarding the efficiency of the local government.

If the municipal authorities will give Chicago a first class government—will maintain order, drop "I. M. O.," and let the people have a decent traction system, keep the streets passably clean, abate somewhat the dreadful volume of noise, and abstain from excessive taxation—private enterprise will take good care of the trade and commerce of the city. Private enterprise, which can accomplish results that lie far beyond the ineffectual capacity of official enterprise, will disseminate in every quarter the intelligence of the superior facilities for doing business which are offered by Chicago.

MARK TWAIN'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

Mark Twain is going to write his autobiography. This ought to be the best of his books. His life has had variety enough and adventure enough to make good reading when told in his own inimitable way. Perhaps he will reveal now how much of "Tom Sawyer," "Huckleberry Finn," and the "Innocents Abroad" is founded upon his own history and how much is fiction. Or it may be that, led astray by his picturesque imagination, he may add another book, a mixture of fact and fancy, to the old list. Unless he takes a solemn affidavit to the truth of all that he writes there will be some people suspicious of his autobiography. If he wrote of himself when he was describing Tom Sawyer's career it may be some Tom Sawyer whose experiences he writes as his own.

The book will be welcome in any case, whether it is another joke on the public or a bona fide autobiography, but it is to be hoped that it will be the latter. If springs of humor bubble up so as to interfere with the work their flow can be diverted to the channel of another good story, but the life of Mark Twain, told truthfully and with adequate detail, will be hailed with delight by readers now living and will be a valuable contribution to material for a study of American life of this period. Other nations excel in the art of self-portraiture, but neither America nor England has produced many autobiographies of value. Indeed, the most striking and, from a literary standpoint, the most valuable autobiographies in English are works of fiction cast in that form. There is nothing in English actual autobiography to rank with Rousseau's "Confessions" or the lives of Benvenuto Cellini or Massimo d'Azeglio. There are plenty of books of recollections of famous people or famous events, but few autobiographies in which the writer, without boasting, remains the central figure and which have the charm of fiction.

When Mark Twain wrote his story of Joan of Arc he felt it wise to publish it anonymously for fear his reputation as a humorist would injure the book. In it he proved that he can write seriously and reach a dignity and beauty of style which might not be guessed from his lighter works. His new undertaking will afford material for him to show all his skill. Jesting or sober, drawing the long bow or scrupulously self-restrained, eloquent in defense of the oppressed, or dreaming wide awake, he will still be the most American of prose writers, and his life, told by himself, will be a typical American book.

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1906: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

COUNT LE RODELLEC, whose château overlooking the bay of Brest has been the scene of the alleged theft of a $10,000 diamond ring by the Russian diplomat, Alexander Gregr, has been the theme of so much discussion in connection with the affair that it may be as well to state that he is a perfectly authentic nobleman, belonging to one of the old houses of the aristocracy of the Finisterre, where his family have been established for generations. His name, and that of his brothers, will be found in the "Etat de la Noblesse Française," and in other standard works dealing with the French nobility. I would draw attention to the fact that this particular family uses the name of "le" instead of "de" as its nobiliary "particule."

The count and countess have no Parisian home, but live all the year round at their château, putting up at hotels when they visit the French capital. The diamond stolen, and now duly recovered, has never belonged to the crown jewels of France. But it was the favorite gem of Leonile Leblanc, who never was a famous actress, but one of the most infamous and avaricious queens of the Parisian half-world, and for years the belle amie of the royal duc d'Aumale, after having been the "friend" of Prince Napoleon. She made a practice of collecting jewels and missals of all things in the world, and her collection of the latter was one of the finest in existence until dispersed by the public sale of her effects.

It seems a strange taste for an honest woman to prize as her most precious jewel a gem which for a quarter of a century was the principal ornament of the most evil and notorious demi-mondaine of the French metropolis. The countess le Rodellec, a woman much older than her husband, was born in America, of an American mother, who was Miss Mary Jones of New York until she married the late comte de Trobriand, who won his rank of general in the American union army during the civil war here. Mrs. Charles A. Post of New York is another of Mme. de Trobriand's daughters.

Timely indeed is the discussion which has been started in connection with this scandal by the French and English press as to the justification of hosts and hostesses in openly accusing of theft a guest staying at their house when the guilt seems assured. Of course the concensus of opinion is against the countess, who in the affair has been guilty of the violation of the most elementary laws of hospitality, which require that the welfare, the honor, and the safety of one's guests should be regarded as sacred by host and hostess.

The discussion might well have been extended from theft to cheating at cards, which is a far more common offense in country houses nowadays and a source of no end of embarrassment to hosts and hostesses, who are divided between their anxiety to avoid a scandal and to preserve their guests from being fleeced.

In this connection I may recall the case where the present duchess of Devonshire, then duchess of Manchester, furnished a notable example of the proper thing to do under the circumstances. During a stay which the present king and queen, then prince and princess of Wales, were making at Kimbolton castle, the duchess suddenly became aware that one of the most honored members of the house party, George Russell, cousin of the duke of Bedford, son-in-law of the duke of Grafton, former private secretary of the prince of Wales, and head of the government department of public works, was cheating at cards.

The duchess, firmly determined that no scandal should mar the royal visit, said nothing. But she took care that during the remainder of the stay George Russell should be as little as possible at the card table, employing all sorts of feminine devices to keep him away from it, while, when he did play, she so contrived it that she and none of her guests should be the loser.

Of course she never asked George Russell to her house again, but she said nothing about it until six months later, when an afternoon caller suddenly remarked to her that one of the best known men in London society had been caught in the act of cheating early that morning at one of the clubs, asking her to guess who it was. Without saying a word the duchess jotted a name down on a piece of paper, covered it with her hand, and then said, "Now tell me who it was." On learning that it was George Russell she raised her hand from the paper and showed that it was Russell's name that she had written thereon. Thereupon she related the Kimbolton castle episode.

It is unfortunate that the story did not become more widely known at the time. Otherwise it might have prevented a less tactful and less well bred hostess—namely: Mrs. Arthur Wilson, from embroiling King Edward while still heir apparent in a most annoying scandal. Of course I refer to the memorable Doncaster race house party at Tranby Croft. The prince had only accepted the hospitality of Mrs. Wilson because something had occurred at the last moment to prevent his staying at another house in the neighborhood.

Among the guests whom he himself had chosen to be invited to meet him was Col. Sir William Gordon Cumming. Mrs. Wilson and her children discovered him in the act of playing unfairly at baccarat, and instead of keeping the discovery to themselves, as the duchess of Devonshire had done in the analagous case above described, at once communicated the matter to all the other guests, including the prince. The latter, much distressed that one whom he himself had brought under their roof should have been caught in the act of cheating them at cards, insisted upon an investigation by three of the leading clubmen of London who were present, one of them being the late Gen. Owen Williams.

Gordon Cumming, while he did not actually confess, pledged himself not to touch another card on the understanding that nothing further would be said or done about the matter. But through the indiscretion of certain of the women present, and also of the servants, the story soon became public property, and Sir William Gordon Cumming was called upon by his London clubs, by the Guards regiment to which he belonged, and by the war department, to clear his name by a suit for libel against Mrs. Wilson and her family or else to resign. Both sides called upon the prince to testify, and he was thus dragged into a card scandal which furnished his foes with plenty of opportunity to abuse him for playing at cards, pointing out that if he had not been addicted to this pastime he would never have been compelled to appear before the public in connection with such an unsavory case.

Of course there was much popular feeling in connection with the whole affair against Sir William Gordon Cumming. But, while there are many people who even until this day are divided as to the question of his guilt, there was but one voice throughout English society as to the behavior of Mrs. Wilson and of her children in violating all the laws of hospitality by accusing one of their guests of cheating, and by involving their future king in such a disagreeable affair.

To come back to Alexander Gregr, it may be of interest to recall that while attached to the Russian embassy at Washington he was one of the most devoted admirers of Mrs. Horace Helyar, at that time wife of one of the secretaries of the English legation, and who since his death has married Lord Savile, with whom King Edward is to stay a few weeks hence at Rufford abbey, in Nottinghamshire, for the Doncaster races.

Gregr left many friends here and would have come in for more sympathy, both here and abroad, in connection with this affair in Brittany had it not been for the strange attitude of the Russian embassy in Paris, which, instead of endeavoring to support him and to assist him in his trouble, showed a remarkable anxiety to point out that he was not connected with the embassy, that he was on the retired list, and that his title of councilor of state was a purely honorary one and of no account.

Timely Hint.

"Aw, torment it!" growled the village grocer. "What's the use of askin'? Of course it's that dratted Pick Smith again—old Deacon Rezin Smith's unlicked cub! It don't make any difference if there is going to be an 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' show this evening; that's no excuse for his putting a 'Town Hall Tonight!' sign on that 'ere basket of eggs! Them eggs is fresh—dogbob him!"—Puck.

POET LONGFELLOW'S LETTERS REVEAL HAPPY HOME LIFE.

Correspondence with English Woman Who Educated His Daughters Throws Interesting Light on Human Side of Author of "Hiawatha."

[FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Aug. 28.—That the home life of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was an uncommonly happy one is generally known, but a new and interesting glimpse of the relations of the great American poet with his children is given by a series of Longfellow letters which has just been purchased by Messrs. Henry Sotheran & Co., the London booksellers and autograph dealers.

The correspondence was written to a Miss H. Davis of Ware Cottage, Lyme Regis, Dorset, who was for ten years governess in Longfellow's family in America, and who, the poet says, "faithfully looked after and carefully educated my three daughters." Throughout the letters, which have never heretofore been published, Longfellow continually refers to "the little ones," and in many of the passages there are real touches of deep feeling.

For instance, in a letter from Cambridge on June 17, 1862, Longfellow says:

"Charley has gone to town, Erny is in bed, Alice is practicing our pianoforte, and I stand writing at this desk. How natural it all seems, but how dreary to me is this bright, cool June day."

This last sentence is mournfully interesting. In the year 1861 Longfellow lost his wife, whose dress caught fire in his own house. She was burned to death, and the poet's "dreariness" spoken of in the letter undoubtedly referred to his sad loss.

His Love for Children Deep.

Longfellow's deep and abiding love for his children, whom he wrote of as

Grave Alice and laughing Allegra
And Edith with the golden hair, is shown in this letter as in others. He says:

"Erny is feverish and ill this morning. If he feels better toward noon or Dr. Wyeman thinks lightly of the matter I shall take Alice with me to Portland this afternoon and bring the little one back tomorrow afternoon."

The "Erny" referred to is now Ernest Wadsworth Longfellow, a well known artist in New York. Writing from Nahant in the United States on July 24, 1865, Longfellow says:

"I send you a little of the seaside drowsiness in the shape of a letter. . . . Edith and Annie have returned from Portland, and Erny and Alice have gone to the White mountains. Charley is here. . . . Bathing goes on with vigor. Sally has even been on horseback, quite out into deep water, till the horse swam and threw her off, and she came safe ashore by her own skill in swimming, not a bit frightened but eager to mount and try it again."

In a charmingly piquant passage he says:

"Lessons are reduced to a minimum . . . but the little ones are conscientious and faithful. We are also just as good as we can be."

Another extract evidently has reference to a little love affair of one of his children. He writes:

"'Ammadale' is becoming intense. The young lady in the red shawl appears on the borders of the lake as in the dream, and, O, dear! how interesting it is!"

Admired Patriotism of British.

Longfellow had a love for British patriotism. In a letter to Miss Davis on Oct. 15, 1860, from Cambridge, he says:

"It would be a thousand pities if such a true and loyal Briton as you are should not have a sight of your prince. So I write to say that you will have a chance to see him on Thursday. He will pass down Beacon street on horseback to review some troops on the common, and you, from a balcony window, can wave your handkerchief and say in your heart, 'God bless him!'"

All these letters were written in Longfellow's plain, scholarly hand and signed "Yours truly, Henry W. Longfellow."

With the letters, Messrs. Sotheran bought a number of little slips of paper, covered with writing scribbled with pencil in the handwriting of the author of "Hiawatha."

His "Review of the Market."

It is evident that these were written as a labor of love for some juvenile journal, for they contain simple, funny little flashes of brilliancy, and on the back of the last is inscribed "Written for 'The Secret.'" They are headed: "Commercial Intelligence, Review of the Market," and following are some of the extracts:

"Cotton, drooping; particularly in shirt collars in warm weather.

"Flour, quiet, except when mixed with yeast; then it rises and is anything but quiet.

"Groceries, with a downward tendency; all good groceries have this tendency, particularly sugar and preserves.

"Hides, a shade easier; mine is since the cold weather is over.

"Mackerel, without change; but they have a good many greenbacks among them.

"Oats dull; the horses are of quite a different opinion. So are all young gentlemen who 'feel their oats.'

"Shingles, steady; when they are well nailed down; otherwise the wind is apt to blow them off.

"Pork, heavy; it should never be eaten for supper as it is apt to produce nightmare.

"Corn, active; all corns are particularly active as the season advances.

"Whisky, unchanged; except when made into whisky punch.

A PLEASANT THOUGHT FOR TODAY.

ONE OF THE WISE WOMEN.

BY CORA ROCHE HOWLAND.

She has the same color of eyes her son has, with iris deeply brown, and small bright pupil that bespeaks the keenness of her vision. There are black, heavy lashes both on the upper and on the lower eyelids. She is a handsome woman, considerably past middle age, tall of stature, and deep bosomed, and her well shaped head is crowned by a plait of silvered hair. Her features, like her noble figure, tell of strength and power to endure.

It was her eyes, their beauty and their resemblance to the eyes which looked out at me yesterday from beneath my guide's slouch hat, which influenced me to speak to her and ask her if this road I followed would take me to "the outlet," where the bridge was.

True, merely to pause there for the instant was a pleasure; the picture that I saw before me was exquisite in composition and detail. The cabin, before whose door the woman stood, dressed soberly in gray, was built of whitewashed logs, with moss and plaster in between, completely to shut out the wind and winter's cold. Black smoke curled upward lazily from the chimney at one end. Green moss grew on the doorstep, and the maple tree this side the window was reddened by the sharpness of an early frost. So also was the vine that climbed between the door and window toward the roof.

In a rustic fern box, made of that silver birch that has a varnished look in sunlight, a clump of dainty maidenhairs shook delicately in the breeze, as if from chill. And as a background for the picture birch trees stood, and darker pines, and a group of mighty poplars that mixed their foliage intimately high above.

We talked a while about the woods, the changes of the weather; we mentioned how last night the frost had turned the roads and grasses white. She told me names of different berries I had found when in the woods—spoke of nearby deer runs, where tracks appeared of bucks and smaller does—laughed over tricks of the red squirrels, pests of the camp. She narrated how she found this morning on the beach a lordly pickerel that had its neck snapped and its head bent back, work of a fish hawk, which by a stroke of chance had lost its prey.

"Do you never get tired of the woods?" I asked her, wondering at the refinement shown not only by her manner but also by her clear, well modulated voice and her careful choice of words in speaking.

"Sometimes," she answered thoughtfully, "but it doesn't come from being in the woods; it's the kind of loneliness you get from living a long time. It was here that I grew up, and I like it better than the town. But it wouldn't matter where I was so long as I could see my boy.

"You know we have everything that anybody needs to have," she went on presently, smiling at me with her bright dark eyes. "We have enough to eat and enough to wear. We have our days for working and our nights for sleeping. And we have pleasures of our own, simple ones, but such as please us. You see my boy and I both love the woods."

There came to our ears the sound of a footfall on the road. In silence, sitting on the mossy doorstep, we awaited the pedestrian's approach, for a bend in the road and the thicket hid him from our view. An instant and a tall, broad shouldered lad appeared, in rough clothes and home made flannel shirt of gray. His slouch hat, which he carried carefully, was lined with leaves, and piled high with the big red raspberries which ripen late at this high altitude—even after frost. It was my boyish guide of yesterday.

He returned my greeting modestly, almost with shyness. Silently he handed his improvised berry basket to his mother. From his pocket he took a roll of something green and black and spread it out on his big brown hand.

"See, mother, is this the ferny kind of moss you wanted?"

"Yes, son, that is the kind." And the speaker's fine brown eyes smiled her affection into that younger pair of eyes so like her own.

INSIDE STORY OF THE MURDER OF KING ALEXANDER AND QUEEN DRAGA.

Carnival of Blood and Pillage Follows Deaths of Young Ruler and His Bride at Hands of Soldier Assassins.

BY CHEDO MIJATOVICH.

[Copyright: 1906: by Tribune company.]

CHAPTER XXIV.

A RIOT OF ASSASSINATION.

TWO hours their bodies, naked, bleeding, and broken, were lying in the garden in view of the soldiers. At 4 o'clock it began to rain. At that time the Russian minister, Tcharikoff, crossed the narrow street from the Russian legation, entered the flower garden, stopped, and, not without deep agitation, looked on the bodies of the man and the woman who had been only a few hours earlier the king and queen of Servia.

A few of the officers who had murdered them, with Col. Mashin, stepped forward and saluted the czar's representative.

The first words of Tcharikoff were:

"For God's sake, gentlemen, carry their bodies inside the palace! Do not leave them here in the rain exposed to the gaze of the public!"

A few moments after two bedsheets were brought out of the palace. The murderers carried them into a room on the ground floor.

They noticed that one hand of King Alexander had grasped green grass from the lawn. In his death agony the convulsions of his fingers tore the soft grass.

Having murdered their king and queen and thrown them through the window into the front garden of the palace, the murderers were seized with a sort of jubilant frenzy. They screamed and shouted at the top of their voices, dancing and running about the rooms like madmen, firing their revolvers at the pictures on the walls, at looking glasses and candelabra; some of them broke with axes the bedstead of the royal couple and smashed all the fine things on the queen's toilet table; called for wine from the king's cellars, and the trembling servants obeyed their orders. Others, who felt the air in the palace hot and sulphurous, rushed into the courtyard, ordered tables to be set out on the carriage drive, and drank to the health of King Peter. For some time the old palace and its courtyard were turned into a pandemonium.

However shameful the orgies of these bloodthirsty officers, still more shameful was the behavior of those murderers who kept cool.

I hope it is not true, but I have been assured by honorable men, and it was on different occasions stated in the papers, that many jewels belonging to the queen, and watches and rings belonging to the king, were taken away by these beasts in officers' uniforms. Twelve hours before the king had received from the treasury 100,000 francs ($20,000), his monthly civil list, and, beside that amount, both the king and queen always had in reserve and at hand a sum of $20,000. All that money disappeared during the mad tumult in the palace, immediately after the assassination of the royal couple.

Meanwhile during these bloody and horrible events in the palace several companies of soldiers marched in various directions. The officers who led them had special orders. A company surrounded the house of Gen. Tzintzar-Markovitch, who was with King Alexander up to nearly 11 o'clock that night and was working in his room, fully dressed. At about 1 o'clock he was startled by a loud knock at the gate of his house. He opened the window and saw the soldiers.

"What do you want?" the general asked.

"General," said the commander of the company, Capt. Radakovitch, "I have a special communication by the order of his majesty, the king."

"It is well," answered the general, and ordered his servant to open the door.

Entering the general's room Capt. Swetozar Radakovitch saluted and said:

"His majesty ordered me to arrest you and keep watch over you until further order."

"Indeed!" said the general, and then added: "I will facilitate the accomplishment of your duty. Let us sit down. Take a cigaret."

They talked quietly for some time.

Then a servant from the general's daughter came running to ask Mme. Tzintzar-Markovitch to hurry to her daughter, who expected every moment to be confined. The poor young woman, hearing the detonations of dynamite and firing in the neighborhood of the palace, where her husband, the young and handsome Capt. Miljkovitch, was on duty as equerry, became terribly agitated, with the result that her confinement took place. At that moment her husband was lying dead in the palace.

Capt. Radakovitch would not allow the general's wife to leave the house. But after both the general and Mme. Tzintzar-Markovitch implored him to let her go, promising faithfully not to tell any one that the general was by the king's order under arrest, he gave her permission to go.

The general and Capt. Radakovitch continued talking and smoking for some time. Then the general proposed that they should have some coffee. He went towards the door to give order that coffee should be made. Then Capt. Radakovitch also rose, took his revolver and fired in quick succession several shots at the general, who fell instantly on his face, dead. His two unmarried daughters rushed into the room, and, seeing their father dead, one of them lost her reason temporarily and the other withdrew to a corner of the room, which she did not leave for several days and nights, remaining all the while speechless.

It was marvelous that Mme. Tzintzar-Markovitch—herself a woman of delicate health—was able to survive that awful night. She lost suddenly and most unexpectedly her husband and her son-in-law, saw her eldest daughter in danger of death by a premature confinement, and both her younger daughters on the verge of insanity. Her husband was one of the ablest Servian officers and a true Christian gentleman.

Col. Mashin, who seemed to have acted as commander in chief of the conspiracy, had ordered Lieut. Tankossitch to murder the two young brothers of Queen Draga, Capt. Nicodiye and Lieut. Nicholas Laonyevitza. Capt. Michael Yosipovitch received orders to kill the war minister, Gen. Milovan Pavlovitch, and the young Lieut. Milosh R. Topovitch to kill the minister of home affairs, Velya Todorovitch.

Lieut. Tankossitch sent a detachment of soldiers to the house of the two brothers Laonyevitza. They were informed that they were wanted at once at the office of the staff of their division. At the office they were told by Col. Solarovitch that they were condemned to die. Lieut. Tankossitch brought them out in the yard, permitted them at their own request to embrace each other, and as good brothers to take leave of each other.

They were placed against the wall facing bravely the firing party of soldiers. At a signal from Tankossitch the soldiers fired, and the two handsome and brave young men fell dead instantly, as most of the bullets struck them full in the face and forehead. By their conduct in bravely meeting death they did honor to their name.

It is asserted that their watches, rings, silver tabatières, and even their high patent boots were taken from their dead bodies. I mention this not only because such statements persistently are circulated but because they generally are believed in Belgrade. It seems incredible that it can be true.

Another victim of the regicides was the minister of war, Gen. Milovan Pavlovitch. He was an able officer, a strict commander, but, at the same time, one of the kindest men in the whole of Servia. Honest and loyal himself, he refused to believe that Servian officers could be so disloyal, and all the confidential reports about the conspiracy among the officers he treated as ridiculous inventions without the slightest foundation.

After the assassination of the king and the queen Col. Mashin telephoned from the palace to Gen. Pavlovitch's private residence, asking if the general was at home. The general's wife answered that he was, and at the same time wanted to know why they inquired after him. The answer came not from Mashin but from Lieut. Col. Peter Mishitch: "There are some disorders in the town and we are sending a company of soldiers to protect the general."

When the soldiers arrived before the house of the general they, at the command of their captain, Michael Yosipovitch, opened fire at once on the windows of the rooms on the first floor in which the general was known to live. He appeared, fully dressed, at one of the windows, and began to fire from a revolver on his assailants. Exposing himself at the window, he soon was wounded, but continued firing. Meanwhile a few soldiers led by Lieut. Milan Marinkovitch, rushed up the staircase toward the door of the general's room. Marinkovitch smashed the door with a dynamite cartridge and with his own hand killed the general. Not satisfied with having murdered his chief, Marinkovitch ordered a soldier to smash his skull with a blow from his rifle.

The general's widow in describing the death of her husband added that his murderers carried away his gold ring and even a pair of new untried tall boots. In his purse they found altogether 80 francs, of which they took 60, leaving the widow 20 francs. I suppose this money was taken by the common soldiers. But there are people who claim to have seen the ring of the general on the finger of his murderer, Marinkovitch.

Col. Mashin had selected the young cavalry lieutenant, Milosh K. Popovitch, to kill the home minister, Velya Todorovitch.

That officer, entering the house of the minister and finding himself opposite a defenseless civilian, had not the courage to kill him. A few minutes later the murderer of Gen. Pavlovitch arrived and fired on the minister, who fell at once. Believing him to be dead, the murderers left the house. Mr. Todorovitch, who was only wounded and had fainted, recovered consciousness and took refuge with some neighbors.

Several other political and nonpolitical men were on the list of those who were to be assassinated that early morning. Among others, Lieut. George Petrovitch, nephew of Queen Draga, and the editor of the Male Novine, Pera Todorovitch, a devoted friend of King Alexander, and the most gifted of all the Servian journalists. The officer intrusted with the assassination of young Petrovitch missed his way and returned to headquarters to ask for better directions to the house in which the queen's nephew lived. Mr. Todorovitch was informed an hour before the assassins came to his house, and he fled and succeeded in crossing the river to Hungary. Meanwhile, that is, between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning, Col. Mashin and the revolutionary cabinet were informed by the Austro-Hungarian minister that if further assassinations did not stop, the Austrian army would occupy Belgrade. The murderous expeditions at once were stopped.

Having proclaimed Peter Karageorgevitch king of Servia from the window through which King Alexander's still palpitating body was thrown, Mishitch and Mashin ordered the soldiers to decorate their caps with green branches and flowers from the palace garden and the military bands to march through the streets playing the gayest marches, and sent the gendarmes from house to house with orders to the proprietors to display the Servian national flags in sign of the general rejoicing that the Obrenovitch dynasty was annihilated.

This was the tragic end of King Alexander and Queen Draga. But this is not the end of the tragedy of the Servian nation.

The Wit of the World

HUMOR FROM ENGLAND.

Mr. Rudyard Kipling dined on one occasion with a party that included several other well known writers—a fair proportion of men and women who knew something about literature, and a large number who knew little and made up for their lack of knowledge with pretense. Several of the last described kind started a useless discussion concerning spellings, pronunciation, etc., and one, firing his remark straight at Kipling, said: "I find that 'sugar' and 'sumach' are the only words beginning with 'su' that are pronounced as though beginning with 'sh.'"

Bored though he was, Kipling's politeness did not desert him, and, assuming an expression of interest, although his eyes twinkled behind his glasses, he asked: "Are you sure?"—Chums.

In the "Foreign Field" of the Wesleyan Missionary society are quoted some letters written by native converts to a lady doctor in India. Here are two:

WHEAT MARKET CONTINUES ON THE DOWNWARD COURSE.

Fine Weather and Liberal Shipments Northwest Combine with Lower Cables to Depress Values—Some Recovery on Short Covering from Session's Bottom Prices — December and May at New Low Level—September Corn Firmer.

Following the course of the previous market, wheat yesterday kept on the down grade. While there was no sensational feature to the trading, new low prices were established for December and May, and the September, touching 69⅝c, again reached the bottom on the crop. With the present month option practically a cash article, the drop to the low spot really was equivalent to a still lower level. Final prices showed declines of 1-16c for September, ⅛c for December, and ⅛c for May. At one time the December and May were at 72¼c and 76⅝c, respectively.

The bulk of news matter was bearish, and sentiment generally was favorable to a still further weakening of values. Rabid bears predicted that a 65c market was not far distant, but the softer spots of the session found some of these prognosticators buyers—principally coverers.

Ideal weather for winding up operations in the northwest, combined with continued absence of outside speculative support, liberal offerings at the northwestern markets, and the prediction of freer movements in the near future, and sympathetic response of Liverpool to the weakness here the day before were among the principal factors which worked for the easiness. There was considerable conjecturing as to the extent of export business done, unconfirmed advices fixing the total as high as 480,000 bu.

Easterners Talk Pessimistically.

Despite the reported generous trade done, easterners continued to harp on the indifference of foreigners to values in this country. One of the big men in the market declared that, contrary to many reports, the situation abroad was not as bearish as some of the trade have been led to believe. Reported importing of German rye by Russia was given a bullish construction, but the ultimate effect of the announcement was lost in the mass of bear arguments.

It may be remembered that a short time ago prices in this market took on a good degree of firmness on the announcement that Russia was going beyond its own boundaries for food material, but subsequent liberal exports from that country took all the sap out of the enthusiasm that came with the report.

Primary arrivals were well under those of a year before. The receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis were 260 cars, compared to 251 cars the corresponding day in 1905. Local arrivals totaled 70 cars, of which 31 graded contract. The Santa Fé railroad gave notice that it could not handle any more grain for shipment via the gulf at this time owing to a congestion at the gulf ports.

Complaints on Northwest Grading.

While most of the reports from the northwest have been of a favorable sort, there has been enough in the way of gossip to indicate that the new wheat has not been grading as expected. It was given out that the yield in Manitoba and other provinces of Canada would approximate 84,500,000 bu, but only 20 per cent of which was regarded milling quality. Winnipeg reported new arrivals grading satisfactorily. The estimated Argentine shipments for the week were 800,000 bu, compared to actual exports of 1,400,000 bu the corresponding period last year. Antwerp was weaker for both Argentine and American spot stuff.

"Wheat is heading for 65c a bu," said a trader who has been on both sides of the market in the last few weeks, "and the elevator people are the strongest factors in the situation at the moment. They, as well as almost every one else, know that we cannot get rid of much of our great crop of wheat abroad around prevailing prices. There will be money in putting the excellent material away and holding it. A time is coming when such fine wheat as we have raised this year will be wanted by the foreigners. Wheat around 65c or 67c should prove a good investment."

September Corn Shows Firmness.

Corn, devoid of notable feature, moved within a range of ⅜c. There was considerable pressure by longs in the early operations, values going off to 47¼c for September, 42½c for December, and 43⅜c for May. Continued fine weather for the maturing of the growing crop combined with expectations of a freer movement from the country to depress values at the start—these influences joining with the weakness in wheat. The weak spots, however, found offerings scanty, and this, with the indication subsequently shaped that farmers were beginning to halt at the reduced bids sent out from here, served to check the bears' selling and to inspire many of the more timid shorts to covering.

The September was relatively stronger than the new crop options, closing ⅛c higher December and May wound up at declines of 1-16c and ⅛c respectively. The present month was bolstered on reliable advices that the movement of old corn soon would show a material letup, unless values took on better color. Local arrivals were 313 cars, of which 171 cars graded contract.

Iowa was reported a freer seller of the cereal to local interests, but from important sections of this state there was the suggestion of complaint over the scarcity of cars. A leading railroad official went on record as predicting that within the next fortnight cars for the carrying of corn will be dangerously scarce. Cash corn was steady to a shade stronger, although the east did not enter vigorously into the buying. The east evidently has been figuring on a much more liberal movement from the interior.

Distant Oats Options Easier.

Acting in sympathy with the more important markets, oats displayed a shade of easiness the greater part of the session. Some support developed from a material pick up in the cash business here and on a more pronounced willingness of shorts to cover on the weak spots. To many in the trade it appears that values have about reached the bottom. Reports from the northwest were against bullish endeavor early and numerous advices from sections of the central west were favorable to the bears' plans and operations.

The most important weight on the market, which wound up unchanged for September, 1-16c lower for December, and ⅛@¼c weaker for May, was liquidating by a big local speculative long. Receipts here were 161 cars, of which 21 cars graded contract.

Provisions in Narrow Range.

Provision prices moved within a narrow range, not at any time venturing far from the closing quotations of the previous session. The final bell saw pork 2½@7½c lower, lard unchanged to 2½c off, and ribs unchanged to 2½c lower. The arrivals of hogs at the local yards were materially under the estimate and prices for stock on the hoof there were 5@10c firmer. This had something to do toward lending firmness to early operations in the pit. The run of hogs at the principal western centers was close to 55,000, compared to 52,300 the corresponding day last year. The spirit of waiting prevailed throughout.

Rye Market Is Steady.

The rye market was steady. There was only a moderate demand existing, although there were some inquiries from abroad which would have resulted in orders if the market had not advanced. Sales of 5,000 bu No. 2 were reported. Receipts were 3 cars No. 2 free on board sold at 57½@58c; billed through at 57c; No. 3, 51c; No. 4, fancy, 55c. September sold at 56½c; December, 58c.

Barley was strong and a shade higher. Receipts were small, 11 cars. Feed was quoted, 37½@38c; malting, 39@53c; screenings, 30@38½c.

Timothy seed was quiet. New seed was quoted, $3.00@3.85; September was $3.95 bid and $4.05 asked; October, $3.85 bid, $4.00 asked.

Flaxseed was dull. No. 1 northwestern was quoted, $1.09; No. 1, $1.04½; September, $1.04½. Receipts were 4 cars here and 34 cars in the northwest.

IN THE NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Dry goods buyers from the west who today tried to cover on goods which they are running short of found that on some of the commonest lines of cotton goods it is impossible to get an order accepted by first hands if it called for nearby delivery. In percales, shirtings, denims, and bleached cottons of finer qualities the situation is exceptionally strong. Raw silk has advanced sharply in price and in consequence buyers paid the full advance demanded in some quarters for silk piece goods.

Metals—The London tin market was unchanged at £185 for spot, but futures were a shade lower at £184 5s. Here quotations ranged from $40.30 to $40.50. Copper was about 5s lower in London, with spot and futures both quoted at £86 2s 6d. Locally no change was reported, with lake quoted at $18.87½@19.00; electrolytic, $18.62½@18.75; casting, $18.37½@18.50. Lead was firmer at $5.75@5.95 locally, and advanced to £18 in London. Spelter was unchanged at £27 10s in London. Locally the market was steady and a shade higher at $6.05@6.10. Iron was unchanged to a little higher in the English market, with standard foundry quoted at 53s 11d and Cleveland warrants at 54s 4½d. Locally the market was firm. No. 1 foundry northern is quoted at $20.00@21.00, No. 2 foundry northern at $19.50@20.00, No. 1 foundry southern at $20.50@21.00, No. 2 foundry southern at $20.00@20.50.

Antimony is more active and firmly held. Cookson's is quoted at 25c; Hallett's, 23¼@24c; Japanese, none here; other brands, 22@23c. In London, Hallett's is strong at £107 and ordinary brands are firm at £105.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

"Advices from Russia lately have been of a more favorable tenor, but samples to hand show little, if any, improvement, and in our opinion the scarcity of strong milling wheats will be one of the features of the season," said Leuders & Co. of London. "In a country of such large dimensions there are sure to be districts which escaped the disastrous rainfall of last month, and which no doubt have secured good crops, but such wheat will find a good market in the Mediterranean, and we are afraid prices will be demanded which will make trading in this class of wheat with the united kingdom difficult indeed.

"The same remarks apply to the Danubian provinces, and it may be urged that the large quantities of low quality wheat which exist in the countries named will be a permanent drag on the market and lead inevitably to a lower level of values. The only hope of the market lies in the fact that Europeans demand a fairly good standard of flour, and in order to produce this they will have to go to America for the necessary quantity of good strong wheats which will be essential if the standard is to be kept up. When America begins to feel this demand we may expect more active markets and perhaps some improvement in values, but not before."

Cash wheat was in small demand in the local market, with small sales reported. There was a sharp demand for old No. 1 northern from millers, but the high premiums prevailing and the scarcity of this grade were a bar to large business. A sale of 5,000 bu was reported at 8c over September in store. There was also some inquiry for hard Turkey wheat from country millers, who were averse to paying the high premiums asked for No. 1 northern.

Cash premiums at Minneapolis were ⅛@⅜c lower. No. 1 northern was quoted at 3@3½c over September and No. 2 northern 1½@2c over. Reports of sales of 480,000 bu of wheat at the seaboard were received late in the day. Inquiries on the part of local houses developed the fact that a great part of this amount was business done within the last few days and not previously reported, and included 224,000 bu macaroni and 120,000 bu Manitoba wheat from Canadian points. Bids early in the day were 1c out of line.

Cash corn was unchanged to ¼c higher. Purchases in the country were heavy for ten and twenty day shipment. One house reported their purchases the largest of any day so far. Oats were unchanged. Local sales were 5,000 bu wheat, 110,000 bu corn, and 200,000 bu oats, including 100,000 bu standard at ⅝c over September and 20,000 bu ½c over.

Closing prices for wheat in foreign markets were: Liverpool, ⅛d lower; Paris, delayed; Antwerp, ⅝c lower; Berlin, ¼c lower; Budapest, ⅞c lower.

Louis Fuss, president of the Regina Milling company, came out yesterday with his annual statement on the wheat crop. He fixes the total winter and spring yield at 726,000,000 bu.

The Santa Fé has issued notice to the effect that no more grain will be billed to Galveston until further notice on account of the congestion there. This is expected to turn southwestern wheat in this direction.

Estimated receipts for today are: Wheat, 40 cars; corn, 334 cars; oats, 217 cars; rye, 6 cars; barley, 15 cars; hogs, 16,000.

Cudahy brokers, Rankin, Gillette, Scott, Gifford, Marfield, and Armour were moderate buyers of wheat. Brosseau, Bartlett-Frazier, Kidston, and Friedman sold. Updike, Pringle-Fitch-Rankin, and Helmholtz were the leaders in buying corn, with Logan-Bryan and Wrenn the best sellers. Patten, Brosseau, and Pringle-Fitch-Rankin sold oats freely, commission houses buying. Knight-McDougal and Buckley bought May and sold December. J. A. Edwards bought December.

Deliveries on September contracts were 30,000 bu wheat, 25,000 bu oats, 10,000 bu rye, 250 brls pork, and 150,000 lbs short ribs.

Charters were made for 95,000 bu corn to Buffalo at 1½c.

Sales on the call were: Corn, 5,000 bu No. 3 yellow, 10 days, at 48⅝c, through billed; 21,500 bu No. 3, 10 days, at 48⅝c, track Chicago; 10,000 bu No. 3, this year, at 39⅝c, track Chicago; 5,000 bu No. 3, this year, at 40c, track Chicago.

M. King of Atisa, S. D., who controls an extensive line of country stations in that state, was on the floor during the day. He says South Dakota has raised enormous crops of wheat, corn, and oats.

"With two weeks more of favorable weather we will have secured the largest crop of corn in the history of the state, and the spring wheat crop is larger than last year, and of better quality," said Mr. King. "There is also a much larger percentage of winter wheat raised than ever before. Stack thrashing is just starting in full blast. The movement will depend on prices, as the farmers are independent and do not feel disposed to sacrifice their crops."

A St. Louis message said: "The winter wheat farmers are ordering more sacks, and receiving houses tell me receipts of wheat will increase. Farmers are well up with their farm work and are loaded with wheat."

Peoria wired: "With favorable weather we expect to have new corn on this market by the 20th of next month."

The Cincinnati Price Current in its weekly summary said:

"Week favorable for growing corn. Crop will be practically out of danger from frost in two weeks. Full acreage of winter wheat likely to be sown. Interior grain movement light. Packing 390,000 hogs at western centers as against 340,000 for the corresponding week last year. Packing for season from March 1 to date, 12,860,000 hogs, as compared with 11,830,000 hogs year ago—an increase of 1,030,000 hogs."

Winnipeg wheat receipts were 165 cars compared to 12 cars last year. Of the total receipts 143 cars were new wheat, including 64 cars No. 1 northern and 26 cars No. 1 hard. Minneapolis received 173 cars, including 6 cars No. 1 hard, 17 cars No. 1 northern, 50 cars No. 2 northern, and 28 cars macaroni.

Argentine wheat shipments for the week were estimated at 800,000 bu; corn, 2,000,000 bu.

"Every condition for handling crops continues perfect," said a Minneapolis message to Ware-Leland. "The buyers of hedges seem to be the shorts taking profits. One big house keeps buying, and it looks like investment, but that is the only sign of such. Receipts show improvement and country movement good. Cash wheat was a little weaker."

The Northwestern Miller says the wheat crop of the three northwestern states may not exceed 200,000,000 bu, and that 210,000,000 bu is considered a liberal estimate.

C. A. King & Co., Toledo, said:

"Missouri September report makes corn condition 86, last month 83, year ago 95, when the crop was 245,000,000 bu; oat yield 22 bu to the acre, 3 bu better than last estimate; cotton 92, apples 90."

STOCK PRICES SUSTAINED.

CONSPICUOUS STRENGTH OF LEADERS FACTOR IN MARKET.

Relief Expected for Money Stringency Not Realized — Subtreasury Has Taken from Banks Since the Last Statement Nearly $5,000,000 — Reading Bears Brunt of Upholding General List—Steel Firmer on Talk of Great Northern Ore Deal.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Prices of stocks were sustained today by the conspicuous strength of some of the speculative leaders, yet call money did not show the relaxation expected. Loans for 60 and 90 days still commanded premiums equivalent to 7½@8 per cent, with 6 months money lending at 6½@7 per cent. The only lenders in any amount were foreign bankers. Yesterday's $2,000,000 transfers to the interior through the subtreasury were offset in the daily statement of operations by extraordinary government disbursements to the amount of $3,000,000, leaving the day's loss by the banks only moderate.

The government institution has taken from the banks since the last bank statement, however, $4,923,000, and $500,000 was deposited for transfer to San Francisco today.

Reading bore the brunt of sustaining the general market up to the late afternoon on rumors that control of Baltimore and Ohio was to be transferred to that company. The Great Northern ore lands report was revived later with effect on United States Steel and Great Northern preferred and a strengthening influence on the whole market.

Money on call firm until near the close, when the rate dropped to 5 per cent; highest, 25 per cent; lowest, 5 per cent; ruling rate, 20 per cent; closing bid, 5 per cent; offered at 5 per cent. Time loans strong; sixty days, ninety days, 7½@8 per cent; six months, 6½@7 per cent. Prime mercantile paper, 6@7 per cent. Sterling exchange steady, below best, at 483.45@483.50 for demand and at 481 for sixty day bills; posted rates, 481½@482 and 484½@485; commercial bills, 480⅝. Bar silver, 67⅝; Mexican dollars, 52. Government bonds steady; railroad bonds heavy.

GOOD SHOWING BY BANKS.

CHICAGO FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS HAVE MUCH CASH.

They Enter the Fall Money Movement with $327,597,612 of Deposits, Largest in Their History—Money Resources Gain 4.9 Per Cent Over June Statement—Allis-Chalmers Deficit for Fiscal Year—Secretary Shaw Does Expected Thing.

Chicago national banks have entered the fall money movement with $7,600,000 more cash than last year and with the largest amount of deposits on record. The percentage of cash resources to deposits on Sept. 4, 1906, as indicated by reports of the national institutions to the controller, was 42.58, compared with 42.05 on Aug. 25, 1905.

The statement on Sept. 4, compared with the previous one in June, shows an increase of 1.1 per cent in loans and 3.6 per cent in deposits. In the period named the cash resources gained 4.9 per cent, or $6,526,929, while the increase in deposits in dollars was $11,442,778. A summary of the condition of the fifteen national banks making public reports follows:

	Loans.	Deposits.	Cash resources.
Sept. 4, 1906	$213,554,483	$327,597,612	$139,490,179

Allis-Chalmers.

For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1906, the Allis-Chalmers company showed a deficit of $388,422. The annual meeting was held in Jersey City yesterday, and, according to an official statement, there was no discord. It was reported that 65 per cent of the capital stock was represented. President Whiteside took a favorable view of the company's prospects.

Owing to a change in the fiscal year, exact comparison cannot be made with the last previous annual statement, which was for the year ended April 30, 1905. The figures just issued are, therefore, for fourteen months. They compare with twelve months as follows:

		Increase.
Net profits	$648,161	*$498,820
Maintenance, rentals	754,928	2,068
Dep'n rentals	281,655	*43,484

Final deficit	40,133	188,422
Asset account	197,614	197,614
Profit, loss, surplus	157,481	*190,808

*Decrease.

The retiring board of directors was reelected.

Money Movements.

The secretary of the treasury did what Wall street expected and came to the relief of the money market. However, since last Friday the New York banks have lost $4,923,000 to the subtreasury. Imports of gold are expected to offset this. It is estimated that at least $10,000,000 will be turned over to the banks next Monday from the treasury on account of gold already engaged. Wall street is predicting that as much as $30,000,000 may be imported. There was engaged $100,000 gold from the Bank of France.

It is a little too early to tell what obstacles will be placed in the way of imports from London. One authority there has estimated $15,000,000 could be spared. But $15,000,000 will not be sufficient to keep the stock market going unless further relief be in sight.

Dividends Declared.

Directors of Sears, Roebuck & Co. have declared the first quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on preferred stock, payable Oct. 1. Books close Sept. 17, reopen Oct. 1.

The Daly West Mining company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 60 cents per share, payable Sept. 15 to stock of record Sept. 10.

Directors of Swift & Co. have declared the usual quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent, payable Oct. 1. Books close Sept. 15, reopen Oct. 2.

The Chicago Junction Railways and Union Stockyards company has declared the regular quarterly dividends of 1½ per cent on its preferred stock, and 2 per cent on its common stock, payable Oct. 1. Books close Sept. 12, reopen Oct. 2.

The customary quarterly dividend of 1 per cent on the preferred stock of the International Silver company will be paid Oct. 1. Books close Sept. 17, reopen Oct. 2.

The Philadelphia Traction company has declared a dividend of $2.00 a share, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 8.

The Interborough Metropolitan company has declared the usual quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent on its preferred stock, payable Oct. 1. Books close Sept. 10, reopen Oct. 1.

The Corn Exchange National bank has declared the usual quarterly dividend of 3 per cent, payable Oct. 1 to stockholders of record Sept. 5.

Northwestern Annual Report.

The annual report of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad company for the year ended June 30 shows gross earnings of $63,481,578, an increase of $7,736,303, and net earnings of $21,265,302, an increase of $4,169,339. The surplus for the year, after payments of fixed charges, on sinking funds and construction, was $2,316,640, an increase of $1,673,712. The sum of $6,000,000 was devoted to the construction account.

Chicago Stocks.

Kansas City Railway and Light shares had a further advance on the local exchange. The common is advancing on the statement that dividends at the rate of at least 4 per cent per annum will begin this year. The buying was largely for the account of friends of insiders.

Swift & Co. shares were active and firm at the opening. It does not transpire whether there is anything doing of a special character in the business of the company. But the stock pays 7 per cent and the large holders of it think the price is too low.

IN THE BOSTON MONEY MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—The local market was fairly active during the first two hours, the strength in Amalgamated making for general buoyancy throughout the list. The volume of the trading, however, was only moderate, and during the last hour the market turned dull, though most of the stocks closed at an advance of substantial fractions. Call loans, 7@9 per cent; time loans, collateral, 6@7 per cent; time loans, mercantile paper, 6@7 per cent; clearing house loans, 6 per cent.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Supplies of money were abundant and rates were easy. Discount brokers were acting cautiously, owing to the American demand for gold. Prices on the stock exchange were fairly steady, but the further withdrawals of gold for the United States had a weakening effect on consols, while the absence of support caused a sagging of home rails. Foreigners continued steady in sympathy with Paris. Russians improved. Americans opened irregular, immediately hardened, and ruled firm at about noon, when prices were well over parity, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé, Union Pacific, and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul leading. The improvement continued in the afternoon until the New York opening prices were received, when Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé and Reading were bid up, but the rest of the market weakened and closed easy. Kaffirs were flat. Japanese imperial 6s of 1904 closed at 103¾.

The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes:

Total reserve, decreased	£391,000
Circulation, decreased	113,000
Bullion, decreased	503,777
Other securities, increased	789,000
Other deposits, increased	1,904,000
Public deposits, decreased	1,653,000
Notes reserve, decreased	388,000
Government securities, decreased	14,000

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability this week is 50.10 per cent, as compared with 51.05 per cent last week.

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—Prices generally on the bourse today were irregular. Americans improved upon the New York advance, and Russians were higher upon the announcement that the government proposed to establish an income tax.

PARIS, Sept. 6.—Trading on the bourse today opened with an upward tendency, especially in the case of Russians. Rentes, however, receded because of the report that the government of Russia will establish an income tax. Prices at the close were generally weak. Russian imperial 4s were quoted at 70.50 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 473.00. The private rate of discount was 2⅝ per cent.

The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes:

EDWIN G. FOREMAN, President. OSCAR G. FOREMAN, Vice-President. GEORGE N. NEISE, Cashier.

IN THE REAL ESTATE WORLD.

Fifteen conveyances of property to the Panhandle road, with an aggregate consideration of $196,298, filed for record yesterday, developed the fact that that road is about to establish between Fifty-ninth, Sixty-ninth, Robey, and Leavitt streets one of the largest railroad yards in the city. The entire tract said to have been already acquired embraces approximately 200 acres on the east side of the road's right of way, the total cost of which is said to be around $400,000.

Big Sums Involved.

The conveyances include property extending from Sixty-first to Sixty-ninth streets, and the grantors were Edmund A. Cummings, Robert C. Givens, Henry G. Foreman, S. K. Gage, and Charles L. Stevens. The road took title directly to $99,998 worth of the land conveyed, while William Fleming of Pittsburg took title for the road to the remainder, valued at $96,300.

Early in the week the road acquired the Dewey tract of 23.8 acres, lying just north of that acquired from Mr. Cummings and his associates, for a nominal consideration.

Two tracts of forty and thirty acres, respectively, at the southwest corner of Robey and Forty-third streets have been acquired by George H. Norman of Newport, R. I., Mark T. Cox of Orange, N. J., and John A. Spoor of Chicago. The grantor was Richard Fitzgerald, vice president of the Chicago Junction railway, who took title from the Union Stockyards and Transit company. There were certain exceptions in each of the conveyances.

Apartment Property Sold.

The apartment property at 6556-6558 Ingleside avenue, also known as 641-643 Sixty-sixth street, with 48x125 feet of ground, has been sold by Benno Sauer to Arthur Weiss for $42,000.

The Northern Trust company has made a loan of $25,000 ten years at 6 per cent to the Chicago College of Dental Surgery on the property in Wood street, 62 feet south of Harrison street, 58x83 feet.

Peabody, Houghteling & Co. have made a bond issue loan of $40,000, six years, at 5½ per cent, to Gustav Ehrhardt on the Bon Air apartments, Winthrop and Leland avenues.

MISS HENRIETTA H. M'CORMICK WILL BE MARRIED SEPT. 15.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hall McCormick and Mr. Nelson B. Williams of New York to Be Wedded at Bar Harbor, Me.—Mr. Chauncey J. Blair and Son Leave Europe for America—Mrs. E. H. Haines Gives Tea in Honor of Miss Letitia Kee.

Miss Henrietta Hamilton McCormick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hall McCormick, 124 Rush street, will be married to Mr. Nelson B. Williams of New York on Saturday, Sept. 15. The wedding will take place at the McCormick residence, Mizzentop, at Bar Harbor, Me., and will be a small wedding, with few other than the members of the family present. The ceremony will be performed at 12:30 o'clock noon, and neither bride nor groom will be attended. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast will be served to a small number of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Williams will travel for some time before going to their future residence, Ridgewood Farm, Bedford, N. Y.

Chauncey J. Blair and his son, Chauncey B. Blair, sailed from Europe on Wednesday for New York. Young Mr. Blair is to enter Yale college, and, after a few days spent there with his son, Mr. Chauncey J. Blair will come to Chicago for a month's stay at the Auditorium Annex. Young Mr. Blair will spend the holidays with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mitchell, 2004 Calumet avenue. Miss Italia Blair will not come to America this winter. She will remain in Switzerland with her mother and sister at St. Moritz.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Keep and Miss Margaret Keep, 2825 Prairie avenue, will return from Camden, Me., the first week in October.

Mrs. E. H. Haines, 38 Astor street, gave a tea Wednesday afternoon in honor of Miss Letitia Kee, whose marriage to Mr. Arva J. Irvin, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Irvin, 2566 Ashland avenue, will take place on Sept. 15. Mrs. Haines was assisted by Miss Ruth Reddington, Miss Alice Barler, Miss Bessie Comstock, Miss Elsie Williams, Miss Harriet Goodridge, Miss Gertrude Kee, and Miss Isabel Irvin.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hess, 3736 Lake avenue, have issued cards announcing the marriage of their daughter, Margaret Hunt, to Mr. James Petrie, which took place on Tuesday at the Hess summer residence at Walloon lake, Mich.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Helen Orchard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Orchard, 2203 Orrington avenue, Evanston, to Mr. W. Stewart La Fresnaye of Winnipeg, Man. The wedding will take place at the residence on the evening of Sept. 19, the ceremony to be performed at 8 o'clock by the Rev. John H. Boyd. Miss Grace Orchard will attend her sister as maid of honor, and Miss Helen Record of Evanston and Miss Lillian Eckert of Woodstock, Ill., will stretch the ribbons. Little Catherine McCullock, Mabel Elmore, and Barbara Sheppard will attend as flower girls. Mr. Roland Stevens will act as best man, and the ushers will be Mr. Harold Allen of Chicago, Mr. Henry Stevens of Chicago, and Mr. James T. S. Orchard and Mr. John Orchard, brothers of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Leroy Mead have given up their apartment at 205 Goethe street, which has been taken by Mr. Thomas Fauntleroy of Lake Forest. Mr. and Mrs. Mead expect to spend the winter in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus E. Bournique and Miss Bournique, 51 Twenty-third street, who spent the summer camping in northern Wisconsin, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Lloyd, son, and daughter, of 2055 Kenmore avenue, have returned to the city after an enjoyable three months spent in Europe and on the continent.

Mrs. Mabelle Amanda Crossman, a pianist who has been identified with Chicago musical circles for two years, was married yesterday to Mr. Frank Cathcart of this city, in Marshall, Mich., the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Henry A. Clute. Mrs. Bloomfield-Zeisler attended the wedding.

THRONGS DRINK ON UNCLE SAM.

Federal Building's Superintendent Protests at Inrush of Thirsty Upon Artesian Fountain.

Thousands of Chicagoans visit the federal building every day to drink the artesian water on tap there and Maj. Haverstick, superintendent of government structures, protests.

"Why does not the city of Chicago establish public drinking fountains at street corners where the thirsty may go?" he asked yesterday, "and not leave the government to bear the burden."

At noon the corridor in which the fountain is situated is crowded with the thirsty. Maj. Haverstick said he has seen a line of men, women, and boys waiting their turn at the fountain, from twenty to thirty persons being in the string.

Men's "Best to Buy" Fall and Winter Suits

A Carefully Chosen Stock, $20.00 to $40.00

Men's ready-to-wear clothing that establishes a new record of individuality and exclusiveness, both in the patterns and styles. Equaling, as it does in every respect, the best grade of custom tailor work, it well merits the entire respect of the man who carefully discriminates in his choice of good clothes. Second floor.

Among the season's most popular fabrics that are represented are all-wool cassimeres and cheviots, velour finished and black unfinished and fancy worsteds—coats cut with or without vents. Trousers cut medium width—vest with and without collar. The prices represent commendable values—$20.00 to $40.00.

Medium and Light Weight Suits Very Much Reduced

There are many excellent values still in the few medium and light weight suits that are left in our spring and summer stocks. Many are heavy enough to wear late in the fall. There are nearly all sizes in each lot—$35.00 and $40.00 suits reduced to $24.50, and the $25.00 and $27.50 suits to $17.50.

"Fraternity Model" Suits for Young Men Are Ready

Suits that are especially desirable and popular to an extremely high degree among particular young men. They come in all the new shades in all-wool cassimeres, cheviots and velours—sizes range from 16 to 20 years—and the prices are moderate for the high quality and workmanship, namely, $16.00 to $25.00. Second floor.

"Best to Buy" Clothing for Boys

Fall and Winter Styles Are Ready

Clothing that will merit the greatest possible degree of confidence in quality and workmanship and at the same time please immeasurably with the styles—boys' clothing that will stand the strongest test that the younger element can be expected to subject it to. Second floor.

Double Breasted and Norfolk Suits.

Boys' double breasted and Norfolk suits with both plain and knickerbocker trousers, in all-wool fabrics and the newest shades of gray and fancy mixtures—also black and unfinished worsteds and blue serges. Sizes 8 to 17 years, at, each, $6.50, $7.50, $8.50, $10.00, $12.50 and $15.00.

Boys' sailor and Russian blouse suits, in sizes 2½ to 12 years, and priced at, each, $5.00 to $7.50.

The "Carson Special" Suit

The "Carson Special" is extremely popular with discriminating parents. It is made of all-wool fabrics in a pleasing variety of shades and comes in double-breasted and Norfolk styles. The trousers of the double-breasted suits have double knees and seat and all the seams are strongly taped and sewed with silk. Size 8 to 17 years. Priced at, each........................ $5.00
